STROM THURMOND NATIONAL DEFENSE AUTHORIZATION
ACT FOR FISCAL YEAR 1999

SEPTEMBER 22, 1998.—Ordered to be printed

Mr. SPENCE, from the committee of conference,

CONFERENCE REPORT

[To accompany H.R. 3616]

The committee of conference on the disagreeing votes of the two Houses on the amendment of the Senate to the bill (H.R. 3616) to authorize appropriations for fiscal year 1999 for military activities of the Department of Defense, for military construction, and for defense activities of the Department of Energy, to prescribe personnel strengths for such fiscal year for the Armed Forces, and for other purposes, having met, after full and free conference, have agreed to recommend and do recommend to their respective Houses as follows:

That the House recede from its disagreement to the amendment of the Senate and agree to the same with an amendment as follows:

In lieu of the matter proposed to be inserted by the Senate amendment, insert the following:

SECTION 1. SHORT TITLE; FINDINGS.

(a) SHORT TITLE.—This Act may be cited as the “Strom Thurmond National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 1999”.

(b) FINDINGS.—Congress makes the following findings:

(1) Senator Strom Thurmond of South Carolina first became a member of the Committee on Armed Services of the United States Senate on January 19, 1959. Senator Thurmond’s continuous service on that committee covers more than 75 percent of the period of the existence of the committee, which was established immediately after World War II, and more than 20 percent of the period of the existence of military and naval affairs committees of Congress, the original bodies of which were formed in 1816.

(2) Senator Thurmond came to Congress and the committee as a distinguished veteran of service, including combat service, in the Armed Forces of the United States.

(3) Senator Thurmond was commissioned as a reserve second lieutenant of infantry in 1924. He served with great distinction with the First Army in the European Theater of Operations during World War II, landing in Normandy in a glider with the 82nd Airborne Division on D-Day. He was transferred to the Pacific Theater of Operations at the end of the war in Europe and was serving in the Philippines when Japan surrendered.

(4) Having reverted to Reserve status at the end of World War II, Senator Thurmond was promoted to brigadier general in the United States Army Reserve in 1954. He served as President of the Reserve Officers Association beginning that same year and ending in 1955. Senator Thurmond was promoted to major general in the United States Army Reserve in 1959. He transferred to the Retired Reserve on January 1, 1965, after 36 years of commissioned service.

(5) The distinguished character of Senator Thurmond's military service has been recognized by awards of numerous decorations that include the Legion of Merit, the Bronze Star medal with "V" device, the Army Commendation Medal, the Belgian Cross of the Order of the Crown, and the French Croix de Guerre.

(6) Senator Thurmond has served as chairman of the Committee on Armed Services of the United States Senate since 1995 and served as the ranking minority member of the committee from 1993 to 1995. Senator Thurmond concludes his service as chairman at the end of the One Hundred Fifth Congress, but is to continue to serve the committee as a member in successive Congresses.

(7) This Act is the fortieth annual authorization bill for the Department of Defense for which Senator Thurmond has taken a major responsibility as a member of the Committee on Armed Services of the Senate.

(8) Senator Thurmond, as an Army officer and a legislator, has made matchless contributions to the national security of the United States that, in duration and in quality, are unique.

(9) It is altogether fitting and proper that this Act, the last annual authorization Act for the national defense that Senator Thurmond manages in and for the United States Senate as chairman of the Committee on Armed Services, be named in his honor, as provided in subsection (a).

(1) The factors and criteria considered in the process of determining the allocation of NROTC scholarships to host colleges and universities.

(3) The extent to which the process used by the Navy to allocate NROTC scholarships to participating colleges and universities contributes to optimizing resources available for the operation of the NROTC program and improving the professional education of NROTC midshipmen.

SEC. 744. REPORT ON IMPLEMENTATION OF ENROLLMENT-BASED CAPITATION FOR FUNDING FOR MILITARY MEDICAL TREATMENT FACILITIES.

(a) REPORT REQUIRED.—The Secretary of Defense shall submit to Congress a report on the potential impact of using an enrollment-based capitation methodology to allocate funds for military medical treatment facilities. The report shall address the following:

(1) A description of the plans of the Secretary to implement an enrollment-based capitation methodology for military medical treatment facilities and with respect to contracts for the delivery of health care under the TRICARE program.

(2) The justifications for implementing an enrollment-based capitation methodology without first conducting a demonstration project for implementation of such methodology.

(3) The impact that implementation of an enrollment based capitation methodology would have on the provision of space-available care at military medical treatment facilities, particularly in the case of care for—

(A) military retirees entitled who are entitled to hospital insurance benefits under part A of title XVIII of the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C. 1395c et seq.); and

(B) covered beneficiaries under chapter 55 of title 10, United States Code, who reside outside the catchment area of a military medical treatment facility.

(4) The impact that implementation of an enrollment-based capitation methodology would have with respect to the pharmacy benefits provided at military medical treatment facilities,

(5) An explanation of how additional funding will be provided for a military medical treatment facility if an enrollment-based capitation methodology is implemented to ensure that space-available care and pharmacy coverage can be provided to covered beneficiaries who are not enrolled at the military medical treatment facility, and the amount of funding that will be available.

(6) An explanation of how implementation of an enrollment-based capitation methodology would impact the provision of uniform benefits under TRICARE Prime, and how the Secretary would ensure, if such methodology were implemented, that the provision of health care under TRICARE Prime would not be bifurcated between the provision of such care at military medical treatment facilities and the provision of such care from civilian providers.

SEC. 745. JOINT DEPARTMENT OF DEFENSE AND DEPARTMENT OF VETERANS AFFAIRS REPORTS RELATING TO INTER-DEPARTMENTAL COOPERATION IN THE DELIVERY OF MEDICAL CARE.

(a) FINDINGS.—Congress makes the following findings:

(1) The military health care system of the Department of Defense and the Veterans Health Administration of the Department of Veterans Affairs are national institutions that collectively manage more than 1,500 hospitals, clinics, and health care facilities worldwide to provide services to more than 11,000,000 beneficiaries.

(2) In the post-Cold War era, these institutions are in a profound transition that involves challenging opportunities.

(3) During the period from 1988 to 1998, the number of military medical personnel has declined by 15 percent and the number of military hospitals has been reduced by one-third.

(4) During the two years since 1996, the Department of Veterans Affairs has revitalized its structure by decentralizing authority into 22 Veterans Integrated Service Networks.

(5) In the face of increasing costs of medical care, increased demands for health care services, and increasing budgetary constraints, the Department of Defense and the Department of Veterans Affairs have embarked on a variety of dynamic and innovative cooperative programs ranging from shared services to joint venture operations of medical facilities.

(6) In 1984, there was a combined total of 102 Department of Veterans Affairs and Department of Defense facilities with sharing agreements. By 1997, that number had grown to 420. During the six years from fiscal year 1992 through fiscal year 1997, shared services increased from slightly over 3,000 services to more than 6,000 services, ranging from major medical and surgical services, laundry, blood, and laboratory services to unusual speciality care services.

(7) The Department of Defense and the Department of Veterans Affairs are conducting four health care joint ventures in New Mexico, Nevada, Texas, and Oklahoma, and are planning to conduct four more such ventures in Alaska, Florida, Hawaii, and California.

(b) SENSE OF CONGRESS.—It is the sense of Congress that—

(1) the Department of Defense and the Department of Veterans Affairs should be commended for the cooperation between the two departments in the delivery of medical care, of which the cooperation involved in the establishment and operation of the Department of Defense and the Department of Veterans Affairs Executive Council is a praiseworthy example;

(2) the Department of Defense and the Department of Veterans Affairs are encouraged to continue to explore new opportunities to enhance the availability and delivery of medical care to beneficiaries by further enhancing the cooperative efforts of the departments; and

(3) enhanced cooperation between the Department of Defense and the Department of Veterans Affairs is encouraged regarding—

(A) the general areas of access to quality medical care, identification and elimination of impediments to enhanced cooperation, and joint research and program development; and

(B) the specific areas in which there is significant potential to achieve progress in cooperation in a short term, including computerization of patient records systems, participation of the Department of Veterans Affairs in the TRICARE program, pharmaceutical programs, and joint physical examinations.

(c) JOINT SURVEY OF POPULATIONS SERVED.—(1) The Secretary of Defense and the Secretary of Veterans Affairs shall jointly conduct a survey of their respective medical care beneficiary populations to identify, by category of beneficiary (defined as the Secretaries consider appropriate), the expectations of, requirements for, and behavior patterns of the beneficiaries with respect to medical care. The two Secretaries shall develop the protocol for the survey jointly, but shall obtain the services of an entity independent of the Department of Defense and the Department of Veterans Affairs to carry out the survey.

(2) The survey shall include the following:

(A) Demographic characteristics, economic characteristics, and geographic location of beneficiary populations with regard to catchment or service areas.

(B) The types and frequency of care required by veterans, retirees, and dependents within catchment or service areas of Department of Defense and Department of Veterans Affairs medical facilities and outside those areas.

(C) The numbers of, characteristics of, and types of medical care needed by the veterans, retirees, and dependents who, though eligible for medical care in Department of Defense or Department of Veterans Affairs treatment facilities or through other federally funded medical programs, choose not to seek medical care from those facilities or under those programs, and the reasons for that choice.

(D) The obstacles or disincentives for seeking medical care from such facilities or under such programs that are perceived by veterans, retirees, and dependents.

(E) Any other matters that the Secretary of Defense and the Secretary of Veterans Affairs consider appropriate for the survey.

(3) The Secretary of Defense or the Secretary of Veterans Affairs may waive the survey requirements under this subsection with respect to information that can be better obtained from a source other than the survey.

(4) The Secretary of Defense and the Secretary of Veterans Affairs shall submit a report on the results of the survey to the appropriate committees of Congress. The report shall contain the matters described in paragraph (2) and any proposals for legislation that the Secretaries recommend for enhancing Department of Defense and Department of Veterans Affairs cooperative efforts with respect to the delivery of medical care.

(d) REVIEW OF LAW AND POLICIES.—(1) The Secretary of Defense and the Secretary of Veterans Affairs shall jointly conduct a review to identify impediments to cooperation between the Department of Defense and the Department of Veterans Affairs regarding the delivery of medical care. The matters reviewed shall include the following:

(B) The requirements and practices involved in the credentialing and licensure of health care providers.

(C) The perceptions of beneficiaries in a variety of categories (defined as the Secretaries consider appropriate) regarding the various Federal health care systems available for their use.

(D) The types and frequency of medical services furnished by the Department of Defense and the Department of Veterans Affairs through cooperative arrangements to each category of beneficiary (including active-duty members, retirees, dependents, veterans in the health-care eligibility categories referred to as Category A and Category C, and persons authorized to receive medical care under section 1713 of title 38, United States Code) of the other department.

(E) The extent to which health care facilities of the Department of Defense and Department of Veterans Affairs have sufficient capacity, or could jointly or individually create sufficient capacity, to provide services to beneficiaries of the other department without diminution of access or services to their primary beneficiaries.

(F) The extent to which the recruitment of scarce medical specialists and allied health personnel by the Department of Defense and the Department of Veterans Affairs could be enhanced through cooperative arrangements for providing health care services.

(G) The obstacles and disincentives to providing health care services through cooperative arrangements between the Department of Defense and the Department of Veterans Affairs.

(2) The Secretaries shall jointly submit a report on the results of the review to the appropriate committees of Congress. The report shall include any proposals for legislation that the Secretaries recommend for eliminating or reducing impediments to interdepartmental cooperation that are identified during the review.

(e) PARTICIPATION IN TRICARE.—(1) The Secretary of Defense shall review the TRICARE program to identify opportunities for increased participation by the Department of Veterans Affairs in that program. The ongoing collaboration between Department of Defense officials and Department of Veterans Affairs officials regarding increased participation shall be included among the matters reviewed.

(2) The Secretary of Defense and the Secretary of Veterans Affairs shall jointly submit to the appropriate committees of Congress a semiannual report on the status of the review under this subsection and on efforts to increase the participation of the Department of Veterans Affairs in the TRICARE program. No report is required under this paragraph after the submission of a semiannual report in which the Secretaries declare that the Department of Veterans Affairs is participating in the TRICARE program to the extent that can reasonably be expected to be attained.

(f) PHARMACEUTICAL BENEFITS AND PROGRAMS.—(1) The Department of Defense—Department of Veterans Affairs Federal Pharmacy Executive Steering Committee shall—

In conducting such research, the Secretary shall consider not only the current state of the domestic market for finance and accounting services, but also the potential effects that the entry of the Department of Defense as a large, long-term consumer of such services might have on that market.

Subtitle C—Joint Warfighting Experimentation

SEC. 921. FINDINGS CONCERNING JOINT WARFIGHTING EXPERIMENTATION.

Congress makes the following findings:

(1) The assessments of the Quadrennial Defense Review and the National Defense Panel provide a compelling argument—

(A) that the security environment in the early 21st century will include fundamentally different military challenges than the security environment in the late 20th century; and

(B) reinforce the premise of the Goldwater-Nichols Department of Defense Reorganization Act of 1986 that future warfare will require more effective joint operational concepts.

(2) Joint experimentation is necessary for—

(A) integrating advances in technology with changes in organizational structure and joint operational concepts; and

(B) determining the interdependent aspects of joint warfare that are key for transforming the conduct of military operations to meet future challenges successfully.

(3) It is essential that an energetic and innovative organization be established in the Department of Defense with the authority (subject to the authority and guidance of the Secretary of Defense and Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff) to design and implement a process of joint experimentation to investigate and test technologies and alternative forces and concepts in field environments under realistic conditions against the full range of future challenges to assist in developing and validating new joint warfighting concepts and transforming the Armed Forces to meet the threats to national security anticipated for the early 21st century.

SEC. 922. SENSE OF CONGRESS CONCERNING JOINT WARFIGHTING EXPERIMENTATION.

(a) DESIGNATION OF COMMANDER TO HAVE JOINT WARFIGHTING EXPERIMENTATION MISSION.—It is the sense of Congress that the initiative of the Secretary of Defense to designate the commander of a combatant command to have the mission of joint warfighting experimentation is a key step in exploiting the potential of advanced technologies, new organizational structures, and new joint operational concepts to transform the conduct of military operations by the Armed Forces.

(b) RESOURCES AND AUTHORITY OF COMMANDER.—It is, further, the sense of Congress that the commander of the combatant command referred to in subsection (a) should be provided with appropriate and sufficient resources for joint warfighting experimentation and with the appropriate authority to execute the commander's assigned responsibilities and that such authority should include the following:

(1) Planning, preparing, and conducting the program of joint warfighting experimentation, which program should include analyses, simulations, wargames, experiments, advanced concept technology demonstrations, joint exercises conducted in virtual and field environments, and, as a particularly critical aspect, assessments of "red team" vulnerability.

(2) Developing scenarios and measures of effectiveness to meet the operational challenges expected to be encountered in the early 21st century and assessing the effectiveness of current and new organizational structures, operational concepts, and technologies in addressing those challenges.

(3) Integrating and testing in joint experimentation the systems and concepts that result from warfighting experimentation conducted by the Armed Forces and the Defense Agencies.

(4) Coordinating with each of the Armed Forces and Defense Agencies regarding the development and acquisition of equipment (including surrogate or real technologies, platforms, and systems), supplies, and services necessary for joint experimentation.

(5) Providing the Secretary of Defense and the Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff with recommendations, based on the conduct of joint warfighting experimentation, for—

(A) improving interoperability;

- (B) reducing unnecessary redundancy;
- (C) synchronizing technology fielding;
- (D) developing joint operational concepts;
- (E) prioritizing the most promising joint capabilities for future experimentation; and
- (F) prioritizing joint requirements and acquisition programs.

(6) Making recommendations to the Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff on mission needs statements and operational requirements documents.

(c) CONGRESSIONAL REVIEW.—It is, further, the sense of Congress that Congress—

(1) should review the adequacy of the process of transformation to meet future challenges to the national security; and

(2) if progress is determined inadequate, should consider legislation to—

(A) establish an appropriate organization to conduct the mission described in subsection (a); and

(B) provide to the commander given the responsibility for that mission appropriate and sufficient resources for joint warfighting experimentation and the appropriate authority to execute that commander's assigned responsibilities for that mission, including the authorities specified in subsection (b).

SEC. 923. REPORTS ON JOINT WARFIGHTING EXPERIMENTATION.

(a) INITIAL REPORT.—(1) The commander of the combatant command assigned by the Secretary of Defense to have the mission for joint warfighting experimentation shall submit to the Secretary an initial report on the implementation of joint experimentation. Not later than April 1, 1999, the Secretary shall submit that report, together with any comments that the Secretary considers appropriate and any comments that the Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff considers appropriate, to the Committee on Armed Services of the Senate and the Committee on National Security of the House of Representatives.

(2) The report of the commander under paragraph (1) shall include the commander's assessment of the following:

(A) The authority and responsibilities of the commander as described in section 922(b).

(B) The organization of the commander's combatant command, and of its staff, for carrying out the joint warfighting experimentation mission.

(C) The process established for tasking forces to participate in experimentation and the commander's specific authority over those forces, including forces designated as joint experimentation forces.

(D) The resources provided for initial implementation of joint warfighting experimentation, the process for providing those resources to the commander, the categories of the funding, and the authority of the commander for budget execution.

(E) The process established for the development and acquisition of the materiel, supplies, services, and equipment necessary for the conduct of joint warfighting experimentation.

(G) The role assigned the commander for—

(i) integrating and testing in joint warfighting experimentation the systems that emerge from warfighting experimentation by the Armed Forces or the Defense Agencies;

(ii) assessing the effectiveness of organizational structures, operational concepts, and technologies; and

(iii) assisting the Secretary of Defense and Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff to prioritize requirements or acquisition programs.

(a) REDUCTION OF DEFENSE ACQUISITION AND SUPPORT WORKFORCE.—The Secretary of Defense shall accomplish reductions in defense acquisition and support personnel positions during fiscal year 1999 so that the total number of such personnel as of October 1, 1999, is less than the total number of such personnel as of October 1, 1998, by at least the applicable number determined under subsection (b).

(b) REQUIRED REDUCTION.—(1) The applicable number for purposes of subsection (a) is 25,000. However, the Secretary of Defense may specify a lower number, which may not be less than 12,500, as the applicable number for purposes of subsection (a) if the Secretary determines, and certifies to Congress not later than May 1, 1999, that an applicable number greater than the number specified by the Secretary would be inconsistent with the cost-effective management of the defense acquisition system to obtain best value equipment and with ensuring military readiness.

(2) The Secretary shall include with such a certification a report setting forth a detailed explanation of each of the matters certified. The report shall include—

(A) a detailed explanation of all matters incorporated in the Secretary’s determination;

Subtitle A—United States Armed Forces in Bosnia and Herzegovina

SEC. 1201. FINDINGS.

Congress makes the following findings:

(1) The contributions of the people of the United States and other nations have, in large measure, resulted in the suspension of fighting and alleviated the suffering of the people of Bosnia and Herzegovina since December 1995.

(2) The United States has expended approximately $9,500,000,000 between 1992 and mid-1998 just in support of the United States military operations in Bosnia to achieve those results.

(3) Efforts to restore the economy and political structure in Bosnia and Herzegovina have achieved some success in accordance with the Dayton Accords.

(4) On March 3, 1998, the President certified to Congress (A) that the continued presence of United States forces in Bosnia and Herzegovina after June 30, 1998, was required in order to meet the national security interests of the United States, and (B) that United States Armed Forces will not serve as, or be used as, civil police in Bosnia and Herzegovina.

(5) With that certification, the President submitted to Congress a report stating that the goal of the military presence in Bosnia and Herzegovina is to establish the conditions under which implementation of the Dayton Accords can continue without the support of a major NATO-led military force and setting forth the criteria for determining when that goal has been accomplished.

(6) Since the administration has not specified how long achievement of that goal is expected to take, the mission of United States ground combat forces in Bosnia and Herzegovina is essentially of indefinite duration.

(7) The NATO operations plan for the Stabilization Force (Operations Plan 10407, which went into effect on June 20, 1998, after approval by allied foreign ministers) incorporates all of the benchmarks set forth in the report referred to in paragraph (5) and states that the Stabilization Force will develop detailed criteria for assessing progress in achieving those benchmarks in close coordination with key international organizations participating in civilian implementation of the Dayton Accords.

(8) The military representatives of NATO member nations have been tasked by the North Atlantic Council to provide estimates of the time likely to be required for implementation of the Dayton Accords.

(9) NATO has decided to conduct formal reviews when appropriate (but at intervals of not more than six months) to assess the security situation and the progress being made in the implementation of the civil aspects of the Dayton Accords. Those reviews will enable the Alliance to make decisions as to reductions in the size of the Stabilization Force, leading to its eventual full withdrawal.

(10) NATO has approved the creation of a multinational specialized unit of gendarmes or paramilitary police composed of European security forces to help promote public security in Bosnia and Herzegovina as a part of the post-June 1998 mission for the Stabilization Force.

(11) The limit established for spending by the United States for the defense discretionary budget category for fiscal year 1998 in the Balanced Budget and Emergency Deficit Control Act of 1985 does not take into account the continued deployment of United States forces in Bosnia and Herzegovina after June 30, 1998, leading to the request by the President for emergency supplemental appropriations for the Bosnia and Herzegovina mission through September 30, 1998.

(12) Amounts for Department of Defense operations in Bosnia and Herzegovina during fiscal year 1999 were not included in the budget of the President for fiscal year 1999, as submitted to Congress on February 2, 1998.

(13) The President requested $1,858,600,000 in emergency appropriations in his March 4, 1998, amendment to the fiscal year 1999 budget to cover the shortfall in funding in fiscal year 1999 for the costs of extending the mission in Bosnia.

SEC. 1202. SENSE OF CONGRESS.

(a) SENSE OF CONGRESS CONCERNING UNITED STATES FORCES AND ACCOMPLISHMENT OF TASKS IN BOSNIA AND HERZEGOVINA.—It is the sense of Congress that—

(1) United States ground combat forces should not remain in Bosnia and Herzegovina indefinitely in view of the worldwide commitments of the Armed Forces of the United States;

(2) the President should work with NATO allies and the other nations whose military forces are participating in the NATO-led Stabilization Force to withdraw United States ground combat forces from Bosnia and Herzegovina within a reasonable period of time, consistent with the safety of those forces and the accomplishment of the Stabilization Force's military tasks;

(3) a NATO-led force without the participation of United States ground combat forces in Bosnia and Herzegovina might be suitable for a follow-on force for Bosnia and Herzegovina if the European Security and Defense Identity is not sufficiently developed or is otherwise considered inappropriate for such a mission; and

(4) the United States may decide to provide appropriate support to a Western European Union-led or NATO-led follow-on force for Bosnia and Herzegovina, including command and control, intelligence, logistics, and, if necessary, a ready reserve force in the region.

(b) SENSE OF CONGRESS CONCERNING PRESIDENTIAL ACTIONS.—It is the sense of Congress that the President—

(1) should inform the European NATO allies of the expression of the sense of Congress in subsection (a) and should strongly urge them to undertake preparations for establishing a Western European Union-led or a NATO-led force as a follow-on force to the Stabilization Force if needed to maintain peace and stability in Bosnia and Herzegovina; and

(2) should consult closely with the congressional leadership and the congressional defense committees with respect to the progress being made toward achieving a sustainable peace in Bosnia and Herzegovina and the progress being made toward a reduction and ultimate withdrawal of United States ground combat forces from Bosnia and Herzegovina.

(c) SENSE OF CONGRESS CONCERNING DEFENSE BUDGET.—It is the sense of Congress that—

(1) the President should include in the budget for the Department of Defense that the President submits to Congress under section 1105(a) of title 31, United States Code, for each fiscal year sufficient amounts to pay for any proposed continu- ation of the participation of United States forces in NATO operations in Bosnia and Herzegovina during that fiscal year; and

(2) amounts included in the budget for the purpose stated in paragraph (1) should be over and above the defense discretionary estimates as identified in the Bipartisan Budget Agreement of May 16, 1997 and the fiscal year 1998 concurrent budget resolution and not be transferred from amounts in the budget of any other agency of the executive branch, but instead should be an overall increase in the budget for the Department of Defense and the discretionary spending limits in the Balanced Budget Act of 1997.

(a) REQUIRED REPORTS.—The President shall ensure that the semiannual reports required by section 7(b) of the general provisions of chapter I of the 1998 Supplemental Appropriations and Rescissions Act (Public Law 105–174; 112 Stat. 64) are submitted to Congress in a timely manner as long as United States ground combat forces continue to participate in the Stabilization Force (SFOR). In addition, whenever the President submits to Congress a request for funds for continued operations of United States forces in Bosnia and Herzegovina, the President shall submit a supplemental report providing information to update Congress on developments since the last semiannual report.

(A) the assumption of all remaining military missions inside Bosnia and Herzegovina by European military and paramilitary forces; and

(B) the establishment and support of a forward-based United States rapid response force outside of Bosnia and Herzegovina that would be capable of deploying rapidly to defeat military threats to a European follow-on force inside Bosnia and Herzegovina and of providing whatever logistical, intelligence, and air support is needed to ensure that a European follow-on force is fully capable of accomplishing its missions under the Dayton Accords.

(a) REPORT ON EFFECTS ON CAPABILITIES OF UNITED STATES MILITARY FORCES.—Not later than December 15, 1998, the Secretary of Defense shall submit to the congressional defense committees a report on the effects of military operations in Bosnia and Herzegovina and the Balkans region on the capabilities of United States military forces. (a) FINDINGS.—Congress makes the following findings:

(1) On May 3, 1994, the President issued Presidential Decision Directive 25 declaring that American participation in United Nations and other peace operations would depend in part on whether the role of United States forces is tied to clear objectives and an endpoint for United States participation can be identified.

(2) Between that date and mid-1998, the President and other executive branch officials have obligated or requested appropriations of approximately $9,400,000,000 for military-related operations throughout Bosnia and Herzegovina without providing to Congress, in conjunction with the budget submission for any fiscal year, a strategic plan for such operations under the criteria set forth in that Presidential Decision Directive.

Section 1302 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 1998 (Public Law 105–85; 111 Stat. 1948) is amended—

- (1) in subsections (a), (b), and (c)(2), by striking out “during fiscal year 1998” and inserting in lieu thereof “during the strategic delivery systems retirement limitation period”;
- (2) in subsection (c)(1), by striking out “during fiscal year 1998”;

- (4) by adding at the end the following new subsection:

“(g) STRATEGIC DELIVERY SYSTEMS RETIREMENT LIMITATION PERIOD.—For purposes of this section, the term “strategic delivery systems retirement limitation period” means the period of fiscal years 1998 and 1999.”.

SEC. 1502. TRANSMISSION OF EXECUTIVE BRANCH REPORTS PROVIDING CONGRESS WITH CLASSIFIED SUMMARIES OF ARMS CONTROL DEVELOPMENTS.

(a) REPORTING REQUIREMENT.—The Director of the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency (or the Secretary of State, if the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency becomes an element of the Department of State) shall transmit to the Committee on National Security of the House of Representatives on a periodic basis reports containing classified summaries of arms control developments.

(b) CONTENTS OF REPORTS.—The reports required by subsection (a) shall include information reflecting the activities of forums established to consider issues relating to treaty implementation and treaty compliance.

SEC. 1503. REPORT ON ADEQUACY OF EMERGENCY COMMUNICATIONS CAPABILITIES BETWEEN UNITED STATES AND RUSSIA.

Not later than three months after the date of the enactment of this Act, the Secretary of Defense shall submit to the Committee on Armed Services of the Senate and the Committee on National Security of the House of Representatives a report on the status and adequacy of current direct communications capabilities between the governments of the United States and Russia. The report shall identify each existing direct communications link between those governments and each such link that is designed to be used, or is available to be used, in an emergency situation. The Secretary shall describe in the report any shortcomings with the existing communications capabilities and shall include such proposals as the Secretary considers appropriate to improve those capabilities. In considering improvements to propose, the Secretary shall assess the feasibility and desirability of establishing a direct communications link between the commanders of appropriate United States unified and specified commands, including the United States Space Command and the United States Strategic Command, and their Russian counterparts.

SEC. 1504. RUSSIAN NONSTRATEGIC NUCLEAR WEAPONS.

(a) FINDINGS.—The Congress makes the following findings:

(1) The 7,000 to 12,000 or more nonstrategic (or “tactical”) nuclear weapons estimated by the United States Strategic Command to be in the Russian arsenal may present the greatest threat of sale or theft of a nuclear warhead in the world today.

(2) As the number of deployed strategic warheads in the Russian and United States arsenals declines to just a few thousand under the START accords, Russia’s vast superiority in tactical nuclear warheads—many of which have yields equivalent to strategic nuclear weapons—could become strategically destabilizing.

(3) While the United States has unilaterally reduced its inventory of tactical nuclear weapons by nearly 90 percent since the end of the Cold War, Russia is behind schedule in implementing the steep tactical nuclear arms reductions pledged by former Soviet President Gorbachev in 1991 and Russian President Yeltsin in 1992, perpetuating the dangers from Russia's tactical nuclear stockpile.

(b) SENSE OF CONGRESS.—It is the sense of Congress that the President should call on Russia to expedite reduction of its tactical nuclear arsenal in accordance with the promises made in 1991 and 1992.

(c) REPORT.—Not later than March 15, 1999, the Secretary of Defense shall submit to Congress a report on the nonstrategic nuclear weapons of Russia. The report shall include—

(1) estimates regarding the current numbers, types, yields, viability, and locations of those weapons;

(2) an assessment of the strategic implications of Russia's nonstrategic arsenal, including the potential use of those weapons in a strategic role or the use of their components in strategic nuclear systems and the potential of Russian superiority in tactical nuclear weapons to destabilize the overall nuclear balance as strategic nuclear weapons are sharply reduced under the START accords;

(3) an assessment of the extent of the current threat of theft, sale, or unauthorized use of the warheads of those weapons, including an analysis of Russian command and control as it concerns the use of tactical nuclear weapons;

(4) a summary of past, current, and planned efforts to work cooperatively with Russia to account for, secure, and reduce Russia's stockpile of tactical nuclear weapons and associated fissile material;

(5) a summary of how the United States would prevent, or plans to cope militarily with, scenarios in which a deterioration in relations with Moscow causes Russia to redeploy tactical nuclear weapons or in which Russia threatens to employ, or actually employs, tactical nuclear weapons in a local or regional conflict involving the United States or allies of the United States; and

(6) an assessment of the steps that could be taken by the United States to enhance military preparedness in order (A) to deter any potential attempt by Russia to possibly exploit its advantage in tactical nuclear weapons through coercive "nuclear diplomacy" or on the battlefield, or (B) to counter Russia if Russia should make such an attempt to exploit its advantage in tactical nuclear weapons.

(d) VIEWS.—The Secretary of Defense shall include in the report under subsection (c) the views of the Director of Central Intelligence and of the commander of the United States Strategic Command.

Subtitle B—Satellite Export Controls

SEC. 1511. SENSE OF CONGRESS.

It is the sense of Congress that—

(1) United States business interests must not be placed above United States national security interests;

(2) United States foreign policy and the policies of the United States regarding commercial relations with other countries should affirm the importance of observing and adhering to the Missile Technology Control Regime (MTCR);

(3) the United States should encourage universal observance of the Guidelines to the Missile Technology Control Regime;

(4) the exportation or transfer of advanced communication satellites and related technologies from United States sources to foreign recipients should not increase the risks to the national security of the United States;

(5) due to the military sensitivity of the technologies involved, it is in the national security interests of the United States that United States satellites and related items be subject to the same export controls that apply under United States law and practices to munitions;

(6) the United States should not issue any blanket waiver of the suspensions contained in section 902 of the Foreign Relations Authorization Act, Fiscal Years 1990 and 1991 (Public Law 101-246), regarding the export of satellites of United States origin intended for launch from a launch vehicle owned by the People's Republic of China;

(7) the United States should pursue policies that protect and enhance the United States space launch industry; and

(8) the United States should not export to the People's Republic of China missile equipment or technology that would improve the missile or space launch capabilities of the People's Republic of China.

SEC. 1512. CERTIFICATION OF EXPORTS OF MISSILE EQUIPMENT OR TECHNOLOGY TO CHINA.

The President shall certify to the Congress at least 15 days in advance of any export to the People's Republic of China of missile equipment or technology (as defined in section 74 of the Arms Export Control Act (22 U.S.C. 2797c)) that—

(1) such export is not detrimental to the United States space launch industry; and

(B) by striking out “(a) DEFENSE TRADE CONTROLS REGISTRATION FEES.—”; and

(2) by striking out subsection (b).

(c) EFFECTIVE DATE.—(1) Subsection (a) shall take effect on March 15, 1999, and shall not apply to any export license issued before such effective date or to any export license application made under the Export Administration Regulations before such effective date.

(2) The amendments made by subsection (b) shall be effective as of October 1, 1998.

(d) REPORT.—Not later than January 1, 1999, the Secretary of State, in consultation with the Secretary of Defense and the Secretary of Commerce, shall submit to Congress a report containing—

(1) a detailed description of the plans of the Department of State to implement the requirements of this section, including any organizational changes that are required and any Executive orders or regulations that may be required;

JOINT EXPLANATORY STATEMENT OF THE COMMITTEE OF CONFERENCE

The managers on the part of the House and the Senate at the conference on the disagreeing votes of the two Houses on the amendment of the Senate to the bill (H.R. 3616) to authorize appropriations for fiscal year 1999 for military activities of the Department of Defense, for military construction, and for defense programs of the Department of Energy, to prescribe personnel strengths for such fiscal year for the Armed Forces, and for other purposes, submit the following joint statement to the House and the Senate in explanation of the effect of the action agreed upon by the managers and recommended in the accompanying conference report:

The Senate amendment struck out all of the House bill after the enacting clause and inserted a substitute text.

The House recedes from its disagreement to the amendment of the Senate with an amendment which is a substitute for the House bill and the Senate amendment. The differences between the House bill, the Senate amendment, and the substitute agreed to in conference are noted below, except for clerical corrections, conforming changes made necessary by agreements reached by the conferees, and minor drafting and clarifying changes.

SUMMARY STATEMENT OF CONFERENCE ACTION

The conferees recommend authorizations for the Department of Defense for procurement, research and development, test and evaluation, operation and maintenance, working capital funds, military construction and family housing, weapons programs of the Department of Energy, and the civil defense that have budget authority implications of $270.5 billion.

SUMMARY TABLE OF AUTHORIZATIONS

The defense authorization act provides authorizations for appropriations but does not generally provide budget authority. Budget authority is provided in appropriations acts.

In order to relate the conference recommendations to the Budget Resolution, matter in addition to the dollar authorizations contained in this bill must be taken into account. A number of programs in the defense function are authorized permanently or, in certain instances, authorized in other annual legislation. In addition, this authorization bill would establish personnel levels and include a number of legislative provisions affecting military compensation.

The following table summarizes authorizations included in the bill for fiscal year 1999 and, in addition, summarizes the implications of the conference action for the budget totals for national defense (budget function 050).

The House bill would authorize the budget request.

The Senate amendment would authorize a decrease of $16.5 million, which would eliminate the procurement of extended range rockets due to excessively high component cost issues.

The conferees agree to authorize a decrease of $16.5 million and eliminate procurement of MLRS rockets in fiscal year 1999.

Multiple launch rocket system launcher

The budget request included $85.4 million for multiple launch rocket system (MLRS) launchers.

The House bill would authorize a total increase of $40.0 million, as follows:

- (1) a decrease of $10.0 million for engineering services; and

The conferees agree to authorize an increase of $45.0 million to continue modernization of ARNG MLRS battalions, of which $21.0 million is to be used for ASIOE for two MLRS battalions and $24.0 million to procure new launchers. The conferees have learned that the Army has recently announced a change in MLRS force structure which will reduce the size of current MLRS battalions from 27 launchers per battalion to 18 launchers. When fully implemented, this action will make available sufficient MLRS launchers to complete the fielding of the remaining 11 Corps artillery battalion in the ARNG. The conferees note, however, that the "cascading" of these MLRS launchers to the ARNG will require associated support items of equipment (ASIOE) for which there is no funding currently available and that seven MLRS battalions of ARNG heavy divisions remain unfunded.

M830A1 120mm tank ammunition

The budget request included no funds for procurement of M830A1 120mm tank ammunition.

The House bill would authorize an increase of $10.0 million to procure M830A1 rounds.

The Senate bill would authorize an increase of $15.0 million to procure 4,500 M830A1 rounds to replace a like number of war reserve M830A1's which are being converted to the XM908 obstacle demolition configuration.

The conferees agree to authorize an increase of $15.0 million to procure 4,500 M830A1 rounds.

The conferees are aware that the Army has a requirement for more obstacle demolition rounds. The conferees believe that the Army should undertake a thorough review of its requirement for these rounds and include them in its budget request for fiscal year 2000.

Overview

The budget request for fiscal year 1999 contained an authorization of $3,198.8 million for Other Procurement, Army in the Department of Defense. The House bill would authorize $3,136.9 million. The Senate amendment would authorize $3,556.9 million. The conferees recommended an authorization of $3,344.9 million. Unless noted explicitly in the statement of managers, all changes are made without prejudice.

Strategic sealift

The budget request included $251.4 million in the Shipbuilding and Conversion, Navy (SCN) account for one large medium-speed roll-on/roll-off (LMSR) strategic sealift ship. Section 2218 of title 10, United States Code, establishes the National Defense Sealift Fund (NDSF) to fund construction of sealift vessels.

The House bill and the Senate amendment would authorize the procurement of one LMSR and the $251.4 million requested for that purpose, but would provide that authorization for the NDSF account.

The conferees agree to authorize $251.4 million for the NDSF for construction of one LMSR.

Landing craft air cushion service life extension program

The budget request included no funds for landing craft air cushion (LCAC) service life extension program (SLEP).

The House bill and the Senate amendment would authorize an increase of $16.0 million for the service life extension of two LCAC's.

The conferees agree to authorize an increase of $16.0 million for LCAC SLEP.

Navy shipbuilding outfitting

The budget request included $95.7 million for outfitting new construction Navy ships with the initial equipment and spare parts required to operate.

The House bill would authorize a decrease of $7.7 million.

The Senate amendment would authorize the budget request.

The conferees agree to authorize a decrease of $3.0 million due to ship delivery schedule slippages and the concomitant reduced requirements.

Navy shipbuilding post delivery

The budget request included $123.3 million for new construction ships' post delivery correction of deficiencies.

The House bill would authorize a decrease of $8.3 million.

The Senate amendment would authorize the budget request.

The conferees agree to authorize a decrease of $6.0 million.

Overview

The budget request for fiscal year 1999 contained an authorization of $3,937.7 million for Other Procurement, Navy in the Department of Defense. The House bill would authorize $3,969.5 million. The Senate amendment would authorize $4,040.0 million. The conferees recommended an authorization of $4,043.0 million. Unless noted explicitly in the statement of managers, all changes are made without prejudice.

Cooperative engagement capability

The budget request included $47.3 million for procurement and installation of four cooperative engagement capability (CEC) systems and $131.6 million in PE 63658N for CEC demonstration and validation. Within the amount requested in PE 63658N, $38.8 million was included for identification and resolution of interoperability problems in the E-2C aircraft.

The House bill would authorize an increase of $35.0 million for procurement and installation of five additional CEC systems to meet training and operational requirements. The House bill would also authorize an increase of $20.0 million to correct deficiencies discovered during the initial operational test and evaluation of the system, and support follow-on testing in preparation for the interoperability test that would involve two carrier battle groups. It would also authorize an increase of $6.0 million for continued development of the CEC test and evaluation system and linking that system to the military test and training ranges infrastructure.

The Senate amendment would authorize the budget request.

During congressional review of the fiscal year 1999 budget request, the Navy advised the defense authorization committees of interoperability problems between the Advanced Combat Direction System Block 1 (the new combat direction system for large deck ships such as aircraft carriers) and the AEGIS Baseline 6 software (which includes the CEC). These problems occurred during operational test and evaluation of the ACDS Block 1 system, and resulted in the Commander, Operational Test and Evaluation Force, declaring that the ACDS Block 1 system was not operationally suitable or effective for deployment with the fleet and that interoperability problems were exacerbated by the CEC. Fleet reports have also indicated similar interoperability problems. In addition, ongoing developmental testing of the AEGIS Baseline 6 Phase I software during early 1998 indicated that the software was immature.

The conferees view these and previously identified relay aircraft interoperability problems and their effect on the fleet, the CEC, ship self defense, and Navy theater ballistic missile defense programs with great concern. The conferees recognize that the problems may result in part from efforts to accelerate the CEC program by shortcutting a systematic process for software development, verification, and validation. To resolve these problems, the conferees have been advised that the Navy is developing a program that will focus on interoperability issues to support carrier battle group deployments and for the longer-term, a force level process to coordinate requirements, development, investments, and installation of new system capabilities in the fleet. Key to the process will be: (1) development of a single common combat direction system equipment and computing architecture that will be able to adapt to technology changes more efficiently; and (2) establishment of an enhanced shore based testing capability that will allow force level interoperability testing ashore, before deployment of new system capabilities to the fleet.

The conferees believe that the Navy has not yet fully assessed the magnitude of the CEC/combat direction system interoperability problem and its effect on other development programs or on the fleet. Additional system development may be required as the Navy assesses and defines the overall magnitude of the system interoperability and software maturity problems. Clear and unambiguous system integration responsibilities and accountability for management of the program to resolve the problems are required.

The conferees agree to authorize an increase of $26.0 million in PE 63658N for research and development and an increase of $35.0 million in Other Procurement, Navy for procurement of CEC systems.

The conferees understand that the Navy may need to realign fiscal year 1999 CEC funding to implement a program to resolve the interoperability problems. Should the Navy's assessment of the program requirements indicate that realignment is necessary, the conferees encourage the Secretary of Defense to submit a reprogramming request promptly to the congressional defense committees.

Given the seriousness of the interoperability problems and the potential effects on numerous other important Navy and Defense programs, the conferees direct the Secretary of the Navy to report to the congressional defense committees at least quarterly on CEC/combat direction system interoperability problems and planned solutions.

Integration and test facility command and control initiative

The budget request included no funds for upgrading capabilities at the Navy's east coast in-service engineering Space Warfare System Center (SWSC).

The Senate amendment would authorize an increase of $4.0 million for engineering design; hardware and software procurement; and installation, testing, and documentation of the additional technical networking infrastructure for continued development of the SWSC's Integrated Products Center. Of this amount, $2.0 million would be for procurement and $2.0 million would be for operation and maintenance.

The House bill would authorize the budget request.

The House recedes.

The conferees continue to support this program and appreciate Marine Corps efforts to keep Congress informed on issues associated with the fielding of the lightweight 155mm howitzer. Actions taken to date have resulted in a complete change of contractor management staff and will likely result in a two-year delay for the program. As a result, procurement funding requested for fiscal year 1999 is no longer required.

Section 905 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 1998 transferred the program management responsibilities of the Defense Airborne Reconnaissance Office (DARO) to the military services, while retaining Office of the Secretary of Defense (OSD)-level oversight responsibilities for determining airborne reconnaissance architecture and systems interface requirements.

The table reflects both transfers and adjustments made by the conferees.

The House bill would authorize an increase of $3.0 million to replace existing displays in EP-3 aircraft with flat panel displays.

The Senate amendment would authorize an increase of $2.0 million for spares to support the operational deployment of an EP-3 aircraft to evaluate the high band prototype of the joint signals intelligence avionics family (JSAF).

The conferees agree to authorize an increase of $3.5 million for the EP-3, $1.5 million for flat panel displays, and $2.0 million for spares support.

RC-135

The budget request included $139.2 million for various modifications for DARP aircraft in Aircraft Procurement, Air Force (APAF).

The House bill would authorize the budget request.

The Senate amendment would authorize an increase of $68.0 million in the DARP, including: $56.0 million for two re-enginings, and $12.0 million to transfer the theater airborne warning system (TAWS) medium-wave infrared (MIRA) technology from the Cobra Ball program to Rivet Joint program. The Senate report (S. Rept. 105-189) would require successful completion of Cobra Ball integration testing and submission of a report on the test results to the congressional defense committees before obligation of the additional funds.

The conferees agree to authorize an increase of $30.0 million for DARP, including: $28.0 million to re-engine one RC-135 aircraft, and $2.0 million to complete the TAWS and to upgrade the MIRA sensors. In addition, the conferees understand that $3.3 million authorized in the General Defense Intelligence Program in fiscal year 1998 for the development of a Cobra Ball radar ranging system remains unobligated. The conferees recommend that the unobligated $3.3 million authorized for fiscal year 1998 also be used to complete the TAWS development and upgrade the MIRA sensors on the Cobra Ball aircraft.

The conferees do not agree to a transfer of this technology to the Rivet Joint fleet until the Cobra Ball integration is complete and test results clearly show that this transfer will provide a viable augmentation to the Defense Support Program (DSP). Further, the conferees endorse the requirement in the Senate report that the Department submit a report on the test results to the congressional defense committees before obligating the extra TAWS funding authorized in this bill.

RC-135 COMBAT SENT

The budget request included $12.7 million in Other Procurement, Air Force for RC-135 ground support equipment.

The House bill would authorize an increase of $3.8 million for the RC-135 Combat Sent ground support system improvements.

The Senate amendment would authorize the budget request.

The conferees agree to authorize an increase of $3.8 million.

U-2 PROCUREMENT

The budget request included $152.1 million in DARP modifications in APAF.

The House bill would authorize a decrease of $10.3 million for U-2 procurement, transferring these funds to the Advanced Synthetic Aperture Radar System Improvement program (AIP).

The Senate amendment would authorize an increase of $17 million for U-2 procurement to continue the reliability and maintainability (R&M) conversion of 11 Senior Glass systems for the U-2.

The conferees agree to the AIP transfer and to authorize an increase of $7.5 million for R&M conversion of Senior Glass systems for the U-2 in the research and development program Manned Reconnaissance Systems (PE 35207F).

OTHER

The budget request included funding for the common imagery ground/surface system (CIGSS) and airborne reconnaissance ground SIGINT system (ARGSS) programs in DARO procurement lines. The conference agree to transfer this funding to the appropriate service or defense agency accounts.

E-8 modifications

The budget request included $44.2 million for E-8 modifications.

The House bill would authorize a decrease of $11.8 million.

The Senate amendment would authorize the budget request.

The conferees agree to authorize the budget request.

Passenger safety modifications

The budget request included $252.6 million in various Air Force aircraft modification budget lines to support making communications, navigation, and safety improvements to improve safety of passenger and cargo carrying aircraft.

The House bill would authorize an increase of $50.0 million for passenger safety modifications in specific aircraft modification budget lines for enhanced ground proximity warning systems

(EGPWS) and traffic collision avoidance system (TCAS) requirements, as follows:

[Dollars in millions]

Aircraft	EGPWS	TCAS	Total
VC-25	5.8	5.8
C-21	15.7	6.5	22.2
C-130	3.5	3.5
C-9	3.4	3.4
C-141	4.2	4.2
KC-10	10.9	10.9
Total	25.0	25.0	50.0

The Senate amendment would authorize the budget request.

The conferees agree to authorize an increase of $50.0 million to procure additional aircraft safety modifications.

Pacer Coin

The budget request included $2.4 million for aircraft spares and repair parts for the transfer of mission equipment from retiring Pacer Coin aircraft to the non-dedicated, follow-on C-130 reconnaissance aircraft.

The House bill would authorize a decrease of $2.4 million for transfer of mission equipment for Pacer Coin aircraft since the program is being terminated and a fiscal year 1998 Department of Defense reprogramming request stated that all funds necessary for the C-130 follow-on program were addressed in the reprogramming request.

The Senate amendment would authorize the budget request.

The conferees agree to authorize a decrease of $2.4 million for transfer of mission equipment for Pacer Coin aircraft.

Common support equipment

The budget request included $152.1 million for common support equipment.

The House bill would authorize a decrease of $4.2 million.

The Senate amendment would authorize the budget request.

The conferees agree to authorize the budget request.

A-10 post production support

The budget request included $11.4 million for A-10 post production support.

The House bill would authorize a decrease of $1.9 million.

The Senate amendment would authorize the budget request.

The conferees agree to authorize the budget request.

B-2A

The budget request included $189.9 million for post production support for the B-2A bomber fleet.

The House bill would authorize an increase of $86.0 million to enhance the B-2's operational effectiveness.

The Senate amendment would authorize the budget request.

The conferees agree to authorize an increase of $86.0 million.

The conferees note that the increase would fund low observability maintainability and situational awareness upgrades key to maximizing the effectiveness of the small number of B-2 bombers in the fleet. The conferees also believe that the funding increase would provide the opportunity to coordinate efficiently these efforts with radar cross section improvements.

Miscellaneous production charges

The budget request included $221.5 million for miscellaneous production charges, including $10.1 million for High Speed Anti-Radiation Missile targeting pod modifications.

The House bill would authorize a decrease of $10.1 million, recognizing that $6.1 million was requested for the same purpose in the "Other aircraft modifications" account.

The Senate amendment would authorize the budget request.

The conferees agree to a decrease of $10.9 million in miscellaneous production charges.

Overview

The budget request for fiscal year 1999 contained an authorization of $384.2 million for Ammunition Procurement, Air Force in the Department of Defense. The House bill would authorize $383.6 million. The Senate amendment would authorize $383.2 million. The conferees recommended an authorization of $383.2 million. Unless noted explicitly in the statement of managers, all changes are made without prejudice.

Advanced Medium Range Air-to-Air Missile

The budget request included $114.6 million for the procurement of 180 Advanced Medium Range Air-to-Air Missiles.

The House bill would authorize a decrease of $4.6 million.

The Senate amendment would authorize a decrease of $21.0 million because of cost savings associated with the merger of the system's two prime contractors.

The conferees agree to authorize a decrease of $20.9 million.

Minuteman III guidance replacement program

The budget request included $90.6 million for Minuteman III modifications.

The House bill would authorize an increase of $23.0 million for the Minuteman III guidance replacement program (GRP).

The Senate amendment would authorize an increase of $46.0 million for GRP.

The conferees agree to authorize an increase of $23.0 million above the budget request for GRP. Additionally, the conferees are aware that $8.8 million in funds authorized in fiscal year 1998 for GRP are excess to fiscal year 1998 requirements. Therefore, the conferees direct that such fiscal year 1998 funds be obligated in support of GRP during fiscal year 1999.

AGM-65H Maverick

The budget request included no funds for the AGM-65H missile.

The House bill would authorize an increase of $3.0 million to ensure that the Air Force can accomplish a smooth transition to a service life extension program for these weapons.

The Senate amendment would authorize the budget request.

The Senate recedes.

Defense Support Program

The budget request included $89.9 million for procurement of Defense Support System (DSP) satellites.

The House bill and the Senate amendment would authorize the budget request.

The Senate amendment approved the budget request.

The conferees agree to authorize a decrease of $7.0 million to the budget request.

The conferees note that excess prior year funds exist in the DSP program.

Overview

The budget request for fiscal year 1999 contained an authorization of $6,974.4 million for Other Procurement, Air Force in the Department of Defense. The House bill would authorize $7,046.4 million. The Senate amendment would authorize $6,774.6 million. The conferees recommended an authorization of $6,950.4 million. Unless noted explicitly in the statement of managers, all changes are made without prejudice.

60K Loader

The budget request included $89.2 million for the 60K loader.
 The House bill would authorize a decrease of $2.9 million.
 The Senate amendment would authorize the budget request.
 The conferees agree to authorize the budget request.

Combat training ranges

The budget request included $13.2 million for combat training ranges, but included no funds for the rangeless air combat training system (RACTS). This system is also known as the Kadena Interim Training System (KITS) and was delivered to Kadena Air Base, Japan, in August 1997.

For future fixed and deployable training support, the Department of Defense's plan is to shift to the Joint Tactical Combat Training System (JTCTS), a system that will support air, surface, and subsurface training requirements. However, the House report (H. Rept. 105-532) noted that no funds were included in the budget to meet near-term training requirements that had been identified by United States Air Forces Europe (USAFE).

The House bill would authorize an increase of $5.0 million for RACTS to meet these requirements.

The Senate amendment would authorize the budget request.
 The Senate recedes.

Automated telecommunications program

The budget request included $14.9 million for automated telecommunications equipment.

The House bill would authorize a decrease of $4.0 million.

The Senate amendment would authorize the budget request.

The conferees agree to authorize the budget request.

Air Force satellite control network

The budget request included $26.0 million in Air Force other procurement for the Air Force Satellite Control Network (AFSCN) program.

The House bill and the Senate amendment would authorize the budget request.

The conferees agree to authorize a decrease of $1.4 million from the budget request.

The conferees note that excess prior year funds exist in the AFSCN program. The conferees direct that these funds be used to satisfy fiscal year 1999 AFSCN requirements.

Communication electronics modifications

The budget request included $57.7 million for communication electronics modifications.

The House bill would authorize a decrease of $5.8 million.

The Senate amendment would authorize the budget request.

The conferees agree to authorize the budget request.

Overview

The budget request for fiscal year 1999 contained an authorization of $2,041.7 million for Defense-wide Procurement in the Department of Defense. The House bill would authorize $1,962.9 million. The Senate amendment would authorize $2,023.5 million. The conferees recommended an authorization of $1,954.8 million. Unless noted explicitly in the statement of managers, all changes are made without prejudice.

The House bill would authorize an increase of $32.0 million for the procurement of ADCS hardware and software.

The Senate amendment would authorize the budget request.

The conferees agree to authorize an increase of $25.0 million for the procurement of ADCS hardware and software.

SOF intelligence systems

The budget request included $19.1 million for special operations forces intelligence systems.

The House bill would authorize the budget request.

The Senate amendment would authorize an increase of $5.0 million for procurement and installation of Silent Shield real-time situational awareness systems on special operations aircraft.

The conferees agree to authorize an increase of $2.5 million for Silent Shield system procurement.

The budget request included $96.2 million for contamination avoidance.

The House bill would authorize a decrease of $6.9 million. This decrease would eliminate funding for National Guard Rapid Assessment and Initial Detection equipment.

The Senate amendment would authorize the budget request.

The conferees agree to authorize the budget request.

Overview

The budget request for fiscal year 1999 contained no authorization for National Guard and Reserve Procurement in the Department of Defense. The House bill would authorize $300.0 million. National Guard and Reserve Equipment

The budget request included $1.36 billion for National Guard and Reserve equipment, as follows:

	Millions
Aircraft, Army	$110.2
Missiles, Army	35.3
Weapons and Tracked Combat Vehicles, Army	12.3
Ammunition, Army	182.3
Other Procurement, Army	502.9
Aircraft, Navy	41.8

Aircraft, USAF	293.3
Ammunition, USAF	30.4
Other Procurement, USAF	85.0
NG&RE, Other Procurement	9.3
Department of Defense Total	1,363.6

This request reflects a net increase of almost $400.0 million above the funding requested for the reserve component modernization in the fiscal year 1998 budget request. The conferees believe that the increased funding requested by the services for reserve component modernization reflects a recognition of the critical role that these forces provide in Department of Defense operations. The conferees agree that reserve component modernization, as an integral component of overall DOD modernization, should rely on a collaborative budget development process within the Department and not on annual congressional supplemental funding, which would have to come at the expense of other programs funded in the budget request. However, the conferees recognize that there are still significant modernization shortfalls in both the active and reserve components and remain concerned about the readiness implications of declining modernization funding requests.

Accordingly, the conferees agree to authorize increases to support reserve component modernization, as follows:

	Millions
UH-60 Blackhawk	$66.4
Family of Medium Tactical Vehicles	42.5
Medium Truck Extended Service Program	20.0
Multiple Launch Rocket System Launchers	45.0
R2000 Engine Flush System	5.0

C-130 (1 WC-130J, 1 EC-130J, 2 C-130J)	276.4
C-130J Simulator	30.0
Total increase	685.3

Additionally, the conferees agree to authorize an increase of $60.0 million for National Guard and Reserve miscellaneous equipment, as follows:

Army Reserve
Miscellaneous	$10.0

	Millions
Navy Reserve
Miscellaneous	10.0
Marine Corps Reserve
Miscellaneous	10.0
Air Force Reserve
Miscellaneous	10.0
Army National Guard
Miscellaneous	10.0
Air National Guard
Miscellaneous	10.0

The conferees direct that the miscellaneous funding be allocated exclusively by the chiefs of the reserve components, in consultation with service chiefs, and give priority consideration to the following items: 2.5-ton and 5-ton truck extended service program; night vision equipment; high mobility multipurpose wheeled vehicles; CH-47 crashworthy internal fuel cells; heavy expanded mobility tactical truck bridge transportation kits; M915 truck extended service program upgrade kits; rock crush, screen; AVLB 60-70 ton upgrades; high mobility multipurpose wheeled vehicle contact maintenance trucks; 5 kilowatt tactically quiet generator; M915A3 long haul tractor; F/A-18A+ ECP; CH-53e HNVS "B kits"; electronic calibration facility (AN/TSM-198); electronic test measurement and diagnostic equipment facility; D-7 bulldozer; reconfigurable mission simulator; meteorological measuring sets (AN/TMQ41); PATS (F-16); F-16 ALR-56M RWR; F-16 SADL ADP/color; A-10 SADL group A; airborne firefighting equipment; mobile backscatter truck inspection system; the advanced radar warning receiver; and the D-7 product improvement program.

Overview

The budget request for fiscal year 1999 contained an authorization of $855.1 million for Chemical Agent and Munitions Destruction, Army. The House bill would authorize no funding for Chemical Agent and Munitions Destruction, Army, but would transfer the authorization of $834.0 million for Chemical Agent and Munitions Destruction, Defense. The Senate amendment would authorize no funding for Chemical Agent and Munitions Destruction, Army but would transfer the authorization of $777.2 million for Chemical Agent and Munitions Destruction, Defense. The conferees agree to authorize $803.0 million for Chemical Agent and Munitions Destruction, Defense. Unless noted explicitly in the conference agreement, all changes are made without prejudice.

LEGISLATIVE PROVISIONS ADOPTED

Subtitle A—Authorization of Appropriations

Authorization of appropriations (secs. 101–109)

The House bill contained provisions (secs. 101–109) that would authorize the recommended fiscal year 1999 funding levels for the Army, Navy and Marine Corps, Air Force, Defense-Wide Activities, Reserve Components, Defense Inspector General, Chemical Demilitarization Program, Defense Health Program, and the Defense Export Loan Guarantee Program.

The Senate amendment contained similar provisions.

The conference agreement includes these provisions.

Chemical demilitarization program (sec. 107)

The budget request for the Army included $855.1 million for the chemical agents and munitions destruction program.

The House bill recommended no funding for Chemical Agents and Munitions Destruction, Army, but contained a provision (sec. 107) that would authorize $834.0 million for the Department of Defense for the destruction of lethal chemical agents in accordance with Section 1412 of the Department of Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 1986 (Public Law 99–145, 50 U.S.C. 1521) and for chemical warfare materiel of the United States not covered by Section 1412 of such Act, a $21.1 million reduction to the budget request.

The Senate amendment recommended no funding for Chemical Agents and Munitions Destruction, Army, but contained a similar provision (sec. 107) that would authorize $780.1 million for destruction of the lethal chemical agents and munitions stockpile pursuant to Section 1412 of the Department of Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 1986 and U.S. chemical warfare materiel not covered by Section 1412 of the Act, a $78.5 million reduction to the budget request. Additionally, the Senate recommended that an additional $3.0 million be made available to accelerate the development and fielding of the Army's mobile munitions assessment system. Additionally, the Senate would recommend the transfer of the chemical demilitarization program to the Defense Threat Reduction Agency.

The conferees agree to a provision that would authorize $803.0 million for the Department of Defense chemical agents and munitions destruction program, to include: $124.7 million for procurement; $172.8 for research and development; $508.6 million for operation and maintenance; and a reduction of $3.0 million for revised economic assumptions. Of the amount authorized for research and development, the conferees recommend that an additional $5.0 million be made available to accelerate the development and fielding of the Army's mobile munitions assessment system and an additional $6.0 million be made available to demonstrate alternatives to the baseline incineration process for the destruction of assembled chemical munitions and to proceed from a demonstration to the development of a pilot-scale facility.

The conferees understand that additional funds above the amount recommended in this Act may be necessary to demonstrate viable alternative technologies, and encourage the Department of Defense to review funds available in the chemical agents and munitions demilitarization program from prior year authorization and appropriations, as well as funds available to the Department that have been identified as sources in the most recent omnibus reprogramming (FY98–16PA) forwarded to the Congress for approval, as possible sources for such additional funds necessary for activities related for the demonstration of alternative technologies to the destruction of assembled chemical munitions.

Section 1412(f) of the Department of Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 1986 requires that funds for the destruction of the U.S. stockpile of lethal chemical agents and munitions, including funds for military construction projects necessary to carry out the demilitarization program, shall be set forth in the budget of the Department of Defense as a separate program and shall not be included in the budget accounts for any military department. In the statement of managers accompanying the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 1994 (H. Rept. 103–357), the conferees cited this section in transferring the funds contained in the fiscal year 1994 Army budget requests for the chemical demilitarization program to a separate DOD account. Section 1412(e) of Public Law 99–145 further requires that the management organization for the chemical munitions destruction program shall be established within the Department of the Army.

The conferees agree that the defense chemical demilitarization program should continue to be managed as a major defense acquisition program with the Office of the Secretary of Defense providing policy and program oversight, the Secretary of the Army as executive agent for the management and execution of the program, and the project manager for the program for the assembled chemical weapons assessment (ACWA) of alternative technologies reporting to the Under Secretary of Defense for Acquisition and Technology (until completion of the demonstration phase of the ACWA program).

Subtitle B—Army Programs

Multiyear procurement authority for Longbow Hellfire missile program (sec. 111)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 111) that would authorize the Secretary of the Army to enter into a multiyear procurement contract for the Longbow Hellfire missile.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 111).

The Senate recedes.

The conferees agree to authorize the Secretary of the Army to enter into a multiyear contract for the Longbow Hellfire missile.

Condition for award of second-source procurement contract for the family of medium tactical vehicles (sec. 112)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 112) that would require certain conditions to be met before the Secretary of the Army could enter into a contract with more than one manufacturer for the procurement of the family of medium tactical vehicles (FMTV). The Senate supports Army efforts to qualify a second source for FMTV trucks, if the established conditions are met, and would support acceleration of this effort if the Army determines that this action could be accomplished within programmed resource limitations.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment. Based on critical shortfalls of modernized trucks within the Army, the conferees direct the Secretary of the Army to ensure that sufficient funding is programmed for any FMTV prime contractor to maintain minimum economic production levels necessary to sustain steady production and meet FMTV fielding requirements. The conferees note existing funding levels, constrained by modernization budget limitations, will result in a break in production, increased costs, and delays in the modernization process.

Armored system modernization (sec. 113)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 113) that would require the Secretary of the Army to submit to the congressional defense committees a report on Army armored system modernization programs.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would authorize $14.3 million for the M1A1D applique integration program and $6.0 million for an M1A2 risk reduction program. Of the amount authorized for the M1A1D applique integration program, not more than $11.4 million may be obligated before the end of the 30-day period beginning on the date on which the Secretary of the Army submits the armored system modernization report.

Congress supports the development and fielding of the M1A1D and authorizes $20.3 million to complete development and testing, and to initiate fielding. The conferees are concerned, however, about the risk inherent in the conversion of the M1A2 to the Force XXI Battle Command Brigade and Below (FBCB2) software and directs that $6.0 million of the $20.3 million be used to develop an M1A2 risk reduction effort. The conferees recognize the Army's goal is to field only the M1A1D and M1A2SEP variants, but want to ensure risk is addressed.

The conferees are also concerned that armor system modernization plans, including the proposal to close the tank plant in Lima, Ohio, do not adequately address future operational requirements for armor systems, modernization and upgrade requirements, and industrial base implications associated with plans to bridge the gap between production of existing armor systems and future combat platforms. The conferees direct the Secretary of the Army to provide a report on armor system modernization programs to the congressional defense committees no later than January 31, 1999.

Reactive armor tiles (sec. 114)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 114) that would require the Secretary of Defense, with input from the Army and Marine Corps, to conduct a detailed assessment of requirements for reactive armor tiles and provide a cost-benefit analysis of the procurement and installation of tiles on selected armor vehicles. The provision would preclude any expenditure of funds for armor tiles until 30 days after the date on which the Secretary of Defense submits the results of this study to the Congress.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recesses with a technical amendment.

Extension of authority to carry out Armament Retooling and Manufacturing Support Initiative (sec. 115)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 116) that would extend the Armament Retooling and Manufacturing Support Initiative through fiscal year 1999.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recesses.

Subtitle C—Navy Programs

CVN-77 nuclear aircraft carrier program (sec. 121)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 121) that would authorize $124.5 million for the advance procurement and construction of components, including nuclear components, for the CVN-77 aircraft carrier program.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recesses.

Increase in amount authorized to be excluded from cost limitation for Seawolf submarine program (sec. 122)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 122) that would amend section 123(a) of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 1998 by striking the amount of $272.4 million and replacing it with the amount of $557.6 million as the amount excluded from the Seawolf submarine program cost limitation.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recesses with a technical amendment.

Multiyear procurement authority for the Department of the Navy (sec. 123)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 121) that would authorize the Secretary of the Navy to enter into multiyear contracts for the AV-8B, E-2C, and T-45 aircraft, and to enter into a multiyear procurement contract to procure the Marine Corps Medium Tactical Vehicle Replacement.

The Senate amendment contained separate provisions (secs. 124-123) that would authorize the same multiyear procurements.

The Senate recesses.

Annual General Accounting Office review of F/A-18E/F program (sec. 124)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1034) that would require an annual General Accounting Office review of the F/A-18E/F program.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recesses with a technical amendment.

Subtitle D—Air Force Programs

F-22 aircraft program (sec. 131)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 133) that would limit obligation of advance procurement funds for the six Lot II F-22 aircraft. The provision would make funds available after the completion of 10 percent of the F-22 flight test program, or alternatively, 30 days after the Secretary of Defense submits a certification that:

(1) of the number of flight test hours completed, if less than 10 percent;

(2) that a lesser amount of flight testing would be sufficient for making a production decision, and the basis for that determination; and

(3) that it would be financially advantageous to proceed to Lot II production rather than delay production until completion of 10 percent of the flight testing.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would remove the 30 day delay period from the provision. The provision would allow the Department to obligate advance procurement funds as soon as the certification is submitted to the congressional defense committees.

C-130J aircraft program (sec. 132)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 134) that would require a report from the Secretary of Defense on the C-130J aircraft program.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Subtitle E—Other Matters

Chemical stockpile emergency preparedness program (sec. 141)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1080) that would direct the Director of the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) to carry out a program with state and local governments to assist them in developing capabilities to respond to public health or safety emergencies that may arise from the destruction of lethal chemical agents and munitions in the U.S. stockpile.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would require the Director of FEMA, in accordance with a Memorandum of Understanding (MOU) with the Department of the Army, to carry out an emergency preparedness program with state and local governments. The provision would also direct that funds, appropriated in the defense account for this portion of the chemical stockpile emergency preparedness program, be made available to FEMA to implement its responsibilities pursuant to the requirements of this provision. Lastly, the provision would require the Secretary of Defense to include, in the Department's annual report on the defense chemical agents and munitions destruction program, information on actions taken and grants provided to assist state and local governments to develop their off-post emergency preparedness plans for responding to chemical accidents or incidents at the eight chemical stockpile storage installations.

Alternative technologies for destruction of assembled chemical weapons (sec. 142)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 141) that would authorize $12.6 million for identification and demonstration of alternative technologies to the baseline incineration process for destruction of assembled chemical munitions in the U.S. stockpile, and would direct the transfer of management oversight responsibility for the program from the Under Secretary of Defense for Acquisition and Technology (USD, A&T) to the Secretary of the Army.

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 117) that would provide authority for the program manager for the Assembled Chemical Weapons Assessment (ACWA) to demonstrate alternative technologies to the baseline incineration process and to undertake post-demonstration activities necessary to implement any such alternative technology, if it is proven successful, and, would authorize $18.0 million for demonstration of alternative technologies and planning and preparation to proceed from demonstration to pilot-scale testing. Additionally, the provision would require the Under Secretary of Defense for Acquisition and Technology to provide for two evaluations of the cost and schedule of an alternative technology to baseline incineration to be submitted to the Under Secretary by September 30, 1999. Lastly, the provision would maintain the current program manager for the Assembled Chemical Weapons Assessment, who would continue to manage the development and testing (including demonstration and pilot-scale testing) of alternative technologies for the destruction of lethal assembled chemical weapons, and would continue to operate independently from the program manager for the baseline chemical demilitarization program.

The House recedes with an amendment that would require the current program manager for the Assembled Chemical Weapons Assessment to continue to manage the development, testing, demonstration and pilot-scale testing of alternative technologies for the destruction of assembled chemical munitions and to act independently of the program manager for the Department of Defense baseline incineration program. In addition, the ACWA program manager shall report to the Under Secretary of Defense for Acquisition and Technology.

The provision would also authorize the ACWA program manager to carry out post-demonstration activities to ensure that an alternative technology can be implemented immediately following the successful demonstration of an alternative technology, and the submission to Congress of a report on the demonstration and a decision by the Under Secretary of Defense for Acquisition and Technology to proceed with a pilot-scale facility.

In order to ensure that an alternative technology may be demonstrated immediately, the conferees provide authority for the program manager to take certain actions during fiscal years 1998 and 1999 related to the establishment, preparation, development and identification of activities related to awarding a contract for a potential successful alternative technology for assembled chemical munitions not later than December 30, 1999.

The conferees also direct the Under Secretary of Defense for Acquisition and Technology to provide to Congress an independent, nongovernmental evaluation of the cost and schedule for any potential alternative technology resulting from the ACWA demonstration activities.

Lastly, if the Secretary of Defense decides to proceed with a pilot program, the conferees direct that a report be submitted to the congressional defense committees on the Department's plan to conduct the pilot program, including information on the cost and the schedule for the alternative technology pilot program for destruction of assembled chemical munitions.

As noted elsewhere in the statement of managers on the chemical agent and munitions destruction program (sec. 107), the conferees understand that additional funds may be necessary above the amounts recommended in this Act, as well as for fiscal year 1998, to demonstrate viable alternative technologies. The conferees encourage the Department of Defense to review funds available in the chemical agents and munitions demilitarization program from prior year authorizations and appropriations, as well as funds available to the Department which have been identified as sources in the most recent omnibus reprogramming (FY98-16PA) forwarded to the Congress for approval, as possible sources for any additional funds necessary for activities related to the demonstration of alternative technologies for the destruction of assembled chemical munitions.

LEGISLATIVE PROVISIONS NOT ADOPTED

M1A2 system enhancement program step one

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Annual reporting of costs associated with travel of members of the chemical demilitarization citizenship advisory commission

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 115) that would amend section 1412(g)(2) of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 1986 (Public Law 102-484) to require that information on the travel costs of members of the chemical demilitarization citizenship advisory commission be included in the annual report to Congress on the chemical and munitions destruction program.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Joint surveillance target attack radar system

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 131) that would authorize $72.0 million for the joint surveillance target attack radar system (JSTARS), as follows:

 - (2) payment of expenses associated with termination of production of JSTARS aircraft; or
 - (3) development of an improved radar for the JSTARS.
- The House bill contained no similar provision.
The Senate recedes.

Limitation on replacement of engines on military aircraft derived from Boeing 707 aircraft

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 132) that would prevent the Secretary of Defense from obligating or expending funds for reengining Department of Defense aircraft derived from Boeing 707 aircraft until an overdue report was submitted. The report was due in March 1998 and was not received until July 13, 1998.

The House bill contained no similar provision.
The Senate recedes.

The conferees note that the Senate report (S. Rept. 105–189) would direct the Secretary of the Navy to provide a report on the long-term plan for developing a “red team” countermeasures efforts activity to keep pace with the warfighting experiment efforts. The Secretary was directed to provide the report to the congressional defense committees by May 15, 1999. Pending submission of the report, obligation of funds for the warfighting laboratory effort would have been limited to no more than 85 percent of the funds available.

The conferees acknowledge the ongoing work on the “red team” effort and that the Marine Corps and Navy will be able to submit the required report on schedule. However, the Marine Corps has indicated that limiting obligations of funds until the report is submitted may cause the Department to forego some efforts that are important pieces of the Urban Warrior exercise.

The conferees agree that the Secretary should submit the report as directed in the Senate report. However, the conferees further agree that the limitation on obligation is not needed to ensure timely submission of the report and could be counterproductive to this important experimentation effort.

The conferees agree to authorize an increase of $3.0 million for the Escape System Dynamic Flow Facility.

ASW systems development

The budget request included $20.1 million for ASW systems development.

The House bill would authorize an increase of $3.0 million for ASW systems development.

The Senate amendment would authorize the budget request.

The conferees agree to authorize an increase of $3.0 million to continue the development and testing of advanced anti-submarine warfare technologies on the BEARTRAP platform.

Studies and experiments for combat systems engineering

The budget request included $8.6 million for studies and experiments for advanced combat systems engineering that, potentially, could be leveraged into new ship class computer architectures.

The Senate amendment would authorize a decrease of $2.0 million in PE 63382N for studies and experiments not directly connected to correcting warfighting deficiencies in 21st century platforms.

The House bill would authorize the budget request.

The conferees agree to authorize a decrease of $2.0 million in PE 63382N.

Remote minehunting system

The budget request included $73.5 million in PE 63502N for surface and shallow water mine countermeasures demonstration and validation, including $11.0 million for the remote minehunting system (RMS). The budget request also included $32.9 million for procurement of minesweeping system replacement equipment.

The House bill would authorize an increase of $7.0 million in PE 63502N to continue accelerated development and fielding of the RMS. The House bill would approve the procurement budget request.

The Senate amendment would authorize a transfer of $15.9 million included in the budget request for procurement to PE 63502N for RMS research and development. This shift would enable the Navy to develop the modular V4 design to accommodate advanced sensors for RMS.

The conferees agree to authorize a decrease of $15.9 million for the procurement of RMS and an increase of $7.0 million in PE 63502N for RMS.

Future aircraft carrier transition technology

The budget request included a total of $190.1 million for future aircraft carrier research and development (R&D) and feasibility studies including $149.5 million in PE 63512N and $40.6 million in PE 63564N. The budget request also included $38.5 million in PE 64567N for CVN-77 contract design.

The House bill and the Senate amendment would authorize the budget request. The House bill contained a provision (sec. 212) that would authorize $50.0 million of those funds for CVN-77 technologies that would be applicable to both CVN-77 and CV(X). The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 212) that would direct that the $50.0 million be applied exclusively to CVN-77 technologies.

The conferees strongly endorse the need to develop new technologies that will reduce life cycle costs and improve operational effectiveness of future aircraft carriers. The Chief of Naval Operations has advised the conferees that the most pressing need for the CV(X) is the initial development of a next generation propulsion plant of sufficient flexibility to support future technology insertion and performance improvements, while reducing propulsion plant life cycle costs.

The conferees note a recent Navy decision to alter the design for the first CV(X). The conferees understand that the Navy's new plan to transition to the next generation aircraft carrier will be an evolutionary development in which carrier design changes will be incremental over several of the first generation of CV(X) carriers.

Unfortunately, the congressional defense committees were provided with conflicting information regarding the Navy's purported change in plans regarding CV(X) and the Navy's intentions for near-term and Future Years Defense Program funding. These mixed communications are only now being sorted out. In the meantime, this conflicting information has caused some of the congressional defense committees to propose significant reductions to the budget request for fiscal year 1999 CV(X) R&D funding.

The conferees agree to authorize a reduction of $80.0 million in PE 63512N without prejudice due to the ongoing refinement of the Navy's planning for CV(X). The conferees would be very receptive to a Navy request for additional authorization of CV(X) funding for fiscal year 1999 once the Navy makes available the restructured CV(X) plan and supporting documentation. The conferees strongly encourage the Secretary of Defense to submit such a request once the restructured CV(X) plan is completed.

The conference agreements include a provision on CVN-77 R&D funding (sec. 212) which is addressed elsewhere in this report.

Shipboard systems component development

The budget request included $27.7 million for surface ship non-propulsion system component development.

The House bill would authorize an increase of $1.0 million in PE 63513N for the qualification and testing required to develop a new 150-kilowatt static frequency converter.

The Senate amendment would authorize the budget request.

It has come to the attention of the conferees that fiscal year 1999 test article procurement, installation and implementation programs assume low risk scenarios for research scheduled for fiscal year 1998 and early fiscal year 1999. These low risk scenarios are not supported by available documentation. Therefore, the conferees agree to a decrease of $2.0 million to PE 63513N.

The conferees also agree to authorize an increase of $1.0 million in PE 63513N for the qualification and testing required to develop a new 150-kilowatt static frequency converter.

SSGN study

The budget request did not include funding for analyzing alternatives for converting Trident submarines for use in other than strategic missions.

The Senate amendment would authorize an increase of $1.0 million to PE 63564N for the Secretary of Defense to conduct an analysis of converting some of the Trident SSBNs to SSGN-configuration and would direct the Secretary to provide a report of the analysis to the congressional defense committees no later than March 1, 1999.

The House bill would authorize the budget request.

The House recedes.

Intercooled recuperated gas turbine engine

The budget request included $23.5 million in PE 63573N for continued development of the inter-cooled recuperated (ICR) gas turbine engine. The budget request would also continue testing of the ICR gas turbine engine under Memoranda of Understanding (MOUs) with the United Kingdom and France.

The House bill would authorize the budget request. The House report (H. Rept. 105-532) would direct the Secretary of the Navy to provide an updated report on the resolution of technical, programmatic, and funding issues required to insure a stable development program supported by the fiscal year 2000 budget request. The House report would also require consideration of the ICR engine among the alternatives for the prime power plant for the DD-21 land attack destroyer.

The Senate amendment would authorize an increase of $5.0 million in PE 63573N for continued development and testing of the ICR engine.

The conferees agree to authorize the budget request.

The conferees are aware that negotiations are underway among MOU signatories to restructure the ICR program. This restructuring would bring the engine to a point where it could be an industry candidate for DD-21 vice a fully government qualified engine. The conferees understand that this would involve completing a second 500 hour test and conducting a fifth design review. The 3000 hour test and other efforts would be transitioned to other signatories of the MOUs who intend to evaluate the ICR as the prime mover for the Common New Generation Frigate program.

The conferees believe that this is a reasonable approach to further ICR development and the Navy should consider the ICR engine as a competitor for serving as the prime mover in future Navy ships.

Environmentally safe energetic materials

The budget request included $39.8 million in PE 63609N for conventional munitions demonstration and validation.

The House bill would authorize an increase of $3.0 million in PE 63609N to accelerate the program for the development of propellants and explosives that utilize environmentally compliant energetic materials for undersea, surface, and other weapons systems.

The Senate would authorize the budget request.

The conferees agree to authorize an increase of $3.0 million in PE 63609N to accelerate the program for the development of propellants and explosives that utilize environmentally compliant energetic materials for undersea, surface, and other weapons systems.

Marine Corps assault vehicles

The budget request included $104.8 million for Marine Corps assault vehicle research and development activities.

The House bill would authorize an increase of $4.0 million for further development of additional propulsion and suspension alternatives for the advanced amphibious assault vehicle (AAAV).

The Senate amendment would authorize the budget request.

The conferees agree to authorize an increase of $4.0 million for unfunded research and development requirements of the AAAV.

Marine Corps ground combat/support system

The budget request included $37.1 million for Marine Corps ground combat/support research and development activities.

The budget request included no funds in either the Army or Marine Corps research and development programs for improving howitzer capability by continuing development of trajectory correctable munitions (TCM).

The House bill would authorize an increase of $2.5 million for further development of lightweight 155mm howitzer requirements. The House bill would also authorize an increase of $6.0 million in PE63004A to continue Army development of TCM.

The Senate amendment would authorize an increase of $4.0 million for the Predator missile system to maintain the development and fielding schedule.

The conferees agree to authorize an increase of $9.5 million for Marine Corps ground combat and support system research and development requirements. Of this amount, $2.5 million is for research and development requirements of the lightweight 155mm howitzer, $2.0 million is to support Predator system development and fielding schedule, and $5.0 million is for development of TCM. The conferees note that the Army has demonstrated a lack of commitment to continue TCM development and believe there could be application for TCM technology within the Marine Corps' concept of operations. The conferees direct the Marine Corps to provide the congressional defense committees a report, no later than 31 January 1999, on a concept of operations for using TCM in Marine Corps operations and on TCM program development plans and procurement forecast.

Aviation depot maintenance

The budget request included $59.4 million in PE 63721N for environmental protection demonstration and validation, including $3.5 million for Naval aviation pollution prevention.

The House bill would authorize an increase of $2.7 million for the development and demonstration of aviation depot maintenance technologies that will significantly reduce maintenance and repair costs and reduce or eliminate hazardous waste and pollution products.

The Senate amendment would authorize the budget request.

The conferees agree to authorize an increase of $2.7 million in PE 63721N for the development and demonstration of aviation depot maintenance technologies to reduce overall costs and enhance pollution prevention measures.

Naval surface fire support system integration

The budget request included $21.6 million for a new initiative to develop surface fire support planning and control systems for the 5-inch 62 gun on DDG-51 ships and the 155mm vertical gun for the future DD-21 class of ships.

The Senate amendment would authorize a decrease of $7.7 million to PE 63795N to eliminate the possibility of developing a stand-alone system for DD-21.

The House bill would authorize the budget request.

The conferees agree to authorize a reduction of $1.6 million.

Vertical gun for advanced ships

The budget request included $25.1 million in PE 63795N for a new initiative to develop a prototype vertical gun for land-based testing.

The House bill would authorize a decrease of $20.0 million due to the lack of a thorough analysis of gun system alternatives and sufficient consideration of gun and missile system technical requirements and operational roles.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision that would authorize a decrease of $10.0 million.

The conferees authorize a decrease of $10.0 million in PE 63795N and direct the Secretary of the Navy to report to the congressional defense committees the results of an analysis of all advanced gun designs, as well as ammunition availability for those designs, prior to the obligation of funds for a prototype advanced gun system.

Joint strike fighter

The budget request included $463.4 million in PE 63800N for the joint strike fighter (JSF).

The House bill would authorize the budget request.

The Senate amendment would authorize an increase of $15.0 million for the JSF alternate engine program.

The conferees agree to authorize an increase of $15.0 million for the JSF alternate engine program.

Nonlethal weapons and technologies of mass protection program

The budget request included $22.6 million for the nonlethal weapons (NLW) and technologies program (PE 63851M).

The House bill would authorize the budget request.

The Senate amendment would authorize an increase to the budget request of $13.3 million for the following activities, including $6.3 million for the development and fielding of near-term, low-technology NLW technologies and $7.0 million for the development of nonlethal tactical denial systems. The Senate amendment would make available $2.0 million for activities of the Human Effects Panel of the Joint NonLethal Directorate and $500,000 for complete type classification of nonlethal weapons technology that can be mounted on existing weapons, such as M4 carbines and M16 rifles.

The House recedes.

The conferees remain concerned that the Department of Defense and the military services continue to conduct research and development on NLW activities that benefit all services outside the purview of the established defense NLW program, and without oversight by the executive agent, the Marine Corps. The conferees endorse the position expressed in the Senate report (S. Rept. 105–189) that “all” nonlethal weapons technology research and development be consolidated into a single program element, with management and oversight of the program conducted by the Marine Corps, as executive agent.

Commercial off-the-shelf insertion just prior to critical design review for helicopter improvement

The budget request included $231.1 million in PE 64212N for antisubmarine warfare and other helicopter development. Of this amount, $25.0 million would continue efforts to incorporate commercial off-the-shelf (COTS) technology during the two fiscal quarters prior to a second critical design review.

The House bill would authorize the budget request.

The Senate amendment would authorize a decrease of $1.0 million in PE 64212N to insert COTS technology.

The conferees agree to authorize a decrease of $1.0 million in PE 64212N to insert COTS technology.

Parametric airborne dipping sonar

The budget request included no funding for the parametric airborne dipping sonar (PADS).

The Senate amendment would authorize an increase of $8.0 million in PE 64212N for the continued development of PADS.

The House bill would authorize the budget request.

The conferees agree to authorize an increase of $8.0 million in PE 64212N for the continued development of PADS.

Common support aircraft

The budget request included $27.1 million in PE 64217N for the Common Support Aircraft (CSA).

The House bill would authorize a decrease of $27.1 million for the CSA program.

The Senate amendment would authorize the budget request.

The conferees agree to authorize a decrease of $27.1 million for the CSA program.

Electronic warfare development

The budget request included $128.6 million in PE 64270N for electronic warfare.

The House bill would authorize the budget request.

The Senate amendment would authorize an increase of $10.0 million for the Integrated Defensive Electronic Countermeasures (IDECM) system.

The conferees agree to authorize an increase of $9.3 million in PE 64270N to accommodate a restructure of the IDECM program, offset by a decrease of $9.3 million in line 43, Aircraft Procurement Navy.

Laboratories and field activities monitoring efforts

The budget request included $132.5 million for surface combatant combat system engineering in PE 64307N, including $19.2 million was requested for laboratory and field activity unspecified scientific services for monitoring baseline efforts.

The Senate amendment authorized a decrease of $3.0 million to unspecified scientific services.

The House bill would authorize the budget request.

The conferees agree to authorize a decrease of $3.0 million to unspecified scientific services.

DDG-51 composite director room

The budget request in PE 64307N did not include funding for design and test of a composite director room for the DDG-51 class of ships.

The Senate amendment would authorize an increase of $5.0 million in PE 64307N for continuation of a project to design and test a composite director room for the DDG-51 class of ships. The House bill would authorize the budget request.

The conferees agree to authorize an increase of $2.5 million in PE 64307N for continuation of a project to design and test a composite director room for the DDG-51 class of ships.

Multi-purpose processor

The budget request included $37.2 million for submarine sonar improvement. The multi-purpose processor (MPP) is the result of a small business innovative research (SBIR) initiative developed under the sponsorship of the new nuclear attack submarine (NSSN) program.

The House bill would authorize an increase of $15.0 million to continue the research and development necessary for the introduction of MPP technology in submarine and other naval sonar systems.

The Senate amendment would authorize an increase of $15.0 million in PE 64503N for continuation of the SBIR follow-on for advanced development of MPP transportable software technology, technology insertion, advanced processor software builds, and for providing MPP units and training throughout the fleet and the Navy research and development community.

The conferees agree to authorize an increase of $15.0 million in PE 64503N for continuation of the SBIR follow-on for advanced development of MPP transportable software technology, technology insertion, advanced processor software builds, and for providing MPP units and training throughout the fleet and the Navy research and development community.

Air control

The budget request included $4.2 million in PE 64450N for air control research.

The House bill would authorize the budget request.

The Senate amendment would authorize an increase of $4.0 million for the expeditionary common automatic recovery system (ECARS). The ECARS is a lightweight, man-portable instrument landing system capable of providing azimuth and glide slope information to manned aircraft and UAVs.

The conferees agree to authorize an increase of $4.0 million to PE 64504N for ECARS development.

Submarine sonar domes

The budget request included $218.8 million in PE 64558N for the New Design SSN (NSSN) program.

The House bill would authorize an increase of $7.0 million in PE 64558N to complete fabrication of a full-scale sonar dome using this acoustic sandwich material system for further evaluation and testing.

The Senate amendment would authorize the budget request.

The conferees agree to authorize an increase of $7.0 million to determine whether an acoustic sandwich material sonar dome system is capable of meeting submarine requirements for sonar domes.

NSSN advanced technology insertion

The budget request included $218.8 million in PE 64558N for the New Attack Submarine (NSSN) program, including $146.4 million for NSSN hull, mechanical, and electrical systems development, and $72.5 million for NSSN combat systems development.

The House bill would authorize an increase of $10.0 million for the development of high priority submarine technologies that are currently unfunded and the insertion of these technologies into the NSSN program. The House bill also encouraged the Navy to reprogram from within available funds the procurement funding (less than $5.0 million) necessary to complete the technology insertion in the appropriate NSSN hulls.

The Senate amendment would authorize the budget request.

The conferees agree to authorize an increase of $8.0 million in PE 64558N for the development of high priority submarine technologies that are currently unfunded and the insertion of these technologies into the NSSN program.

Non-propulsion electronics system

The budget request included $218.8 million in PE 64558N for New Attack Submarine (NSSN) non-propulsion development.

The Senate amendment would authorize an increase of $12.0 million for integration of 15 non-propulsion electronics system (NPES) subsystems to reduce NSSN life-cycle costs.

The House bill would authorize the budget request.

The conferees agree to authorize an increase of $6.0 million in PE 64558N for integration of 15 non-propulsion electronics system subsystems to reduce NSSN life-cycle costs.

System level shock testing

The budget request included $27.5 million for SSN-21 developments in PE 64561N including $5.0 million for Seawolf submarine shock testing.

The House bill and the Senate amendment would authorize the budget request.

The conferees agree to a decrease of $5.0 million in PE 64561N. The conferees recent indicators that the total cost of a one-half shock factor test would be $47.0 million. The conferees have concluded that the additional information accumulated from conducting a one-half shock factor test would not justify the $47.0 million cost.

DD-21 land attack destroyer

The budget request included $133.6 million in PE 64567N for ship contract design and live fire test and evaluation including $84.9 million was requested for the Navy's DD-21 land attack destroyer program and $8.6 million for the second year of DD-21 live fire test and evaluation.

The House bill would authorize a decrease of $25.0 million in PE 64567N for the DD-21 land attack destroyer.

The Senate amendment would authorize a reduction of $8.6 million, without prejudice, to reflect the re-phasing of the DD-21 program which was not reflected in the DD-21 live fire test and evaluation budget request.

The House recedes.

The conferees agree that the unique competitive teaming structure agreed upon for the first two phases of DD-21 might lead to either the program office relying on analysis from team members to evaluate options or the program office may grow to a size larger than originally intended. The program office has indicated that a smaller office size is possible by using Navy laboratory and field activity personnel to evaluate contractor applications of technology, systems engineering, and innovative designs. The conferees encourage the Navy to resist creating another level of bureaucracy and growing the program office, and instead coordinate evaluation of contractor options using in-place Navy expertise.

Smart propulsor product model

The budget request included $7.0 million for continuation of the development of the smart propulsor product model (SPPM) for future ships.

The Senate amendment would authorize an increase of $4.0 million in PE 64567N for the SPPM.

The House bill would authorize the budget request.

The House recedes.

NULKA antiship missile decoy system electro-magnetic compatibility

The budget request included $2.3 million for continued development and testing of the electro-magnetic compatibility (EMC) upgrade to the NULKA active countermeasures decoy.

The Senate amendment would authorize an increase of $2.0 million in PE 64755N to complete the development and operational testing of the EMC upgrade.

The House bill would authorize the budget request.

The conferees agree to authorize an increase of $2.0 million in PE 64755N to complete the development and operational testing of the EMC upgrade.

Infrared search and track system

The budget request included $983,000 in PE 64755N to continue engineering and manufacturing development and at sea testing of an infrared search and track (IRST) system.

The House bill would authorize the budget request.

The Senate amendment would authorize an increase of $6.5 million for continued development of the IRST system.

The conferees agree to authorize an increase of $5.0 million in PE 64755N for continued development of the IRST system.

The conferees agree that horizon search, for which an IRST system would be optimal, is an area of relative weakness for active radar. In the statement of managers accompanying the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 1996, the conferees noted that the Navy's cost and operational effectiveness analysis supported the conclusion that IRST has the potential to play a very important role in defending naval ships against sea-skimming anti-ship missiles. The conferees note, however, the Navy's inconsistent support for the IRST program, the reduction of IRST funding in order to support other Navy programs, and the absence of any funds in the Navy's budget projections to complete engineering and manufacturing development of the system and procurement of IRST for the fleet.

The conferees acknowledge that proposals made within the Department of the Navy staff to establish an international cooperative program with the Netherlands and Canada for development of IRST. The conferees believe that such a cooperative program could be one avenue for developing this capability. The conferees direct the Secretary of the Navy to report to the congressional defense committees by March 1, 1999, the Navy's plan and funding requirements for optimizing horizon search for defense of surface ships and the potential for application of IRST technology to other platforms.

Voice instructional devices

The budget request included $4.3 million in PE 64771N for medical development.

The House bill would authorize the budget request.

The Senate amendment would authorize an increase of $1.0 million for voice instructional devices (VID) technology.

The conferees agree to authorize an increase of $1.0 million for voice instructional devices (VID) technology.

Distributed surveillance system

The budget request included $42.0 million in PE 64784N for advanced deployable system (ADS) engineering and manufacturing development.

The House bill would authorize an increase of $6.7 million to continue the planned introduction of automation and data fusion capability for the ADS demonstration system.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The conferees agree to authorize an increase of $6.7 million to continue the planned introduction of automation and data fusion capability for the ADS demonstration system.

Battle force tactical training

The budget request included $5.9 million for the surface tactical team trainer (STTT). The STTT is designated to further develop an existing system, the battle force tactical training (BFTT) system, so it will be able to provide joint warfare training. A highly successful small business innovative research (SBIR) project, N96-111, leveraged the capabilities of commercial off-the-shelf operating systems and processors.

The Senate amendment would authorize an increase of $7.0 million in PE 24571N for the purpose of SBIR phase III follow-on work to continue the BFTT operating system conversion.

The House bill would authorize the budget request.

The conferees agree to authorize an increase of $5.0 million in PE 24571N for the purpose of SBIR phase III follow-on work to continue the BFTT operating system conversion.

High Speed Anti-Radiation Missile Improvement

The budget request included $18.9 million in PE 25601N for High Speed Anti-Radiation Missile Improvement.

The House bill would authorize an increase of $15.0 million for the Advanced Anti-Radiation Guided Missile (AARGM).

The Senate amendment would authorize the budget request.

The conferees agree to authorize an increase of $10.0 million to accelerate AARGM development.

Marine corps ground combat/supporting arms systems

The budget request included $14.7 million for the Marine Corps ground combat/supporting arms systems.

The House bill would authorize an increase of $8.0 million, including $5.0 million for research and development requirements associated with the Shortstop electronic protection system and an increase of an additional $3.0 million would be for development of an automatic target tracker for the M1 Abrams tank.

The Senate amendment would authorize the budget request.

The conferees agree to authorize an increase of $3.0 million in PE26623M for development of an automatic target tracking system for the M1 tank.

Airborne reconnaissance systems

The budget request included no funding for the Navy in PE 35206N to develop airborne reconnaissance systems. The budget request included $8.4 million in PE 35206D8Z that the Department of Defense asked to be transferred to the Navy program element. These funds included $4.6 million for development of framing reconnaissance cameras.

The House bill would authorize an increase of $8.0 million in PE 35207D8Z to accelerate the development of electro-optical (EO) framing technology. The House Report (H. Rept. 105-532) noted support of EO framing technology with "on chip forward motion compensation."

The Senate amendment would approve the budget request.

The conferees agree to authorize $16.4 million for PE 35206N, including the transfer of $8.4 million from PR 35206D8Z and an increase of $8.0 million for EO framing technology.

The conferees believe that the Department should select the system and the upgrades for using the EO framing resources that would best meet requirements. The conferees understand that the term “forward motion compensation” is a proprietary term that could unnecessarily limit the choices of the Department for improving the optical capability of sensors deployed in tactical aircraft and other platforms.

Overview

The budget request for fiscal year 1999 contained an authorization of $13,598.1 million for Air Force, Research and Development in the Department of Defense. The House bill would authorize $13,577.2 million. The Senate amendment would authorize $13,635.0 million. The conferees recommended an authorization of $13,918.7 million. Unless noted explicitly in the statement of managers, all changes are made without prejudice.

The conferees agree to authorize a total of $14.0 million for HAARP, as recommended in the Senate amendment.

The purpose of HAARP is to explore the use of low-frequency electromagnetic waves for detecting and imaging underground structures and tunnels and to determine the viability and military utility of the HAARP concept. The conferees direct the Secretary of the Air Force to report to the congressional defense committees on the potential applications and use of the HAARP concept to support military and intelligence objectives with the submission of the fiscal year 2000 budget request.

The conferees agree to authorize an increase of $10.0 million in PE 63401F for the micro-satellite technology program.

The conferees note that $30.0 million is available in fiscal year 1998 funds for the Clementine II program. The conferees agree to authorize the use of these funds for the micro-satellite technology development program established pursuant to section 215 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 1998 (Public Law 105-85). The conferees support the plan that has been developed by the Air Force and the National Aeronautics and Space Administration to conduct a micro-satellite inspection mission from the space shuttle. In addition, the conferees direct the Secretary of Defense to develop a plan for executing the remaining funds. In developing this plan, the conferees direct the Secretary to evaluate proposals and technologies developed by the Air Force Research Laboratory, the Naval Research Laboratory, and the Lawrence Livermore National Laboratory. The Secretary's plan shall be submitted to the congressional defense committees by March 15, 1999.

Solar orbital transfer vehicle

The budget request did not include funds for the Solar Orbital Transfer Vehicle (SOTV).

The Senate amendment would authorize an increase of $10.0 million in PE 63401F for SOTV.

The House bill would not authorize additional funds for SOTV.

The conferees agree to authorize an increase of $7.5 million in PE 63401F for SOTV. The conferees support the solar powered orbital transfer vehicle program, which combines thermionic technology for electricity production and thermal propulsion which can be used to move spacecraft to higher orbits or new orbits.

Low cost launch technology development

The budget request included no funds for low cost launch technology development.

The Senate amendment would authorize the following increases for low cost launch technology: (1) an increase of $5.0 million for the Scorpius concept in PE 63173C; (2) an increase of $5.0 million for the Excalibur concept in PE 63173C; and (3) an increase of $5.0 million in PE 63401F for the Air Force to utilize in support of low cost launch technology development.

The House bill would authorize the budget request for low cost technology development.

The conferees agree to authorize an increase of $10.0 million in PE 63401F and no funds in PE 63173C for low cost launch technology development. The conferees direct the Secretary of the Air Force to utilize these funds in support of the Scorpius and Excalibur concepts in a manner that is most effective. The conferees also believe that the Air Force should begin to program sustaining funds to support these technology efforts in the outyears.

Space maneuver vehicle

The budget request did not include funds for space maneuver vehicle or common aero vehicle technology development.

The House bill would authorize an increase of $15.0 million in PE 63401F to support development of space maneuver vehicle and common aero vehicle technology development.

The Senate amendment would authorize an increase of $10.0 million in PE 65864F for space maneuver vehicle technology development.

The conferees agree to authorize no increase in fiscal year 1999 funds, but note that $10.0 million is available in fiscal year 1998 funds appropriated for the Military Spaceplane. The conferees agree to authorize the use of these fiscal year 1998 funds for space maneuver vehicle or common aero vehicle technology development.

The conferees direct the Air Force to work with the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) on developing responsive, reusable space access systems such as the space maneuver vehicle, which could serve as a reusable upper stage for a variety of space test missions.

Space control technology development

The budget request did not include funds for a new space control technology initiative.

The Senate amendment would authorize an increase of $30.0 million for space control technology development.

The House bill would authorize the budget request for a new space control technology initiative.

The conferees have reviewed the Department of Defense's February 1998 report on the Kinetic Energy Anti-Satellite (KE-ASAT) program. The report states that "DOD is currently examining potential space control related research, development, and acquisition options to support the President's policy, satisfy military requirements within available resources, and address the architecture." In the cover letter to this report, the Under Secretary of Defense for Acquisition and Technology states that "I anticipate that these efforts will culminate in a comprehensive plan in time for the FY 2000 President's budget."

The conferees support the development of such a plan but are concerned that insufficient resources are available to support a comprehensive evaluation of various technical options. Therefore, the conferees agree to authorize an increase of $15.0 in PE 63438F to support a range of space control technology activities and to develop the "comprehensive plan" cited in DOD's report. The Assistant Secretary of Defense for Command, Control, Communications, and Intelligence (Space and Information Superiority) shall be responsible for developing this plan. The conferees direct the Secretary of Defense to submit a report to the congressional defense committees by February 15, 1999, that describes the Secretary's plan for executing the space control technology funds specified above. The report should also describe the Secretary's plan for continuing these efforts in fiscal year 2000 and beyond.

The conferees note that $37.5 million is available in fiscal year 1998 funds appropriated for the KE-ASAT program. The conferees direct the Secretary to obligate promptly these funds. If the Secretary concludes that a portion of these fiscal year 1998 funds should be applied to other space control development activities, the conferees direct the Secretary to include any such recommendation in the comprehensive space control technology development plan specified above. The conferees will consider any such recommendation and any related reprogramming that the Secretary may choose to submit to Congress.

Variable stability in-flight simulator test aircraft

The budget request included no funding for the Variable Stability In-Flight Simulator Test Aircraft (VISTA).

The House bill would authorize the budget request.

The Senate amendment would authorize an increase of $7.3 million in PE 64237F for the VISTA.

The conferees agree to authorize an increase of $7.3 million in PE 64237F for the VISTA.

Electronic warfare development

The budget request included $90.1 million in PE 64270F for electronic warfare development.

The House bill would authorize the budget request.

The Senate amendment would authorize an increase of $20.0 million to accelerate the development of the C-130 Compass Call upgrade to the block 30 configuration.

The conferees agree to authorize an increase of $20.0 million to accelerate the development of the C-130 Compass Call upgrade to the block 30 configuration.

Evolved expendable launch vehicle program

The budget request included $280.3 million for the Evolved Expendable Launch Vehicle (EELV) program.

The House bill would authorize the budget request.

The Senate amendment would authorize the budget request.

The conferees are aware of excess prior year funding in the EELV program. The conferees agree to authorize a decrease to the budget request of $14.0 million in PE 64853F, and direct that $14.0 million in excess prior years funds be used to satisfy fiscal year 1999 requirements for the EELV program.

Big Crow program office

The budget request included no funding for the Big Crow Program Office (BCPO). The BCPO operates two flying laboratories to evaluate weapons and communications systems under stressful conditions.

The House bill would authorize the budget request.

The Senate amendment would authorize an increase of $10.0 million to the budget request for the BCPO to underwrite activities in fiscal year 1999.

The conferees agree to authorize an increase of $8.0 million for BCPO, and support the need for the report on funding policy and management directed in the Senate report (S. Rept. 105-189).

Flight test safety

The budget request included $370.1 million in PE 65807F for test and evaluation support.

The House bill would authorize an increase of $6.0 million for flight test safety enhancements.

The Senate amendment would authorize a decrease of $4.0 million, as discussed elsewhere in this statement of managers.

The conferees agree to authorize a net increase of $2.0 million in PE 65807F, including an increase of $6.0 million for flight test safety enhancements at the Air Force Flight Test Center and a decrease of $4.0 million, as discussed elsewhere in this report.

F-16 Squadrons

The budget request included $125.0 million in PE 27133F for F-16 squadrons.

The House bill would authorize a decrease of $24.6 million.

The House report (H. Rept. 105-532) noted that the budget request reflects an increase of $24.6 million over the level forecast as necessary to support fiscal year 1999 requirements in the fiscal year 1998 budget request.

The Senate amendment would authorize the budget request.

The conferees agree to authorize the budget request.

Advanced medium range air-to-air missile

The budget request included $45.0 million in PE 27163F for advanced medium range air-to-air missile (AMRAAM) research.

The House bill and the Senate amendment would authorize the budget request.

The conferees agree to authorize a decrease of $20.0 million to reflect the delayed EMD effort.

The conferees are aware that there are additional risk reduction activities that will be required before the Air Force begins the engineering and manufacturing development (EMD) effort for the AMRAAM pre-planned product improvement (P3I) program. The conferees support the goals of the P3I program, but believe it prudent to conduct the additional risk reduction activities.

Joint Air-To-Surface Standoff Missile

The budget request included $132.9 million for the Joint Air-to-Surface Standoff Missile (JASSM).

The House bill and the Senate amendment would authorize the budget request.

The budget request included 52 test missiles to support the JASSM test program. Based largely on lower than expected cost estimates, the conferees understand the Air Force now plans to procure 69 test missiles. Even under a revised test plan, eight of these missiles are excess to the testing needs of the program. The conferees agree to authorize a decrease of $3.0 million to eliminate these missiles.

Theater Battle Management C4I

The budget request included $27.3 million for theater battle management C4I.

The House bill would authorize the budget request.

The Senate amendment would authorize an increase of $5.0 million for pre-planned product improvements for the air support operations center (ASOC).

The conferees agree to authorize an increase of $5.0 million for pre-planned product improvements for the ASOC.

Joint Surveillance and Target Attack Radar System

The budget request included $123.8 million in PE 27581F for the Joint Surveillance and Target Attack Radar System (JSTARS).

The House bill would authorize a decrease of $5.6 million to eliminate unnecessary studies and research.

The Senate amendment would authorize the budget request.

The conferees note that the budget request includes $40.2 million for the Radar Technology Improvement Program (RTIP). The conferees support the RTIP program, but also understand that the Air Force has identified a funding shortfall of $428.0 million for this program in fiscal year 2000 and beyond. Given the uncertain status of the program, the conferees believe it is prudent to reduce the level of resources applied to RTIP in fiscal year 1999 pending submission of a fully funded budget by the Air Force. Accordingly, the conferees agree to authorize a decrease of $25.0 million, as follows:

(1) $5.6 million to eliminate unnecessary studies and research; and

(2) $19.4 million to slow RTIP until such time as the Air Force clarifies future funding of the JSTARS program.

Seek Eagle

The budget request included $17.6 million in PE 27590F for the Seek Eagle weapons integration flight test program.

The House bill would authorize an increase of $2.0 million to continue testing Longshot, a range-increasing modification for munitions.

The Senate amendment would authorize the budget request.

The conferees agree to authorize an increase of $2.0 million to continue testing Longshot.

Defense Airborne Reconnaissance Program research and development

The budget request included funds for research and development in the Army, Navy, Air Force, and Defense-Wide accounts for activities of the Defense Airborne Reconnaissance Program (DARP), as shown in the following table.

Account	Budget request	Change from request		Conference agreement
		House bill	Senate amendment
RDT&E, Army	75,636	(26,000)	70,048
RDT&E, Navy	342	67,200	(23,400)	66,548
RDT&E, Air Force	224,008	349,403
RDT&E, Defense-Wide	444,137	(143,333)	(8,000)	35,665
Total	520,115	121,875	(31,400)	521,664

Section 905 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 1998 (Public Law 105–85) transferred the management responsibilities of the Defense Airborne Reconnaissance Office (DARO) to the military services, while retaining Office of the Secretary of Defense (OSD)-level oversight responsibilities for determining airborne reconnaissance architecture and systems interface requirements.

The budget request reflected continuation of airborne reconnaissance programs within DARO. However, subsequent to submitting the budget request, the Secretary of Defense decided to:

- (1) abolish the DARO;
- (2) transfer the OSD-level functions to the Assistant Secretary of Defense for Command, Control, Communications, and Intelligence (ASD C3I); and
- (3) transfer program management responsibilities to the military services.

This decision was reflected in a April 14, 1998 letter from the Under Secretary of Defense for Acquisition and Technology.

The conferees agree to make these adjustments, in both the procurement and the research and development titles. These transfers are reflected in the tables contained in the conference report. In addition, a more detailed spreadsheet of DARO-related investment programs, summarizing transfers and other adjustments to individual budget lines and program elements, is provided in the classified annex that accompanies this conference report.

The conferees note that, unless otherwise reflected in the statement of managers, the transfers do not reflect a change to the purposes for which the funds were requested in the original budget request.

The conferees are extremely concerned that assignment of acquisition program management and funding to the services has not been seen as a signal that stovepipe systems of the past will be acceptable in the future. The conferees stress that these programmatic actions demand a firm leadership role by the Assistant Secretary of Defense (Command, Control, Communications and Intelligence) in establishing policy and exercising oversight to ensure reconnaissance system interoperability for joint operations.

In particular, the tactical control system (TCS), previously assigned to the Unmanned Aerial Vehicle (UAV) Joint Program Office, continues to be assigned to the Navy as the lead service. The conferees note that there is some disagreement within the Department of Defense with respect to whether TCS will serve as the implementation of a single standard tactical UAV and sensor control architecture. The conferees believe that the issue of who operationally controls UAVs and their sensors is an issue separate and distinct from system design technical capabilities. The conferees believe it is imperative that the Joint Requirements Oversight Counsel makes the necessary standards decisions to ensure that operational commanders have full operational flexibility for employment of UAVs.

The budget request included $5.0 million in PE 35204D8Z for the Army's Unmanned Aerial Vehicle (UAV) Systems Integration Laboratory (SIL), and included $3.0 million for continued development of the Multiple UAV Simulation Environment (MUSE).

The House bill would direct the Assistant Secretary of Defense (Command, Control, Communications and Intelligence) to provide the congressional defense and intelligence committees a plan, which includes a funding profile, for the continued operation of the SIL no later than March 31, 1999.

The Senate amendment had no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Overview

The budget request for fiscal year 1999 contained an authorization of $9,314.7 million for Defense-Wide, Research and Development in the Department of Defense. The House bill would authorize $9,173.9 million. The Senate amendment would authorize $9,302.8 million. The conferees recommended an authorization of $8,848.8 million. Unless noted explicitly in the statement of managers, all changes are made without prejudice.

University research initiative

The budget request included $216.0 million in PE 61103D for the university research initiative. The request included $10.0 million for the Defense Experimental Program to Stimulate Competitive Research (DEPSCoR).

The House bill would authorize an increase $15.0 million for the DEPSCoR.

The Senate amendment would authorize the budget request but would fence an additional $10.0 million within the request for the DEPSCoR, a total of $20.0 million.

The House recedes.

Ballistic Missile Defense Organization funding and programmatic guidance

The budget request included approximately $3.6 billion for the Ballistic Missile Defense Organization (BMDO) for research, development, test, and evaluation (RDT&E), and procurement.

The House bill would authorize an increase of $76.8 million for BMDO. In addition, the House bill would authorize an increase of $50.0 million for radar improvements related to Navy Upper Tier under Navy research, development, test, and evaluation (RDT&E).

The Senate amendment would authorize a decrease of $97.7 million for BMDO.

The conferees agree to authorize a decrease of $51.7 million for BMDO.

The conferees recommended funding allocations for BMDO are summarized in the following table. Additional programmatic and funding guidance is also provided below.

The House bill also included an increase of $50.0 million for radar improvements related to Navy Upper Tier under Navy RDT&E.

Support technology

The conferees continue to support BMDO's wide bandgap electronics material development program. Higher speed and higher temperature operation afforded by wide bandgap electronic materials could enhance the miniaturization and functionality of advanced sensors and processing systems for space-based ballistic missile defense (BMD) sensors and ground-based radar systems. The conferees agree to authorize an increase of $14.0 million in PE 62173C to support this important activity.

The conferees continue to support the Atmospheric Interceptor Technology (AIT) program to develop advanced interceptors with potential applications for a range of theater missile defense (TMD) programs. The conferees agree to authorize an increase of $22.0 million in PE 63173C to continue the AIT program.

The conferees commend BMDO and the Air Force for increasing funding in the fiscal year 1999 budget request for the Space Based Laser (SBL) Readiness Demonstrator (RD) program, but are concerned by the Air Force's failure to move the program beyond initial concept definition studies. The conferees continue to support the development of an SBL-RD that could be ready for launch in the 2006–2008 timeframe and urge the Secretary of Defense to provide the necessary funding and programmatic guidance to put the SBL program on this path. Due to the failure to release a request for proposal (RFP) and the Air Force's apparent lack of interest in aggressively advancing the program, the conferees will evaluate alternative management arrangements for the program. The conferees direct the Secretary of Defense to promptly release the RFP for an SBL-RD that could be launched in the 2006–2008 timeframe. In order to support this objective, the conferees agree to authorize an increase of $94.0 million in PE 63173C.

National Missile Defense

The conferees note the existence of some confusion regarding what, if any, national missile defense (NMD) policy has been established in law or otherwise endorsed by Congress. Although the conferees agreed to a provision on this subject last year, which was enacted in the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 1998 (section 231 of Public Law 105–85), this provision did not address NMD deployment policy nor otherwise endorse the administration's policy known as “three-plus-three”.

Although the Congress has acceded to recent funding requests for the administration's “three-plus-three” program, it has never formally endorsed the concept. Indeed, the continued lack of programmatic definition associated with the “plus-three” phase has called into question the administration's willingness and ability to deploy an NMD system on the “three-plus-three” schedule, the integrity of the concept itself, and exacerbated the current debate. The NMD program is the only major defense acquisition program that is not being managed to scheduled milestones beyond initial development. This is a departure from usual practice and proven program management principles. The conferees note that the Director of BMDO has testified that NMD is still an “extremely high risk” program. The conferees believe that the lack of program definition in the “plus-three” phase, and the lack of a defined path from this phase into production and deployment, is contributing to this risk and suboptimal decision-making with adverse impact to NMD programmatic and budgets.

At the same time, the conferees note that the bipartisan Commission to Assess the Ballistic Missile Threat to the United States unanimously concluded that “under some plausible scenarios . . . the U.S. might well have little or no warning before operational deployment” of long range ballistic missiles by hostile powers. The conferees believe that the potential mismatch between this warning time and the deployment timeline for a national missile defense poses a conundrum. Current policy is that no ballistic missile threat to the United States currently justifies deployment of a national missile defense. However, when new ballistic missile threats do emerge, it may be too late to respond in a timely manner.

In view of the above, the conferees believe that further program definition in the “plus-three” phase and beyond will mitigate some of the risks identified. Accordingly, the Secretary of Defense is expected to establish appropriate milestones and exit criteria for the NMD program that are consistent with those for other major defense acquisition programs. Further, the Secretary is expected to conduct NMD program milestone and budget reviews to ensure that established exit criteria are being met.

The conferees note that the Secretary of Defense has completed and submitted to Congress the report on sea-based NMD options called for in last year’s conference report (H. Rept. 105-340), but that this report was submitted only in classified form. The conferees direct the Secretary to submit an unclassified summary of this report to the congressional defense committees as soon as possible.

Medium Extended Air Defense System

Although the conferees continue to support the need for a TMD system to support maneuver forces, the conferees are troubled by the failure of the Department of Defense to structure a fully-funded development program to satisfy this requirement. Although the conferees would support a coherent and fully-funded Medium Extended Air Defense System (MEADS) program, they are unwilling to support a MEADS program that has no funding programmed beyond fiscal year 1999. The conferees note that the Department of Defense has had ample opportunity to address this shortfall. In light of the Department’s unwillingness to provide adequate funding in the outyears, the conferees recommend a reduction of $19.0 million in PE 63869C. Additional funding and programmatic guidance regarding the MEADS program is provided elsewhere in this report.

Theater High Altitude Area Defense (THAAD) system

The conferees continue to support the development, production, and fielding of THAAD as a matter of highest priority. The conferees support the budget request of $497.7 million for THAAD Demonstration and Validation (Dem/Val). In addition, as addressed elsewhere in this report, the conferees agree to authorize an increase of $29.6 million in THAAD Dem/Val funding to support increased competition in the THAAD program, for a total authorization in PE 63861C of $527.4 million.

The conferees are encouraged by the recent cost sharing agreement between the prime contractor and BMDO, and believe that testing should resume at an expeditious pace, without undue delay.

However, given recent delays in the THAAD testing program, and the requirement for THAAD to achieve three successful intercept tests prior to entering Engineering and Manufacturing Development (EMD), the conferees agree to authorize a decrease of $323.9 million from PE 64861C for THAAD EMD.

The conferees expect the Secretary of Defense not to overreact to limited, albeit adverse, test results but to re-double efforts to structure a THAAD program that provides for as timely a response as possible to the recent medium range ballistic missile threat developments. The conferees reiterate the views expressed in previous reports that the THAAD missile and the Navy Upper Tier missile should not be viewed as competing systems, but as complementary. The conferees do not support proposals to use the Navy Upper Tier missile as a substitute for THAAD. The conferees note that the Navy endorses continuation of the THAAD program and views continuation of THAAD testing as important to the success of an accelerated Navy Upper Tier program.

Navy Upper Tier (Theater Wide)

The conferees continue to support the Navy Upper Tier program and urge the Secretary of Defense to accelerate this important development effort within an acceptable degree of program risk. To facilitate this acceleration, the conferees also urge the Navy to begin allocating funds from within its budget to complement those already programmed within the BMDO budget.

The conferees are concerned that necessary radar improvements have not kept up with developments in the Navy Upper Tier interceptor missile system. Therefore, the conferees agree to authorize an increase of $50.0 million for radar improvements competition. The conferees direct BMDO and the Navy to accelerate radar upgrades to ensure that this capability becomes available at the earliest possible date. In pursuing this competition, the conferees direct that a prototype solid state radar be available in 2001 in order to take full advantage of the Standard Missile III development testing planned for 2002. In addition, the conferees agree to authorize an increase of $70.0 million for Navy Upper Tier acceleration, for an overall increase of $120.0 million in PE 63868C.

BMD Technical Operations

The conferees support the efforts being performed at the Army Space and Strategic Defense Command's Advanced Research Center (ARC). The ARC continues to be a valuable tool in support of the Army's development of both theater and national missile defense systems. Therefore, the conferees agree to authorize an increase of $5.0 million in PE 63874C for support of the ARC.

The conferees note substantial unexplained growth in BMDO's system architecture and engineering effort and agree to authorize a decrease of $5.0 million in PE 63874C.

International Cooperative Programs

The budget request included $37.9 million for BMDO's Israeli Cooperative Project, which includes funding for the Arrow ballistic missile defense system. The conferees agree to authorize an increase of $12.0 million in PE 63875C to support interoperability design so the Arrow can operate alongside forward deployed U.S. missile defense systems.

Patriot PAC-3

At the request of the Director of BMDO, the conferees recommend a zero-balance transfer of $40.0 million from PAC-3 procurement to PAC-3 EMD to properly align funds for the type of work being performed. The conferees note with concern that this realignment is the result of significant delays in the PAC-3 flight test program. The conferees remain convinced that PAC-3 is an essential TMD system and is the only near term defense against threats emerging in the Southwest Asia and elsewhere. Nevertheless, if the PAC-3 test program does not demonstrate significant improvement, the conferees do not rule out the possibility of future funding reductions.

Medical free electron laser

The budget request included $9.7 million in PE 62227D for the medical free electron laser program.

The House bill would authorize an increase of $5.0 million.

The Senate amendment would authorize an increase $7.0 million.

The conferees agree to authorize an increase of $7.0 million.

Computing systems and communications technology

The budget request included $417.7 million in PE 62301E for computing systems and communications technology.

The House bill would authorize the budget request.

The Senate amendment would authorize a decrease of $30.0 million in the joint infrastructure protection project and a transfer of an additional $10.0 million from that project to PE 33104F for cyber-security research.

The conferees endorse the views in the Senate report (S. Rept. 105-189) with regard to the joint infrastructure protection project and reiterate the requirement for the report specified by the Senate. The conferees are especially concerned about the deficient planning for such a project given the widely recognized need to address vulnerabilities in the U.S. information infrastructure as quickly as possible. However, in recognition of the urgency of this issue, the conferees agree to an undistributed reduction in PE 62301E of $40.0 million to allow Defense Advanced Research Projects Agency (DARPA) flexibility to allocate the reduction consistent with national security priorities.

Chemical-biological defense program

The budget request included $620.3 million for the chemical-biological defense program, including $336.4 million in research and development, test and evaluation and $283.9 million in procurement. The budget request also included $88.0 million for the Defense Advanced Research Projects Agency (DARPA) biological warfare (BW) defense program (PE 62383E).

The House bill would authorize the budget request for the chemical-biological defense program and the biological warfare defense program (PE 62383E), but would decrease the budget request of $6.9 million for procurement of contamination avoidance equipment for the use by the Reserve Components to respond to domestic emergencies.

The Senate amendment would recommend the following increases to the budget request for the chemical-biological defense program: $10.0 million to accelerate research and development of small, light-weight, man-portable chemical and biological agent detection sensors; $4.0 million in PE 62384BP for Project SAFE-GUARD to continue proof of concept testing to establish sensor performance, initiate packaging and real-time processing, and the conduct of platform studies; and $1.5 million in PE 62383E to demonstrate the use of technologies for the deployment of telemedicine and other capabilities to the warfighters; but would recommend a $12.0 million reduction to the budget request for the DARPA BW program.

Additionally, the Senate amendment would transfer the mission, function and resources for the chemical-biological defense program to the Defense Threat Reduction Agency (DTRA), consistent with the recommendation of the November 1997 Defense Reform Initiative (DRI).

The conferees agree to authorize an increase of $15.5 million for chemical-biological defense for acceleration of research and development of small, light-weight, man-portable chemical and biological detectors ($5.0 million in PE 61384BP and $5.0 million in PE 62384BP), $4.0 million in PE 62384 BP for Project SAFE-GUARD, and $1.5 million in PE 62384E for the demonstration and deployment of technologies for telemedicine and other capabilities to the warfighters; but would reduce the budget request by $7.0 million for PE 62383E. Additionally, the conferees continue to express strong support for innovative technologies to detect chemical and biological agents, such as aerogels and radio frequency identification sensor tags, and encourage the broad participation of the national laboratories, universities and, where appropriate, industry, in these efforts.

The conferees endorse the concerns expressed in the Senate report (S. Rept. 105-189) regarding the shortcomings and deficiencies in the chemical-biological defense program related to the provision of adequate force structure and equipment to protect military facilities, as well as the deficiencies in doctrine, policy, equipment and training for the defense of critical overseas ports and airfields. The conferees direct the Secretary of Defense to report to the congressional defense committees by December 1, 1998 and annually thereafter, in the Department of Defense Nuclear, Chemical Biological (NCB) Defense Annual Report, on the plans to correct these deficiencies, including the deployment on a long-term basis of Army Biological Integrated Detection Systems (BIDS) companies in high threat commands or regions.

Oversight and management of chemical/biological defense program for Fiscal Year 1994 (Public Law 103-160, 52 U.S.C. 1522) in consolidating, coordinating and integrating the chemical-biological defense requirements of the military departments into a single office within the Department of Defense. Under this agreement, the DOD chemical-biological defense program office provides overall policy and budget guidance for the program, the Defense Acquisition Board process provides oversight of the program, and the Department of the Army acts as the executive agent. The conferees also note that the establishment of a Joint Nuclear, Chemical and Biological (NCB) Board to provide management structure for the program ensures that the operational needs of the services are integrated and coordinated, and that unnecessary duplication of effort is eliminated in the preparation of the chem-bio defense Program Objective Memorandum.

The conferees agree that a single office for overall coordination and integration of the DOD chem-bio defense program, as required by Public Law 103-160, be maintained within the Office of the Secretary, and strongly believe that the office must be assigned sufficient staff to exercise its policy and budget guidance roles. In addition, the conferees strongly support continued implementation of the Joint Service Agreement to ensure coordination, integration and management of the program.

With regard to the transfer of the chem-bio defense program to the Defense Threat Reduction Agency (DTRA), the conferees agree that the management role of the DTRA with regard to the chem-bio defense program should be limited to those chem-bio defense activities and projects that represent unique operational mission responsibilities of DTRA. Therefore, the conferees do not agree to transfer overall responsibility for the execution and day-to-day management of the chem-bio defense program to DTRA. However, to ensure consideration of DTRA chem-bio defense and related counterproliferation operational requirements in the DOD chem-bio defense program, the conferees recommend that DTRA become a party to the Joint Service Agreement on NCB defense and be included as a voting member of the Joint NCB Defense Board.

Tactical technology

The budget request included $189.0 million in PE 62702E for tactical technology.

The House bill would authorize a decrease of $37.0 million for applied research in tactical technology.

The Senate amendment would authorize a decrease of $5.0 million for the increased scope of work on the micro unmanned aerial vehicle program.

The conferees agree to authorize a decrease of $32.0 million in PE 62702E.

Integrated command and control technology

The budget request included $34.0 million in PE 62708E for integrated command and control technology.

The House bill would authorize an increase of $6.0 million for continued development of advanced technologies for flat panel displays.

The Senate amendment would authorize an increase of $8.0 million for flat panel display to continue the development of a domestic infrastructure within the context of the flat panel display initiative.

The conferees agree to authorize an increase of $7.0 million for flat panel displays.

Materials and electronic technologies

The budget request included $244.4 million in PE 62712E for material and electronics technology.

The House bill would authorize the budget request.

The Senate amendment would authorize an increase of $6.0 million for the continued development of the mixed mode electronics multi-technology insertion (MIME) program.

The conferees agree to authorize an increase of $6.0 million for the MIME program and to authorize a reduction of $8.0 million for sonoelectronics to fund other higher priority projects.

Weapons of mass destruction technologies

The budget request included $203.6 million for weapons of mass destruction technologies (PE 62715BR) of the Defense Special Weapons Agency (DSWA).

The House bill would authorize the budget request.

The Senate amendment would recommend an increase of $15.0 million, including $10.0 million to maintain nuclear core competencies and critical scientific and engineering expertise; $2.0 million to maintain efforts to protect critical civil and commercial advanced electronic technologies and space systems against nuclear and conventional explosions; and $3.0 million to accelerate the pace and development of components and subsystems toward a prototype "deep digger" system.

The conferees agree to authorize an increase of $13.0 million to the budget request: $10.0 million to maintain nuclear core competencies and critical scientific and engineering expertise in nuclear weapons effects technology and $3.0 million to accelerate the pace and development of components and subsystems toward a prototype "deep digger" system.

The conferees remain concerned about the impact of high altitude nuclear and conventional explosions on critical civil and commercial activities and the potential vulnerability of next generation satellites and high technology upon which U.S. Armed Forces rely. The conferees have supported the efforts of the DSWA to conduct research on the effects of electromagnetic pulse (EMP) and the potential impact on military systems and critical technologies, and to develop technologies that would reduce potential vulnerabilities of the effects of radiation and EMP on advanced electronic technologies and space systems.

The conferees endorse the direction contained in the House Report (H. Rept. 105-532) accompanying its fiscal year 1999, defense authorization bill that the Secretary of Defense, in consultation with the Director of Central Intelligence, report to the congressional defense committees by March 1, 1999 on the potential effects of high- and low-frequency EMP on critical military and civil systems and steps that might be taken to reduce potential vulnerabilities to EMP.

Explosives demilitarization technology

The budget request included $11.6 million for the explosives demilitarization technology program (PE 63104D8Z).

The House bill would authorize an increase of $2.0 million to allow continued aggressive development of environmentally safe procedures to safely dispose of conventional military munitions.

The Senate amendment would authorize an increase of $5.5 million: $4.0 million to complete the demonstration of existing commercially available blast chamber technology; and $1.5 million to design a mobile system utilizing the commercially available blast chamber technology.

The conferees agree to authorize an increase of $6.0 million to the budget request, including $2.0 million to continue aggressive development of environmentally safe procedures to dispose of conventional military munitions and $4.0 million to complete the demonstration of commercially available blast chamber technology as a viable alternative to open burn/open detonation demilitarization of conventional munitions.

The conferees concur with the concerns expressed in the Senate report (S. Rept. 105–189) regarding the existence of small numbers of conventional munitions at demilitarization sites in the United States which need to be destroyed, where it may not be cost effective or practical to construct a destruction facility. The conferees support the efforts of the Department of Defense to design a mobile system utilizing the commercially available blast chamber technology.

Counterterror technical support program

The budget request included $35.8 million for the counterterror technical support (CTTS) program (PE 63122D8Z).

The House bill would authorize an increase of $4.0 million increase for the development and demonstration of biometric access control technology, to include the use of authentication software and the principal component method of facial recognition.

The Senate amendment would authorize an increase of $5.0 million for the facial recognition technology program. Additionally, the Senate would recommend the transfer of the counterterror technical support program to the Defense Threat Reduction Agency.

The conferees agree to authorize an increase of $4.0 million for the facial recognition technology program. In addition, the conferees endorse two recommendations contained in the Senate report (S. Rept. 105–185). First, the conferees support efforts by the Department of Defense to maintain collaborative efforts with allies who have demonstrated counter-terrorism capabilities, which can provide the United States with a cost-effective way to remain on the cutting-edge of technology. Second, the conferees support efforts by the Department to continue its examination of retrofit options and to develop design guidelines for new and existing structures, including the use of composite systems.

The conferees recognize the success of the interagency Technical Support Working Group (TSWG) and the Counterterror Technical Support program, and direct that oversight and direction of the program remain with the Office of the Assistant Secretary for Special Operations and Low Intensity Conflict.

The conferees understand that the ASD (SO/LIC) is responsible for oversight of the TSWG and the Office of Special Technology (OST). The conferees also understand that there are other entities within the Department of Defense that can contribute to the interagency program to combat terrorism, such as the Defense Special Weapons Agency (DSWA), and encourage the TSWG to continue its coordination activities with these DOD entities, as well as with non-DOD entities, to ensure that the expertise available to the U.S. Government is appropriately applied to national and international efforts to combat terrorism.

The conferees also encourage the continued cooperation between the TSWG and the Physical Security Action Group (PSEAG) to ensure that the CTTS and the physical security equipment programs address technologies that meet force protection needs.

Counterproliferation support program

The budget request included $80.4 million for the counterproliferation support program, $70.6 million in PE 63160BR and $9.8 million in PE 65160BR.

The House bill would recommend that the counterproliferation support program be maintained at the fiscal year 1998 level and would authorize a decrease of $13.0 million.

The Senate amendment would authorize an increase of $4.0 million to PE 65160BR for the Counterproliferation Analysis and Planning System (CAPS) and an increase of $3.0 million to PE 63160BR for the high frequency active auroral research program (HAARP). In addition, the Senate would recommend an increase of $20.5 million increase for the unfunded requirements for the U.S. Special Operations Command (USSOCOM) for training, equipment and activities related to detecting, identifying, rendering safe, destroying or recovering weapons of mass destruction.

The House recedes.

The conferees endorse the concerns expressed in the Senate report (S. Rept. 105-185) and the recommendation that funds authorized for HAARP not be diverted to fund government overhead and Systems Engineering and Technical Assessments (SETA) support, and that the combined overhead/SETA support costs be no more than 10 percent.

Automatic target recognition

The budget request included $5.1 million in PE 63232D for automatic target recognition.

The House bill would authorize an increase of $3.0 million for optical correlation technology research.

The Senate amendment would authorize the budget request.

The conferees agree to authorize the budget request.

Generic logistics research and development technology demonstrations

The budget request included $17.8 million in PE 63712S for generic logistics research and development technology demonstrations.

The House bill would authorize the budget request.

The Senate amendment would authorize an increase of $4.0 million for the computer assisted technology transfer program.

The conferees agree to authorize an increase of $4.0 million for the computer assisted technology transfer program.

Strategic Environmental Research and Development Program

The budget request included $54.4 million for the Strategic Environmental Research and Development Program (SERDP) and transferred the program from PE 63716D to PE 63780A.

The House bill included no funds for SERDP.

The Senate amendment would authorize the budget request.

The conferees agree to authorize the budget request and direct that SERDP be identified under a Department of Defense (DOD) program element to avoid confusion about its unique multi-agency purpose. The conferees recognize the value of SERDP as a tri-agency cooperative program that supports basic and applied research and development of innovative technologies to meet the environmental obligations of the DOD, the Department of Energy, and the Environmental Protection Agency. The conferees expect that maintaining SERDP under a DOD program element will preserve its multi-agency focus.

Advanced electronics technologies

The budget request included $244.7 million in PE 63739E for advanced electronics technologies.

The House bill would authorize the budget request.

The Senate amendment would authorize an increase of $10.0 million for advanced mask writer development in advanced lithography and would authorize a decrease of $4.0 million for new start work in project MT-04.

The conferees agree to authorize an increase of $10.0 million for advanced lithography development, as described in the Senate report (S. Rept. 105-189), and a decrease of $8.4 million for molecular level printing program acceleration and submarine sensor suite development to fund higher priority projects.

Maritime technology

The budget request included $15.0 million in PE 63746E for the maritime technology (MARITECH) advanced shipbuilding enterprise (ASE) program.

The Senate amendment would authorize an increase of $5.0 million to PE 63746E for MARITECH ASE.

The House bill would authorize the budget request.

The conferees agree to authorize an increase of $5.0 million to PE 63746E for MARITECH ASE.

Advanced concept technology demonstrations

The budget request included $116.3 million in PE 63750D for advanced concept technology demonstrations.

The House bill would authorize a decrease of $12.0 million for advanced concept technology demonstrations.

The Senate amendment would authorize a decrease of $6.0 million in the same program.

The conferees agree to authorize a decrease of $12.0 million for advanced concept technology demonstrations.

High performance computing modernization program

The budget request included $140.9 million in PE 63755D for high performance computing modernization program.

The House bill would authorize the budget request.

The Senate amendment would authorize an increase of $20.0 million to sustain operations of supercomputing centers established with Department of Defense funds and an increase of $3.0 million for a program to address related challenges in remote visualization, distance learning expansion, and collaborative exploitation of high performance computing capabilities.

The House recedes.

Command, control and communications systems

The budget request included $200.1 million in PE 63760E for command, control and communications systems.

The House bill would authorize a decrease of $27.5 million for command, control and communications systems.

The Senate amendment would authorize a decrease of $11.0 million in the same program.

The conferees agree to authorize a decrease of $27.5 million.

Sensor and guidance technology

The budget request included $213.2 million in PE 63762E for sensor and guidance technology.

The House bill would authorize a decrease of $13.1 million within the program and an increase of $10.0 million for seismic sensor technology development.

The Senate amendment would authorize the budget request.

The conferees agree to authorize a decrease of $13.1 million for the program. The funding for seismic sensor technology development is addressed elsewhere in this statement of managers.

Land warfare technology

The budget request included $108.5 million in PE 63764E for land warfare technology.

The House bill would authorize a decrease of $11.6 million in the program.

The Senate amendment would authorize a decrease of $4.0 million for a new start project in LNW01.

The conferees agree to a decrease of $17.6 million in the program: a reduction of $11.6 million, as described in the House report (H. Rept. 105-532); and a reduction of $6.0 million for tactical mobile robots acceleration and situation awareness system program growth to fund higher priority programs.

Physical security

The budget request included $31.7 million for the Department of Defense physical security program (PE 63228D8Z).

The House bill would authorize the budget request.

The Senate amendment would authorize a decrease of $6.0 million for activities related to demonstrating commercial off-the-shelf technologies. In addition, the Senate would make available $3.0 million for a study to determine the utility of a software technology developed jointly by industry and the national laboratories, the Analytic System and Software for Evaluating Safeguards and Security (ASSESS), for use by the Department of Defense as an integral component in conducting vulnerability assessments at numerous Department of Defense facilities and installations.

The conferees agree to authorize a decrease of $3.0 million for activities related to demonstrating commercial off-the-shelf technologies in PE 63228D8Z, and that decreases to this program not be made to projects currently underway. Additionally, the conferees would make available $3.0 million for a study on the utility of ASSESS as an integral component of DOD efforts to assess vulnerability assessments at its facilities and installations.

Continuous acquisition and life-cycle support activities initiative

The budget request included $1.9 million in PE 63736D for the continuous acquisition and life-cycle support activities (CALS) initiative.

The House bill would authorize the budget request.

The Senate amendment would authorize an increase of $2.0 million for the integrated data environment program.

The conferees agree to authorize an increase of $2.0 million for the integrated data environment program.

North Atlantic Treaty Organization research and development

The budget request included $44.4 million for the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) research and development activities in the following accounts: $11.6 million for the Army (PE 63790A); $11.0 million for the Navy (PE 63790N); $11.1 million for the Air Force (PE 63790F); and $10.7 million for the Department of Defense (PE 63790T).

The House bill would authorize a decrease of $5.0 million VECTOR activity in the Navy program (PE 63790N), an international flight demonstration effort utilizing X-31 experimental aircraft.

The Senate amendment would recommend that funds for the NATO research and development activities remain at the fiscal year 1998 funding levels plus inflation, resulting in the following decreases: $2.0 million (Army); $1.1 million (Navy); $0.4 million (Air Force); and $2.3 million (defense-wide).

The conferees agree to authorize the following decreases: $2.0 million (Army); $4.0 million (Navy); $0.4 million (Air Force); and $2.3 million (defense-wide). The omnibus reprogramming (FY98-16PA) currently before the Congress for approval includes as a source of funds $3.0 million from the Navy NATO research and development program for activities related to VECTOR. According to the rationale making the sources available for reprogramming, agreements have not been reached yet between the United States and Sweden, and therefore the funds are available. The conferees recommend that the Department of the Navy utilize those funds for activities in fiscal year 1999.

Humanitarian demining

The budget request included $17.2 million for humanitarian demining research and development activities in PE 63920D8Z.

The House bill would authorize a decrease of $5.0 million.

The Senate amendment would authorize the budget request.

The conferees agree to authorize the budget request.

Joint robotics program-engineering development

The budget request included $11.3 million in PE 64709D for the joint robotics program-engineering development.

The House bill would authorize the budget request.

The Senate amendment would authorize an increase of $6.0 million for accelerated joint robotics technology engineering and management development.

The conferees agree to authorize an increase of $6.0 million for accelerated joint robotics technology engineering and management development.

Defense technology analysis

The budget request included $5.0 million in PE 65798S for the defense technology analysis program.

The House bill would authorize the budget request.

The Senate amendment would authorize an increase of $2.0 million for the commodity management technology program.

The conferees agree to an increase of $2.0 million for the commodity management technology program.

Defense technical information services

The budget request included $46.5 million in PE 65801K for defense technical information services.

The House bill would authorize the budget request.

The Senate amendment would authorize a decrease of $1.0 million for expansion of defense technical information.

The conferees agree to authorize a decrease of $1.0 million for expansion of defense technical information.

Special operations intelligence systems development

The budget request included $1.8 million for special operations forces intelligence systems development.

The House bill would authorize an increase of $5.0 million for research and development requirements associated with the Special Operations intelligence vehicle.

The Senate amendment would authorize the budget request.

The conferees agree to authorize an increase of $2.5 million for development of the Special Operations intelligence vehicle.

Live fire testing

The budget request included $9.9 million in PE 65131D for live fire testing.

The House bill would authorize an increase of $4.0 million to expand threat vulnerability testing to include the threat of radio frequency weapons.

The Senate amendment would authorize the budget request.

The Senate recesses.

ITEMS OF SPECIAL INTEREST

Advanced lightweight grenade launcher

The conferees note ongoing efforts by the Special Operations Command (SOCOM) to develop new lightweight weapon systems necessary to support critical mission requirements by reducing the load that special operations personnel must carry. The conferees support ongoing efforts to develop a new advanced lightweight grenade launcher (ALGL) that will support special operations missions and believe this capability has applicability beyond the Special Operations Command. The conferees encourage the Special Operations Command to assess future warfighting requirements and determine the viability of ALGL concept. If ALGL meets warfighting requirements, the conferees would expect SOCOM to request funding necessary to develop this weapon and meet future warfighting requirements.

Advanced tactical computer science and sensor technology

The budget request included $18.5 million in PE 63772A for advanced tactical computer science and sensor technology.

The House bill would authorize the budget request.

The Senate amendment would authorize an additional $2.5 million for digital intelligence technology development.

The Senate recesses.

The conferees strongly endorse the use of commercial-off-the-shelf (COTS) technology where appropriate to meet the needs of the 21st Century Army. The committee urges the Army to consider spending up to $5.0 million of the discretionary funds in the Army's digitization program to explore alternative COTS technology for command and control applications for dismounted soldiers.

Commercial technologies for maintenance activities

The conferees agree to amend the budget request to change the name of PE 63805S to commercial technologies for maintenance activities.

The conferees support funding for this program established in section 361 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 1998. The conferees believe the commercial technologies for maintenance activities program provides a framework for the depot maintenance activities to work together with U.S. manufacturing companies on projects of common interest in which industry will match Department of Defense funding on a two-for-one basis. The conferees believe that in planning the program in the outyears, the Defense Logistics Agency (DLA) should require each of the participating services to match DLA funds for the projects conducted under the program. In managing the program in fiscal year 1999, the DLA should consider imposing such a matching requirement where practicable.

Cyber Security Program

The conferees support the Air Force cyber-security program, which would allow the Air Force to conduct research and development at federally funded research and development centers that are currently working in collaboration on issues relating to security information assurance. This program would help to facilitate the transition of information assurance technology to the defense community which is vital as the Defense Department increases its reliance on computer networks and information technology.

Defense information superiority, assurance, and interoperability

Joint Vision 2010, the Joint Chiefs of Staff conceptual template for how U.S. Armed Forces will fight future wars, identifies information superiority—the capability of maintaining an uninterrupted flow of information while denying an adversary's ability to do the same—as a key enabler for success in any future conflict.

The conferees believe that communications network interoperability problems experienced by Navy carrier battle groups during operational test and evaluation of the advanced combat direction system and the cooperative engagement capability, as discussed elsewhere in this statement of managers, highlight potentially greater interoperability problems in communications, command, control, computers, intelligence, surveillance, and reconnaissance (C4ISR) systems networking at the joint level. Such problems will adversely affect the ability of U.S. Armed Forces to achieve the information superiority required for success on future battlefields.

The General Accounting Office (GAO) has identified a number of activities within the Department of Defense (DOD) intended to ensure that U.S. Armed Forces are capable of establishing and maintaining information superiority in the future. According to the GAO reports, the DOD has begun to make progress toward establishing a comprehensive C4ISR architecture, but needs to complete its development, establish adequate information assurance measures, and ensure compliance with the architecture by the military departments, unified commands, and agencies. The GAO also observed that the complexity, magnitude, and cost of DOD's information superiority efforts warrant a comprehensive annual overview of the state of the Department's management and oversight of C4ISR acquisitions. The conferees understand that the DOD agreed with the recommendations contained in the GAO reports.

Accordingly, the conferees direct the Secretary of Defense to submit with the DOD budget request for fiscal year 2000 a report to the congressional defense committees on the implementation of the information superiority concept and its attendant key C4ISR systems development and acquisitions. The report should describe a DOD roadmap for C4ISR interoperability. The report should describe identified obstacles to interoperability, architecture development, implementation, and maintenance and the plans, including the planned allocation of resources, to address them.

Joint simulation system

The conferees view the development of the Joint Simulation System (JSIMS) in PE 92740J as an important step in meeting a critical joint readiness requirement. In addition, JSIMS provides a framework for the migration of all training simulations into a common system and the elimination of the existing suite of legacy simulations across the services. These legacy simulations are increasingly outdated and expensive to maintain. JSIMS is also a key enabler for the joint experimentation process recently directed by the Secretary of Defense to be established under the Commander in Chief, U.S. Atlantic Command.

The conferees encourage the Department of Defense to adequately fund this program in fiscal year 2000 and beyond as a means of ensuring that full operating capability follows the fielding of initial operating capability without delay.

Man overboard indicator technology

The budget request included no funds for the development of man overboard indicator technology.

Both the House report (H. Rept. 105-532) and the Senate report (S. Rept. 105-189) encouraged the Navy to investigate the utility of commercially available, water-activated man overboard indicator and the feasibility of integrating such a system for fleet use.

The conferees encourage the Navy to investigate the feasibility of integrating a commercial off-the-shelf man overboard indicator as a means of immediately alerting ship control personnel of a person accidentally falling overboard. Additionally, the conferees encourage the Navy to continue their initiatives to identify a commercial off-the-shelf personnel tracking and physiological monitoring system, and to investigate the possibility and utility of combining man overboard, tracking, and physiological monitoring requirements into one device.

Materials research

The House report (H. Rept. 105-532) expressed concern about the direction of materials research within the Department of Defense and the belief that such research should seek to reduce long-term dependence for critical defense materials upon foreign sources. The report directed the Secretary of Defense to undertake a basic review of the policies and programs regarding defense critical materials and critical materials research and to report the results of this review by February 15, 1999.

The Senate report (S. Rept. 105-189) included no similar direction.

The conferees note the views expressed in the House report and the potential vulnerabilities of the domestic and foreign supplier base for critical defense materials needed in the production of future defense systems. The conferees recognize the decline in funding of applied materials research in the Department, particularly in the support of fundamental materials research by the Defense Advanced Research Projects Agency.

In addition to the issues identified in the House report, the conferees direct the Secretary of Defense to assess the requirements for a long-range plan for future materials research that would ensure the availability of emerging high performance materials for future defense needs and to include the results of this assessment in the report submitted to the Congress. As a part of this assessment, the Secretary should consider the state of competition, both within the United States and international markets, for raw materials for high speed applications, such as gallium or other materials.

Military human immunodeficiency virus research

The budget request included $5.7 million in PE 63105A for military human immunodeficiency virus research.

The House bill would authorize the budget request.

The Senate amendment would authorize a decrease of $2.6 million for the program.

The conferees agree to authorize the budget request.

Navy antisubmarine warfare program

The conferees note the 1997 report by the Naval Studies Board of the National Academy of Sciences, Technology for the United States Navy and Marine Corps, 2000–2035. The report concludes that:

(1) antisubmarine warfare (ASW) is one of the Navy's most fundamental core competencies;

(2) ASW must remain a core competency in the face of a submarine threat that will increase in the 21st century to become the dominant threat to the accomplishment of naval missions;

(3) the continuing draw down in naval forces and the current de-emphasis on ASW have seriously eroded the Navy's ASW capabilities;

(4) this erosion of capabilities comes at a time when potential future adversaries are rapidly acquiring advanced quieting techniques and other offensive submarine capabilities;

(5) the lack of consensus on a submarine threat and competing naval warfare priorities, combined with mounting pressure on the overall defense budget, have put the Navy's ASW program at historically low levels;

(6) advances in ASW capability come about only as a result of dedicated, long-term research and development based on at-sea operations, testing, measurements, and experimentation; and

(7) these types of research and development projects and operations are largely absent from current Navy programs and plans.

The conclusions of the Naval Studies Board closely parallel congressional concerns about the erosion of the Navy's ASW capabilities since the end of the Cold War. These concerns led to direction to the Secretary of Defense in the statement of managers that accompanied the conference report on S. 1124 (H. Rept. 104–450), and in the classified annex that accompanied the statement of managers on H.R. 3230 (H. Rept. 104–724). These reports directed the Secretary to assess the current and projected U.S. ASW capability in the light of the developing threat and budget trends, and to identify the short-term and long-term improvements needed to cope with the evolving submarine threat.

The conferees commend the Navy and the Office of the Secretary of Defense for The 1997 Anti-Submarine Warfare Assessment, dated March 1998. The assessment reaffirms that ASW is a top priority mission for the Navy, as well as being a core and enduring naval competency. The assessment of ASW training, modernization, and organization concludes that ASW training proficiency has declined and recommends that responsibility for ASW proficiency be refocused in the fleet. According to the report, the highest priority ASW modernization efforts are funded and the President's budget request for fiscal year 1999 provides adequate equipment to respond to likely threats to the end of the Future Year Defense Program and beyond. The Navy has also created a new staff organization within the Office of the Chief of Naval Operations (N-84), and charged that organization with the responsibility for integration and assessment of the Navy ASW program.

The conferees believe that ASW is a critical enabler for naval operations in the world's littoral regions, and that a stable and focused ASW program under appropriate oversight by the Department of the Navy and the Office of the Secretary of Defense will be critical to achieving the goals of near- and long-term improvements in ASW proficiency and capabilities. To that end, the conferees direct the Navy to update, at least biannually, an ASW Master Plan that reflects the Navy's overall ASW investment strategy and program. The conferees also believe that the Chief of Naval Operations should consider providing staffing and responsibility for N-84 that is on a level commensurate with that of other Navy staff resource sponsors for the functional warfare areas.

Navy land attack missile program

The budget request included $11.3 million in PE 63795N for continued evaluation of a naval version of the Army Tactical Missile System (NTACMS) for naval surface ship and submarine use. No funds were included in the budget request for the Land Attack Standard Missile (LASM), a land attack variant of the Navy Standard Missile.

The House bill would authorize the budget request. The House bill would also direct that the Navy's land attack missile program not proceed to a Milestone I development decision until the analysis of alternatives and other issues appropriate to a major acquisition program milestone decision have been resolved.

The Senate amendment would authorize the budget request. The Senate amendment would also direct the Secretary of the Navy to report, among other things, an analysis of alternatives for an advanced gun system that considers fulfilling some portion of the Navy's fire support requirement with a modified version of the Army's extended range multiple launch rocket system and some portion of the fire support requirement with NTACMS.

The House Report (H. Rept. 105-132) accompanying the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 1998 cautioned that a thorough, objective and independent cost and operational effectiveness analysis of competing system alternatives for meeting the operational requirements for a naval land attack missile would be required before the Navy proceeds with any development milestone decision for such a missile system.

The conferees are aware that the Chief of Naval Operations selected LASM as the most cost effective near-term solution to its requirement for a land attack missile system. According to the Navy, selection of LASM was based on an extensive and broadly based land attack analysis that compared LASM and NTACMS on the basis of range, responsiveness, lethality, growth potential, and cost. But, the conferees believe that the assumptions used in the analysis may not accurately reflect the operational realities of the littoral battlefield. In addition, the impact of selecting LASM may result in the cancellation of the NTACMS program. Cancellation of NTACMS would result in a different approach regarding land attack missile support of Marines ashore and submarine employment in the littorals from that described in Navy testimony before Congress. The conferees are reluctant to approve a request for authorizing LASM if it results in cancellation of NTACMS without Navy explanations of the impact of such a decision on support of Marines ashore and other submarine missions in littoral warfare.

The conferees agree to authorize $11.3 million for development, risk reduction, and analytical activities leading to a defense acquisition program milestone decision for the missile system program to satisfy the Navy's land attack missile requirement. The conferees direct the Secretary of Defense to ensure that the analysis of alternatives for a Navy land attack missile system, as discussed in the statements of managers accompanying the National Defense Authorization Act for 1998 (Public Law 105-85) and the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 1999 (H. Rept. 105-532 and S. Rept. 105-189), and other issues appropriate to a major acquisition milestone decision are completed and the results reviewed by the Defense Acquisition Board before the Navy proceeds with a development milestone decision for the land attack missile system.

Oceanographic research information

The conferees are aware of recent announcements by the Vice President that the Department of the Navy is declassifying, and will make available for use by the public and private institutions and agencies with ocean research and education programs, previously classified acoustical data from the U.S. Navy's underwater Sound Surveillance System (SOSUS) and data on ocean temperature and salinity levels under the Arctic ice cap. These data can be used, among other things, to track the migrations of large marine mammals, predict natural catastrophes, and support long-term climate change research. The conferees believe that such actions provide the opportunity to leverage the nation's $16.0 billion investment in the SOSUS system by making data from this system available for continuing defense research and for civilian scientific research and education.

The conferees request that the Chairman of the National Oceanographic Research Leadership Council conduct an assessment of: (1) the value of SOSUS data to meet the requirements of appropriate private and public institutions and agencies with ocean research and education programs; (2) the cost of making SOSUS data available for such purposes in comparison to the cost of deploying alternative data-gathering systems; (3) recommended options for making such data available to civilian and defense research and education institutions and agencies; and (4) recommendations on effective ways to foster cooperation among agencies that would benefit from SOSUS data, including the potential for cost-sharing among the agencies and institutions that would participate in the program. In conducting the assessment, the Council should take into account the cooperative research and development agreement that was established between the Navy and the Scientific Environmental Research Foundation in June 1998, to use deactivated SOSUS stations to collect data for scientific and educational purposes. The conferees further request that a report of the results of the assessment be included in the annual report to Congress on the National Oceanographic Partnership Program that is to be submitted by March 1, 1999.

Optical correlation technology for automatic target recognition

The conferees understand that progress in the development of optical correlation technology for automatic target recognition holds promise for the application of this technology to precision munitions, target cueing for surveillance systems, medical diagnosis, and other applications. The conferees agree with the direction contained in the House report (H. Rept. 105-532) that the Under Secretary of Defense (Acquisition and Technology) report to the congressional defense committees with the submission of the fiscal year 2000 budget request, the overall plan and program of the Department of Defense for the development and demonstration of optical correlator technology for automatic target recognition. The conferees urge the Secretary of Defense to consider using discretionary funds to continue development of this program through fiscal year 1999.

Patriot anti-cruise missile defense

The conferees reaffirm their support for fully evaluating the Patriot anti-cruise missile (PACM) concept and direct the Secretary of the Army to complete a rigorous test and evaluation program in fiscal year 1999, using funds previously appropriated for this purpose, to determine the effectiveness of the PACM seeker against the full range of cruise missile threats. Results of this evaluation shall be provided to the congressional defense committees in a report by April 15, 1999. The report shall also include an assessment of options and associated costs for utilizing the PACM seeker in future upgrades to existing Patriot missiles.

Project M

The budget request included $4.9 million in PE 63508N to continue the development and demonstration of advanced vibration control and quieting technology for naval machinery support structures that was developed under the Defense Advanced Research Project Agency's Project M.

The House bill would authorize the budget request. The House bill would also direct the Secretary of the Navy to program funds for fiscal year 2000 to develop a prototype system for surface ships that uses the Project M technology.

The Senate amendment would authorize the budget request.

The conferees agree to authorize the budget request to continue the development and demonstration of the Project M technology in the Navy's submarine large scale vehicle. The conferees also request the Secretary of the Navy to assess the potential benefits that might result from the application of the Project M technology in surface ships and to report the results of that assessment to the congressional defense committees by March 31, 1999.

Software security

The conferees note the potential value of continuing efforts to improve computer security by developing and testing prototype software security mechanisms, and the conferees urge the Secretary of Defense to consider using $500,000 from discretionary funds for this purpose.

LEGISLATIVE PROVISIONS ADOPTED

Subtitle A—Authorization of Appropriations

Authorization of appropriations (secs. 201–202)

The House bill contained provisions (secs. 201–202) that would authorize the recommended fiscal year 1999 funding levels for all research, development, test, and evaluation accounts.

The Senate amendment contained similar provisions.

The conference agreement includes these provisions.

Subtitle B—Program Requirements, Restrictions, and Limitations

Management responsibility for Navy mine countermeasures programs (sec. 211)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 211) that would extend until fiscal year 2003 the Office of the Secretary of Defense's responsibilities for certifying that: (1) the Navy has submitted an adequate plan for mine countermeasures programs; (2) the budget and the Future Years Defense Program support the plan; and (3) the Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff has determined the Navy's program is sufficient.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recesses.

Future aircraft carrier transition technologies (sec. 212)

The budget request included $149.5 million for future aircraft carrier research and development in PE 63512N and $40.6 million for CV(X) feasibility studies in PE 63564N. The request also included $38.5 million for CVN–77 contract design in PE 64567N.

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 212) that would authorize the budget request and designate $50.0 million of the $149.5 million authorization for future carrier development to be available for CVN–77 research and development.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 212).

The Senate recesses.

Manufacturing technology program (sec. 213)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 213) that would amend section 2525 of title 10, United States Code, to establish goals for cost sharing in the manufacturing technology program and procedures for waiver of the cost sharing requirements. The provision would also require the Secretary of Defense to include information on the extent of cost sharing by participants in the manufacturing technology program in the five-year plan for the manufacturing technology program.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 216) which would modify cost sharing requirements to allow for different levels of cost sharing where appropriate, provide for establishing the level of cost sharing by competitive bidding, move the authority for waiver of cost sharing requirements to the service secretaries, and require cost share reporting to track investments by non-industry program participants.

The conferees agree to a provision that would require the use of competitive procedures for determination of cost sharing, delegate the authority to waive cost sharing requirements to the Under Secretary of Defense for Acquisition and Technology or to service acquisition executives, provide for the establishment of annual goals for cost sharing, and require that the five-year plan for the program include assessments of the effectiveness of the manufacturing technology program and of the extent to which costs of projects are being shared by the participants in the program.

The conferees note the requirement of section 2525(d)(1) of Title 10, United States Code, that competitive procedures shall be used for awarding all grants and entering into all contracts, cooperative agreements, and other transactions under the manufacturing technology program. The conferees note further the policy of Congress, as reflected in section 2374 of Title 10, United States Code, that the Department of Defense, the military departments, the Coast Guard, and the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, should not be required by legislation to award a new grant for research, development, test, or evaluation to a non-federal entity; and that any program, project, or technology identified in legislation be awarded through merit-based selection procedures.

Sense of Congress on the defense science and technology program (sec. 214)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 214) that would express the sense of Congress that at least 10 percent of the funds in the research, development, test and evaluation accounts of the services should be spent on science and technology programs. The provision would also express the sense of Congress concerning certain management objectives and would require an interagency study on recommendations for maintaining the technology base supporting the Department of Defense.

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1076) that would express the sense of Congress that the Secretary of Defense have an objective of increasing science and technology funding by no less than 2 percent over inflation above the amount requested for the prior fiscal year for each year during the period of fiscal years 2000 through 2008. The provision would also express the sense of Congress regarding management goals for the program.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would include the Senate funding objectives and integrate the House and Senate management goals.

Next generation internet (sec. 215)

The budget request included $40.0 million in PE 62110E for the next generation internet program.

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 215) that would authorize $53.0 million for the program and clarify that the amount specified in section 201(4) would be the amount authorized for the program, notwithstanding any other provision of law.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision and would authorize the budget request.

The Senate recedes.

Crusader self-propelled artillery system program (sec. 216)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 211) that would require the Secretary of the Army to revisit both requirements and schedule for the established Crusader program and provide a report to the Congress that addresses:

(1) assessment of the risk associated with the current Crusader program technology;

(2) total requirement for Crusader associated with Army After Next force structure revisions;

(3) potential for reducing system weight by as much as 50 percent;

(4) potential for propellant and munition alternatives and the impact of maturing this technology on the overall program schedule; and

(5) cost and benefit analysis of delaying procurement of Crusader to avoid affordability issues associated with the current schedule and allow for maturation of weight and propellant technologies.

The provision would limit the expenditure of funds for Crusader development to $223.0 million until 30 days after the date on which the Secretary of the Army submits the results of this report to the Congress.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment.

Airborne Laser Program (sec. 217)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 214) that would: (1) direct the Secretary of Defense to conduct an assessment of the technical obstacles and operational shortcomings expected for the Airborne Laser (ABL) program; (2) direct the Secretary to submit a report to Congress by March 15, 1999 that outlines his findings and recommendations regarding the ABL program; (3) recommend a reduction of $97.0 million for the ABL program; and (4) direct that no more than $150.0 million of the funds remaining available to the ABL program be obligated until 30 days after the Secretary submits the report.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would: (1) direct the Secretary of Defense to conduct an assessment of the technical and operational aspects of the ABL program; (2) direct the Secretary to submit a report to Congress by March 15, 1999 that outlines his findings and recommendations regarding the ABL program; (3) authorize $235.2 million for the ABL program, a reduction of $57.0 million to the budget request; and (4) direct that no more than $185.0 million of the funds authorized for the ABL program be obligated until 30 days after the Secretary submits the report.

The conferees understand and support the Department of Defense's desire to achieve operational boost phase intercept capability as soon as technically possible. In pursuit of this goal, the conferees support continuation of the Airborne Laser program. The conferees note that, although the ABL program has undergone a significant degree of technical review, questions having to do with the technical risk in the program continue to be raised in the Department of Defense and by independent organizations. Although the conferees have not come to any final conclusions regarding these questions, they are concerned that the current ABL development program may not include sufficient near-term risk reduction in the area of beam compensation and may be structured to proceed too rapidly with finalization of an objective design. In particular, the conferees are concerned that the Air Force plans to enter engineering and manufacturing development (EMD) without adequate time to operate, test, and evaluate the program definition and risk reduction (PDRR) configuration. For example, the Air Force plans to order its first EMD aircraft a year before the PDRR aircraft undergoes a full system demonstration against a missile target.

To meet these concerns, the conferees believe that the Secretary of Defense must carefully evaluate the technical risk in the ABL program and determine: (1) whether additional testing and risk reduction is necessary prior to integration of the ABL subsystems into a commercial 747-400F aircraft; and (2) whether the fully integrated PDRR aircraft should be operated for a period of time and thoroughly tested prior to finalizing an objective design. In addition, the Secretary must also evaluate the ABL operational concepts and their relationship to technical risk and uncertainties in the program.

The conferees direct the Secretary of Defense to establish an independent review team to assist him in addressing the issues specified above, and transmit to Congress the review team's findings with the Secretary's report. While this review is underway, and while the Air Force undertakes additional ground testing and data collection, the conferees believe that the Air Force should temporarily slow the pace of activities related to integration of the PDRR aircraft. Therefore, the conferees agree to authorize a reduction of $57.0 million to the budget request for ABL. If the Secretary concludes that additional ground testing or other risk reduction activities beyond those already planned are required during fiscal year 1999, the conferees agree to authorize the Secretary to utilize up to $40.0 million from funds authorized for ABL to conduct those activities.

Enhanced Global Positioning System program (sec. 218)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 215) that would: (1) require the Secretary of Defense to develop an enhanced Global Positioning System (GPS) program as an urgent national security priority; (2) authorize $44.0 million for fiscal year 1999 to begin such development; (3) urge the Secretary of Defense to fund adequately this initiative in the Future Years Defense Program; (4) urge the Secretary of Transportation to provide sufficient funding to support additional civil frequencies and other enhancements for civil users; (5) extend by five years the existing requirement to outfit all major Defense Department platforms with GPS receivers by the year 2000; and (6) require the Secretary to submit a plan for implementing this provision by April 15, 1999.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with a technical amendment.

The conferees strongly support the modernization of the Global Positioning System to meet new military requirements and evolving threats. Such modernization should include those enhancements necessary to sustain the Global Positioning System's unique advantage to friendly forces for the long term. Similarly, the modernization plan should include a suitable array of methods and techniques to deny these same advantages to an adversary when necessary. Although U.S. forces presently may be more dependent than other nations' forces on the Global Positioning System's highly accurate position, velocity, and timing information, these same dependencies will naturally arise among the forces of potential enemies as satellite navigation technologies are further disseminated and integrated into force doctrine, training, and techniques, and as GPS-embedded applications become widely available. While near term needs may suggest that assured access to GPS signals by the United States and its allies will have a higher pay-off than techniques that would deny access to the GPS signal by adversaries, a longer term view suggests that denial of enemy exploitation may offer significant, if not overwhelming, advantage. Furthermore, the conferees recognize that modernization of GPS satellites will take a long time given current purchasing approaches and the long life of individual satellites comprising the operational satellite constellation. A design change that must be implemented in a full constellation to be effective will take 12 or more years to field and will be in place for another 12–13 years. This 25-year time period necessitates balanced investment in both protection and prevention enhancements. Although the conferees appreciate the funding constraints facing the Department of Defense, they do not believe that such constraints justify freezing the GPS design for the next quarter century in a way that does not adequately respond to obvious emerging threats. Consequently, the conferees direct the Secretary of Defense to undertake a GPS modernization program that improves access by friendly forces and denies access by hostile forces. The conferees direct the Secretary to include in the report required by this provision specific details of the actions to protect and deny the GPS signal.

The conferees note that the effort by the Department of Defense to modernize the GPS system has delayed the new GPS satellite design. Given this situation, it is premature for the Department to enter into a multi-year procurement or other significant block satellite buy. At the same time, however, the Department requires additional funds for research and development to define fully the scope of the GPS modernization effort and to begin development of new satellite sub-systems. Therefore, the conferees agree to authorize no funds in Air Force missile procurement for GPS advance procurement, and to authorize an increase of $44.0 million in PE 64480F for GPS modernization.

Subtitle C—Ballistic Missile Defense

Sense of Congress on national missile defense coverage (sec. 231)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 231) that would express the sense of Congress that any deployed national missile defense system should defend all fifty states and that U.S. territories should be protected from ballistic missile attack.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with a clarifying amendment.

Limitation on funding for the Medium Extended Air Defense System (sec. 232)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 232) that would prohibit the Secretary of Defense from obligating or expending funds authorized and appropriated for the Medium Extended Air Defense System (MEADS) until the Secretary certifies to Congress that funding has been designated for MEADS in the Future Years Defense Program (FYDP). The provision would require that if such certification is not received by January 1, 1999, the funds authorized for MEADS would thereafter be authorized only for the purpose of research and development to adapt the Patriot Advanced Capability 3-Configuration 3 (PAC-3) to meet the Army requirement for a mobile theater missile defense system.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would make funds authorized for MEADS available to support alternative programmatic and technical approaches to meeting the requirement for mobile theater missile defense if the Secretary does not certify to Congress that funding has been designated for MEADS in the FYDP.

Limitation on funding for cooperative ballistic missile defense programs (sec. 233)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 233) that would prohibit obligation or expenditure of $5.0 million authorized to be appropriated for the Russian-American Observation Satellites (RAMOS) program until the Secretary of Defense certifies to Congress that the Department of Defense has received detailed information concerning the nature, extent, and military implications of ballistic missile technology transfer from Russian sources to Iran.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Sense of Congress with respect to ballistic missile defense cooperation with Russia (sec. 234)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 231) that would state that the United States should seek to foster a climate of cooperation with Russia on matters related to missile defense, especially in the area of early warning.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with a technical amendment.

The conferees believe that a cooperative approach to ballistic missile defense could lead to a mutually agreeable evolution of the ABM Treaty, i.e., either modification or replacement by a newer understanding or agreement, that would clear the way for the United States and Russia to deploy national missile defenses each believes necessary for its security. If implemented in a cooperative manner, the conferees do not believe that such steps would undermine the original intent of the ABM Treaty, which was to maintain strategic stability and permit significant nuclear arms reductions.

Ballistic missile defense program elements (sec. 235)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 235) that would realign program elements for the Ballistic Missile Defense Organization and require each program element to include funding for the management and support necessary for the activities within that program element.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Restructuring of Theater High Altitude Area Defense System Acquisition Strategy (sec. 236)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 236) that would: (1) require the Secretary of Defense to select an alternative contractor as a potential source for the development and production of the Theater High Altitude Area Defense (THAAD) interceptor missile within a "leader-follower" acquisition strategy; (2) require the Secretary of Defense to establish a cost sharing arrangement with the THAAD prime contractor for flight test failures of that missile beginning with the ninth test flight; (3) require the Secretary of Defense to proceed as expeditiously as possible with the milestone approval process for the engineering and manufacturing development (EMD) phase of the THAAD system for the battle management and command, control, and communications (BM/C3) and ground based radar elements of the system; (4) prohibit the obligation of funds for the THAAD user operational evaluation system (UOES) until there have been two successful tests of the THAAD interceptor missile; and (5) prohibit the Secretary of Defense from approving the commencement of EMD for the THAAD interceptor missile until there have been three successful tests of that missile.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would: (1) require the Secretary of Defense to take appropriate steps to implement technical and price competition for the development and production of the THAAD interceptor missile; (2) authorize $29.6 million to establish this technical and price competition; (3) require the Secretary of Defense to establish a cost sharing arrangement with the THAAD prime contractor for flight test failures of that missile beginning with the ninth flight test; (4) allow the Secretary of Defense to proceed with the milestone approval process for the EMD phase of the THAAD system for the BM/C3 and ground based radar elements of the system; (5) require the Secretary of Defense to prepare a plan that would allow for contingency deployment of THAAD missile interceptors before U.S. military forces are equipped with the objective configuration of those missiles; and (6) prohibit the Secretary of Defense from approving the commencement of EMD for the THAAD interceptor missile until there have been three successful tests of that missile.

The conferees are aware that the Department of Defense is considering establishment of a second source for the THAAD interceptor missile seeker, the portion of the missile deemed to contain the highest technical risk. Based on information received to date, the conferees tentatively support this proposal, but direct the Secretary of Defense to submit a detailed report on this concept to the congressional defense committees by February 15, 1999, including the cost and programmatic implications of this approach.

Subtitle D—Other Matters

Extension of authority to carry out certain prototype projects (sec. 241)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 218) that would extend the authority to carry out certain prototyping projects as specified under section 845 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 1994 (Public Law 103–160), through September 30, 2001.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

The conferees continue to believe that the section 845 authority should only be used in the exceptional cases where it can be clearly demonstrated that a normal contract or grant will not allow sufficient access to affordable technologies. The conferees are especially concerned that such authority not be used to circumvent the appropriate management controls in the standard acquisition and budgeting process. Any further consideration of extending this authority beyond September 30, 2001 will be based upon a careful review and a conclusion by the congressional defense committees that this authority has been used in a limited and responsible manner. The conferees direct the Secretary of Defense to provide a report to the congressional defense committees, no later than March 1, 1999, on the use of this authority.

North Atlantic Treaty Organization alliance ground surveillance concept definition (sec. 242)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 219) that would make available funds from Army and Air Force research and development of a North Atlantic Treaty Organization Alliance Ground Surveillance (NATO AGS) capability based on the Joint Surveillance/Target Attack Radar System (JSTARS).

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

NATO common funded civil budget (sec. 243)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 220) that would authorize the contribution of the United States to the common funded Civil Budget of NATO.

The House amendment contained no similar provision, but would authorize funds included in the budget request for the U.S. contribution to the common funded Civil Budget of NATO.

The House recedes.

Executive agent for cooperative research program of the Department of Defense and the Department of Veterans Affairs (sec. 244)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 222) that would authorize $10.0 million for the Department of Defense/Department of Veterans Affairs (DOD/VA) Cooperative Research Program and clarify the role of the Department of Defense as executive agent of the program.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would delete the reference to funding. The conferees agree to authorize $10.0 million in PE 63738D for the DOD/VA cooperative research program.

Review of pharmacological interventions for reversing brain injury (sec. 245)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 232) that would require the Secretary of Defense to review and report to the Congress on research on pharmacological interventions for reversing brain injury resulting from injuries incurred in combat or exposures to chemical weapons.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

The conferees direct that the Secretary of Defense include in the report a discussion of the ability to detect and treat status epilepticus at the scene of the injury, which could have an impact on reducing mortality and morbidity resulting from both head trauma and chemical weapon exposure.

Pilot program for revitalizing the laboratories and test and evaluation centers of the Department of Defense (sec. 246)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1067) that would provide authority for one laboratory and one test and evaluation center to carry out a pilot program to demonstrate improved cooperative agreements with universities and other private entities.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with a technical amendment.

Chemical warfare defense (sec. 247)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 723) that would authorize the Secretary of the Air Force to conduct research on health-related environmental and ecological effects of exposure to chemical, biological and radiological hazards and to develop more accurate risk assessment tools. In addition, the provision would authorize an increase of $1.8 million in the Defense Health Program to conduct this risk assessment program.

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1045) that would direct the Secretary of Defense to review, and modify as appropriate, Department of Defense chemical warfare defense policy and doctrine regarding the protection of U.S. forces against exposure to low levels of chemical warfare agents. In addition, the provision would require the Secretary of Defense to report to the congressional defense committees on any modification to chemical warfare policy and doctrine as a result of the review, and establish a plan for a five-year research program to assist the Secretary in developing policy and doctrine on exposure to low-level chemical agents.

The conferees agree to a provision that would direct the Secretary of Defense to review and modify Department of Defense chemical warfare policy and doctrine to ensure that U.S. forces are adequately protected against any exposure to chemical warfare agents, to include exposure to low-levels of chemical agents and other potentially toxic substances in the environment that would endanger the health of exposed personnel. Additional areas to be included in the review are the exposure of U.S. forces to low-grade nuclear and electromagnetic radiation, preventive medications, and diesel, jet, and other hydro-carbon based fuels.

The provision would also require the Secretary of Defense to develop and carry out a plan to establish a research program that would assist the Secretary in developing policy and doctrine, as well as new risk assessment methods and instruments, with respect to the effects of exposure to chemical warfare agents and other toxic substances, in order to ensure that U.S. forces are adequately protected against exposure to chemical warfare agents and toxic substances. The provision also requires that a five-year budget plan be developed.

The Secretary of Defense is required to report to the congressional defense committees not later than May 1, 1999, on the review of DOD policies and doctrine on exposure to chemical warfare agents and toxic substances, and any recommendations to modify current policy and doctrine as a result of the review, any recommended legislative provisions, and the plan to establish the research program.

Landmine alternatives (sec. 248)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 233) that would make $17.2 million available from funds authorized in section 201 of this Act for alternatives to anti-personnel landmines and anti-personnel submunitions used in mixed anti-tank mine systems; would require the Secretary of Defense to contract with scientific organizations to identify existing and new tactics, technologies and concepts that would provide comparable combat capabilities to current anti-personnel landmines and anti-personnel landmines used in mixed systems, and report to Congress on their recommendations; would require the Secretary of Defense to submit a report to the congressional defense committees by April 1, 1999 and April 1, 2000 on the progress achieved in identifying and deploying tactics, technologies and concepts as alternatives to anti-personnel landmines; and would define anti-personnel landmines and mixed munition systems consistent with the definitions contained in the Convention on the Prohibition on the Use, Stockpiling, Production and Transfer of Anti-Personnel Mines and their Destruction (otherwise known as the Ottawa Treaty) for anti-personnel landmine and mixed mine systems.

The House bill contained no similar provision, but would authorize the budget request for Army and defense-wide activities related to research and development of alternatives to anti-personnel landmines.

The conferees agree to a provision that would direct that not more than $19.2 million be made available from amounts authorized in section 201 of this Act for research and development of alternatives to anti-personnel landmines and anti-personnel landmines used in mixed anti-tank mine systems that would be equivalent to the combat capabilities of the current systems. The conferees also direct the Secretary of Defense to submit, with the fiscal year 2000 budget, an explanation of any funds requested to support a research and development program for existing and new technologies and concepts that could provide an equivalent combat capability to anti-personnel submunitions used in mixed mine systems or to mixed mine systems.

Additionally, the conferees direct the Secretary of Defense to submit a report to the congressional defense committees describing progress made in identifying existing and new technologies and concepts as alternatives to anti-personnel submunitions used in mixed mine systems or to mixed mine systems. The conferees direct the Secretary to include in the report the recommendations of two scientific organizations regarding the identification, adaptation, modification, research and development of existing and new technologies and concepts.

Limitation on funding for counterproliferation support

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 234) that would prohibit the obligation or expenditure of funds requested in the fiscal year 1999 budget for the counterproliferation support program in PE 63160BR until receipt of an annual report required by Section 234 of the National Defense Authorization Act of 1998 (Public Law 105-340) on the threat posed to the United States and its allies by weapons of mass destruction and cruise and ballistic missiles.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Unmanned aerial vehicle programs

The budget request included $178.7 million for High Altitude Endurance, Unmanned Aerial Vehicles (HAE UAVs) in the Defense-Wide research and development account (PE 35205D8Z). This included $90.1 million for the Global Hawk program, $40.5 million for the DarkStar program, and $48.1 million for common ground segment development. Within these totals, the budget request included $68.6 million to support contractor participation in test and evaluation of military utility in joint exercises for the Global Hawk and DarkStar programs ($39.2 million and $29.4 million, respectively). The budget request also included $4.3 million for Air Force endurance UAVs in PE 35205F.

The House bill would authorize an increase of $32.5 million in the procurement title to buy three additional Global Hawk UAVs.

The House bill would also transfer HAE UAV development funding from Defense-Wide research and development to PE 35205F.

The Senate amendment would authorize a decrease of $8.5 million. The Senate amendment also contained a provision (sec. 213) that would terminate the DarkStar unmanned aerial vehicle program, and transfer $32.5 million to the Global Hawk unmanned aerial vehicle program once phase II testing of the Global Hawk unmanned aerial vehicle is complete.

The conferees note the recent successful test flights of the DarkStar UAV. The Senate recedes on the provision to terminate the DarkStar program.

The conferees are disappointed that these two UAV programs have not been able to adhere to the original schedule. The conferees believe that the delays in the Global Hawk and DarkStar development and test programs will reduce the level of participation in joint exercises in fiscal year 1999 below that level assumed in the budget request. The conferees are also aware that these delays have affected the common ground segment development effort as well.

In view of the above, the conferees believe that the budget request for joint exercise participation and common ground segment development exceeds what can realistically be accomplished in fiscal year 1999. Thus, the conferees agree to authorize a decrease of $25.0 million for these two activities in a manner which will allow equitable testing of both Global Hawk and DarkStar, the specific application of which shall be at the discretion of the Secretary of the Air Force.

The conferees have also learned that, because of business decisions about production facilities unrelated to the Global Hawk program, the contractor is experiencing substantial dislocation in its business plan and the construction facility has been forced to operate in a manner that could adversely impact any future Global Hawk production. Accordingly, the conferees agree to authorize an increase of $25.0 million to mitigate the effects of the business plan dislocation on the Global Hawk construction facility.

In summary, the conferees authorize $183.0 million for endurance UAVs in PE 35205F, including a $25.0 million increase to mitigate adverse impacts to the Global Hawk construction facility, and a $25.0 million decrease to be applied against the joint exercise and/or common ground segment development activities.

In accordance with section 216 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 1998 (Public Law 105-85), the conferees reiterate that no additional HAE UAV aircraft are to be procured until the completion of the respective phase II military user assessments (NMA).

Because the conferees believe that the transition to procurement could involve significant air vehicle design changes, the conferees direct the Department of Defense to conduct any follow-on HAE UAV procurement program in adherence with its established acquisition procedures. Further, the conferees direct that no follow-on HAE UAV procurement may commence until the Secretary of the Air Force provides the congressional defense and intelligence committees with the following:

- (1) a formal statement of requirements for the HAE UAVS;

(2) a certification that either or both of these UAVs satisfy the Air Force's military utility and suitability requirements; and

(3) completes a formal engineering and manufacturing development program for the selected UAV alternative(s).

Persian gulf illnesses

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 221) that would authorize an increase of $10.0 million in PE 61105D for research in Persian Gulf illnesses.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

The conferees urge the Secretary of Defense to use discretionary funds to increase research for Persian Gulf illnesses in fiscal year 1999.

Low cost launch development program

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 223) that would increase funds for low cost launch technology development.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes. Funding for low cost launch technology development is addressed elsewhere in this report.

TITLE III—OPERATION AND MAINTENANCE

Overview

The budget request for fiscal year 1999 contained an authorization of $94,219.1 million for Operation and Maintenance in the Department of Defense and $900.0 for Working Capital Fund Accounts in fiscal year 1999. The House bill would authorize $92,476.5 million for Operation and Maintenance and $1,746.1 for Working Capital Fund Accounts. The Senate amendment would authorize $93,849.8 million for Operation and Maintenance and $764.1 for Working Capital Fund Accounts. The conferees recommended an authorization of $92,891.5 million for Operation and Maintenance and $1,746.1 for Working Capital Fund Accounts for fiscal year 1999. Unless noted explicitly in the statement of managers, all changes are made without prejudice.

Arms control implementation

The budget request included $275.3 million in the military services and defense accounts to meet specific arms control implementation and compliance obligations. The budget request is formulated on anticipated resource requirements, to include planning assumptions of anticipated dates of entry into force of arms control agreements, numbers of inspections or observations to be performed in the year, data reporting and information exchange requirements.

The House bill would decrease the budget request for the On-Site Inspection Agency for the following: $1.5 million for START II implementation activities; $1.0 million for implementation of the Open Skies Treaty; and $1.0 million for activities related to entry into force of the Comprehensive Test Ban Treaty (CTBT). The House bill would also authorize a decrease of $25.0 million for research and development activities related to implementation of the CTBT. Lastly, the House bill would authorize no funds for reimbursement to the Organization for the Prohibition of Chemical Weapons (OPCW) for the costs of inspectors salaries and transportation from the Hague for inspections conducted pursuant to the Chemical Weapons Convention.

The Senate amendment would authorize no funds to reimburse the Organization for the Prohibition of Chemical Weapons for inspectors salaries and transportation from The Hague to the U.S. Point of Entry, and for reimbursement of the cost of arms control inspections in foreign countries when those costs are the obligation of the inspected country.

The conferees agree to authorize a decrease of $28.0 million for the following arms control implementation activities: $1.5 million for START II; $1.0 million for Open Skies activities; $1.0 million for CTBT; $9.0 million for reimbursement of other than "usual" in-country inspection costs; and, $0.5 million for anticipated reimbursement of payments for arms control inspection costs borne by the inspected party to a treaty or agreement. The conferees also agree to a decrease of $15.0 million for research and development activities in support of CTBT and U.S. nuclear test detection requirements.

The conferees agree that of the funds authorized for research and development activities in support of CTBT requirements, $20.0 million shall be available for efforts to develop critical seismic technology to detect, verify, and evaluate both natural and weapons-related phenomena important to nuclear test detection.

Navy Environmental Leadership Program

The budget request included $2.4 million for the Navy Environmental Leadership Program (NELP).

The House bill would authorize an increase of $4.0 million for NELP.

The Senate amendment would authorize no funds for NELP.

The conferees agree to authorize an increase of $2.0 million for NELP.

Defense Threat Reduction Agency (DTRA)

The budget request included $304.7 million for the Defense Threat Reduction Agency (DTRA).

In November 1997, as part of its Defense Reform Initiative (DRI), the Department of Defense recommended the establishment on October 1, 1998 of the Defense Threat Reduction Agency (DTRA), a single agency that would carry out programs to counter proliferation and reduce threats posed by weapons of mass destruction and to provide nuclear weapons stockpile and related support. The agency would consolidate several functions from the Office of the Secretary of Defense (OSD) and the Washington Headquarters Services involved in the oversight and management of associated programs, including the On-Site Inspection Agency (OSIA), the Defense Special Weapons Agency (DSWA), the chemical-biological defense program and the counterproliferation support program. The budget request also recommended elimination of the position of the Assistant to the Secretary of Defense for Nuclear, Chemical and Biological Matters (ATSD(NCB)).

The House bill would authorize a decrease of $500,000 for DTRA.

The Senate amendment would authorize a decrease of $20.0 million for DTRA and would recommend that in addition to transferring the activities of the OSIA and DSWA to the DTRA, the chemical-biological defense program, counterproliferation support program, the unitary and nonstockpile chemical and munitions destruction programs, and programs related to force protection, such as the physical security program (PE 63228D8Z), and the counter-terror technical support program (PE 63122D8Z), also be transferred to DTRA.

The conferees agree to authorize a decrease of $12.0 million for DTRA. The conferees agree that the counterproliferation support program and activities related to force protection, such as the physical security program (PE 63228D8Z) and subelements of the counter-terror technical support program (PE 63122D8Z) related to weapons of mass destruction and force and infrastructure protection, be transferred to DTRA. As noted elsewhere in this report, oversight and direction of the counter-terror technical support program remains with the Assistant Secretary of Defense (Special Operations/Low Intensity Conflict).

The conferees agree that policy and programmatic oversight for the chem-bio defense program and the chemical demilitarization program should remain within the Office of the Secretary of Defense, and that the Department of the Army should remain the executive agent for these programs, pursuant to Section 1701 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 1994 (Public Law 103-160) and Section 1412 of the Department of Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 1986 (Public Law 99-145). However, the conferees do recognize that there may be activities within both of these programs that represent unique operational responsibilities of DTRA, and encourage DTRA to consult closely with both the Office of the Secretary of Defense and the Department of the Army.

The conferees agree to a separate provision (sec. 1521) dealing with the Defense Technical Security Administration (DTSA). A discussion of the conferees recommendation for the DTSA can be found elsewhere in this report.

The conferees do not agree to transfer the statutory responsibility for nuclear weapons, including support of the Nuclear Weapons Council, to DTRA. Elsewhere in this report the conferees discuss in greater detail the decision not to abolish the Assistant to the Secretary of Defense for Nuclear, Chemical, and Biological Matters.

A part of the proposal to create DTRA is the physical consolidation of the various functions located in the Dulles area of Virginia. The On-Site Inspection Agency (OSIA), one of the DTRA components, is currently located in the Dulles area. The conferees have been informed by the Department of Defense (DOD) that sufficient space does not currently exist at OSIA, or in the Dulles area, to co-locate all of the DTRA elements in one building or in one complex. As a result, DOD must either build or lease substantial additional space to accommodate the new organization. The conferees believe that one of the primary goals of any consolidation should be to have all the elements of the DTRA either in one building or complex or at least within walking distance of each other. Otherwise, the conferees are concerned the consolidation unnecessarily could result in substantial disruption of personnel and substantial increases in time commuting to meetings and other events during the day.

Before any further commitments for office space are made or additional efforts taken to consolidate the component parts of DTRA in the Dulles area, the conferees direct the Secretary of Defense to submit a report no later than May 14, 1999 on the cost and overall effect of this move on the work of the agency. This report should address: the availability of public transportation; plans for transporting employees during the day; relocations costs; commuting impacts; potential savings; an assessment of the advantages and disadvantages of co-locating and co-locating to the Dulles area; issues associated with force protection; an assessment of the alternatives to co-locating including not moving; and the impact on retention and morale of personnel that would move.

Joint Military Intelligence Program

The budget request included $3.8 billion in the Operation and Maintenance, Defense-Wide account for classified and intelligence programs, including funds in the Joint Military Intelligence Program for the National Imagery and Mapping Agency (NIMA), the Joint Reserve Intelligence Program (JRIP), and the Command, Control, Communications, Computers, Intelligence, Surveillance, and Reconnaissance Integrated Architecture Plan (CIAP).

The House bill would authorize a net decrease of $9.0 million for NIMA, an increase of $3.0 million for JRIP, and an increase of $3.0 million for CIAP. The House report (H. Rept. 105-508) accompanying the Intelligence Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 1999 (H.R. 3694) directed that no funds authorized or appropriated for NIMA be made available for the joint mapping tool kit (JMTK) module of the global command and control system (GCCS) until the Assistant Secretary of Defense for Command, Control, Communications, and Intelligence (ASD(C3I)) either certifies that the Defense

Information Systems Agency (DISA) will procure the module commercially, or reports to the congressional defense and intelligence committees why such commercial procurement would be disadvantageous.

The Senate amendment would authorize the budget request for NIMA, JRIP, and CIAP.

The conferees agree to authorize a decrease of $7.0 million for NIMA sustaining capabilities and an increase of $7.0 million for product outsourcing. The conferees direct that the sustaining capabilities reduction be applied equitably across all NIMA facilities and functions, and that no more than half of the decrease be applied to personnel. The conferees also agree to authorize an increase of $3.0 million for JRIP and an increase of $3.0 million for CIAP.

With regard to the House position on JMTK module procurement, the conferees agree that NIMA and DISA should be acquiring commercially available products unless there is very strong justification to the contrary. Therefore, the conferees direct the ASD (C3I) to provide the congressional defense and intelligence committees by January 29, 1999 a report on his plan for: (1) establishing a process for certifying commercial products that meet GCCS interface protocols and standards; (2) providing all documentation needed for vendors to determine whether their applications software products can achieve such certification; and (3) ensuring that NIMA and DISA are making all reasonable efforts to evaluate commercially available GCCS modules (such as JMKT) that can achieve such certification before spending Department of Defense funds to develop such modules.

Domestic emergency response program

The budget request included $246.2 million for key Department of Defense programs to counter paramilitary and terrorist threats involving weapons of mass destruction, including $99.1 million for the domestic emergency response preparedness program as follows: $49.9 million for the Department of Defense to prepare and enhance Federal, state and local response capabilities to terrorist incidents involving weapons of mass destruction (WMD), and $49.2 million for the Department of the Army for the Reserve Components' participation in domestic emergency preparedness and response to the terrorist use of weapons of mass destruction.

The House bill would authorize a decrease of $28.5 million for the Reserve Components' participation in WMD domestic preparedness, including $14.6 million for military personnel, $7.0 million for operation and maintenance, and $6.9 million for the procurement of contamination avoidance equipment.

The Senate amendment would authorize the budget request for domestic emergency preparedness for the Department of Defense and the Department of the Army. In addition, the Senate would recommend the transfer of the mission, function and resources for the Defense domestic emergency preparedness program to the Defense Threat Reduction Agency (DTRA).

The conferees agree to authorize the budget request for countering paramilitary and terrorist WMD threats and for the DOD and the Department of the Army for the WMD domestic emergency response program. Authorization of Reserve Components' participation in WMD domestic emergency preparedness and response is discussed in Title V of this report. Additionally, specific adjustments to program elements for countering paramilitary and terrorist WMD threats are discussed elsewhere in the report on the individual projects which are included in the program.

The conferees are aware that a National Coordinator has been appointed by the President, pursuant to the direction contained in the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 1997 (Public Law 104-201), whose responsibilities shall include operational oversight of the Federal government's security and counterterrorism efforts, to include domestic emergency preparedness and response to the terrorist use of WMD. The conferees have included a provision in Title XIV of this report that would require the President to increase the effectiveness of the domestic emergency preparedness program and to submit a report to Congress by January 31, 1999 outlining the actions taken to increase the effectiveness of the program. In addition, the conferees direct that the report submitted by the President on January 31, 1999 include information on the efforts to meet the challenge of limiting the damage and manage the consequences of the terrorist use of WMD, as outlined in Presidential Decision Directive (PDD) 62. The conferees understand that the intent of PDD 62 is to create a new and more systematic approach to fighting the threat of the terrorist use of WMD. The report should outline the role and obligations of the National Coordinator in overseeing the relevant policies and programs in the U.S. Government, the responsibility of the National Coordinator to the Congress, implementation of recommendations on budgets for counter-terrorism programs and the coordination and development of guidelines necessary for crisis management. The conferees request that the President's report identify requirements for any additional fiscal year 1999 funds that may be required to implement actions taken to increase the effectiveness of the domestic emergency response program.

The conferees endorse the direction contained in the Senate report (S. Rept. 105-189) requiring the Secretary of Defense to report to the congressional defense committees on the use of the DOD stockpile of vaccines, medical supplies and protective gear in a domestic WMD emergency, and the availability of vaccines, antiserums and antidotes in other Federal entities that could also be used. In addition, the President's report to Congress should discuss the advisability of establishing regional stockpiles of both emergency protective gear and vaccines that could be available for emergency use by Federal, state and local responders in the event of a terrorist event using WMD.

ITEMS OF SPECIAL INTEREST

Fire support software engineering center

The conferees are concerned about the readiness and upgrades of Army command and control and fire direction systems presently maintained by the Fire Support Software Engineering Center (FSSEC) at Fort Sill, Oklahoma. Delays on systems such as the Battery Computer System, the Initial Fire Support Automated System, and the Multiple Launch Rocket System must be avoided. Therefore, the conferees urge the Army to continue full operational funding for the FSSEC.

Lead-based paint soil contamination at Department of Defense facilities

A December 20, 1996, Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) memorandum indicates that the Comprehensive Environmental Response, Compensation and Liability Act (CERCLA) may be applied to compel the cleanup of lead-contaminated soils on federal facilities. The conferees understand that, to date, EPA has only applied this interpretation of CERCLA at DOD sites.

The conferees note that section 120(a)(1) and (2) of the CERCLA provides that federal facilities are to comply with all guidelines, rules, regulations, and criteria “. . . in the same manner, and to the extent as such guidelines, rules, regulations, and criteria are applicable to other facilities.” Although the conferees recognize that there may be quantifiable human health risks that support response actions at certain sites with lead-based paint contamination, there is concern about consistency.

The conferees are concerned about the possibility of disparate enforcement actions related to lead-based paint. The conferees direct that the Secretary of Defense include in the fiscal year 1998 annual report on environmental restoration (10 U.S.C. 2706(a)) a description of the sites, human health risks, costs, and delays, if any, related to the EPA enforcement of response action requirements for lead-based paint at Department of Defense sites.

State certification of underground storage tanks

The conferees note that underground storage tanks owned and operated by the Department of Defense (DOD) are subject to Federal, state, and local statutory and regulatory guidance. The Resource Conservation and Recovery Act (RCRA) (42 U.S.C. 6991–6991h) sets minimum standards for spill, overfill, and corrosion protection mechanisms to be included in standards for upgrading, replacing, and closing new and existing underground storage tanks. Existing underground storage tanks, those installed prior to December 22, 1988, must be upgraded to have spill, overfill, and corrosion protection, otherwise such tanks may be subject to removal, closure in place, or replacement. Generally, state environmental regulatory agencies have adopted the Federal minimum RCRA compliance standards for underground storage tanks.

A recent audit conducted by the DOD Office of Inspector General (IG) determined that there were significant variances between state- and DOD-generated underground storage tank inventories. The DOD IG determined that such divergent results occurred because the DOD managers and state environmental regulators prepared separate underground storage tank inventories that were not reconciled. Consistent with that determination, the DOD IG concluded that operations may be disrupted at some DOD installations after December 22, 1998, if state regulatory agencies do not obtain accurate data with which to assess DOD underground storage tank compliance under RCRA, Subtitle I.

The conferees direct the Secretary of Defense to submit a report, no later than 60 days after the enactment of this Act, to the congressional defense committees on the number of underground storage tanks projected to be noncompliant after December 22, 1998. The report shall identify a plan that would minimize operational disruptions associated with noncompliant tanks.

LEGISLATIVE PROVISIONS ADOPTED

Subtitle A—Authorization of Appropriations

Authorization of appropriations (secs. 301–302)

The House bill contained provisions (secs. 301–302) that would authorize the recommended fiscal year 1999 funding levels for all operations and maintenance and working capital fund accounts.

The Senate amendment contained similar provisions.

Armed Forces Retirement Home (sec. 303)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 303) that would authorize $70.7 million from the Armed Forces Retirement Trust Fund for the operation of the Armed Forces Retirement Home, including the U.S. Soldiers' and Airmen's Home and the Naval Home.

The Senate amendment contained an identical provision (sec. 303).

The conference agreement includes this provision.

Transfer from the National Defense Stockpile Transaction Fund (sec. 304)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 304) that would authorize the Secretary of Defense, to the extent provided in an appropriation act, to transfer $150.0 million from the National Defense Stockpile Transaction Fund to the operations and maintenance accounts.

The Senate amendment contained an identical provision.

The conference agreement includes this provision.

Subtitle B—Program Requirements, Restrictions, and Limitations

Refurbishment of M1–A1 Tanks (sec. 311)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 305) that would authorize $31.0 million for the refurbishment of up to 70 M1–A1 tanks under the AIM–XXI program.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Operation of prepositioned fleet, National Training Center, Fort Irwin, California (sec. 312)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 306) that would authorize $60.2 million for the operation of the prepositioned fleet of equipment during training operations at the National Training Center, Fort Irwin, California.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Berthing space at Norfolk Naval Shipyard, Virginia (sec. 313)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 307) that would authorize the Navy to obligate $6.0 million for the relocation of the U.S.S. Wisconsin from Norfolk Naval Shipyard to another suitable location to increase available berthing space at the shipyard.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

The conferees are aware of the facility capacity constraints at Norfolk Naval Shipyard where the Navy currently maintains some of its inactive reserve vessels. These constraints require the relocation of the U.S.S. Wisconsin to a different location in order to make space available for active vessels in need of repair and maintenance. Because of the requirement for the Navy to berth this deep draft vessel within the Norfolk vicinity so that it can be returned to the shipyard for reactivation, if necessary, the Navy is exploring alternative berthing sites including some within the Elizabeth River. The committee is aware that the redeployment of this vessel to a suitable location in the Norfolk area may require some additional dredging. Therefore, the conferees recommend an increase of $6.0 million for the dredging and other costs associated with the redeployment of the U.S.S. Wisconsin within the Norfolk region.

NATO common-funded military budget (sec. 314)

The budget request for Army operations and maintenance included $227.4 million for support of other nations, which includes support of North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) operations and NATO expansion.

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 314) that would authorize the budget request for Army operations and maintenance for support of other nations.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Subtitle C—Environmental Provisions

Settlement of claims of foreign governments for environmental cleanup of overseas sites formerly used by the Department of Defense (sec. 321)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 326) that would require the President to provide notification to Congress of any negotiations related to the ex-gratia settlement of environmental cleanup claims by other countries.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Authority to pay negotiated settlement for environmental cleanup of formerly used defense sites in Canada (sec. 322)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 321) that would authorize the Secretary of Defense to pay the Government of Canada up to $100.0 million in annual payments over a ten year period.

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 325) that would allow for the payment of $100.0 million reimbursement to Canada, subject to annual authorizations and appropriations process. The Department would be required to submit to Congress evidence of proportionate Canadian investment in environmental cleanup in support of each annual authorization and appropriation request. The provision would make certain findings regarding the basis for the reimbursement, state that the authorization shall not be construed as precedent setting, and that the $100.0 million would be paid in full satisfaction of any and all environmental contamination claims by Canada.

The House recedes with an amendment that would authorize the $10.0 million appropriated in fiscal year 1998 appropriation for the Canadian reimbursement.

Removal of underground storage tanks (sec. 323)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 322) that would enable the Department of Defense (DOD) to use not more than $150,000 of the funds available for environmental restoration of formerly used defense sites to conduct removal of underground storage tanks at the Authorities Allied Industrial Park in Macon, Georgia.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

Senate recedes with an amendment that would give the Secretary of Defense discretion to fund any tank removal at formerly used defense sites. The conferees note that such exercise of discretion would be dependent upon a determination of DOD liability, consistent with current law. The conferees direct the Secretary of Defense to determine whether it would be appropriate to use authorized funds for removal of former DOD underground storage tanks, and then report to the congressional defense committees within 90 days of the enactment of this Act.

Report regarding polychlorinated biphenyls under Department of Defense control overseas (sec. 324)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 321) that would amend Chapter 157 of title 10, United States Code, by adding a new section to permit Department of Defense agencies to transport to the United States for disposal, treatment, or storage of foreign manufactured polychlorinated biphenyls (PCBs) generated by the Department's overseas activities. The provision would ensure that the PCB-containing material transported to the United States is handled in an environmentally responsible manner.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would require the Secretary of Defense to submit a report to the Congress that addresses international and domestic issues related to the transportation and disposition of foreign manufactured PCBs.

Modification of deadline for submittal to Congress of annual reports on environmental activities (sec. 325)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 322) that would amend section 2706 of title 10, United States Code, by substituting the 45 day annual reporting deadline for the current 30 day period.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

The conferees are aware that the Department of Defense has considered modification of the annual report on environmental restoration activities. While the Department has been directed to restructure the annual report on environmental compliance by including useful and comprehensible information, the conferees note that the environmental restoration report does not require such changes. The conferees expect that any modifications to the annual environmental reports will be fully coordinated with the Committee on Armed Services of the Senate and the Committee on National Security of the House of Representatives.

Submarine solid waste control (sec. 326)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 323) that would amend the Act to Prevent Pollution from Ships (APPS) (33 U.S.C. 1901, et seq.) by authorizing certain submersible vessels owned or operated by the Navy to discharge non-plastic garbage that has been compacted and weighted to ensure negative buoyancy within special use areas. The APPS implements the Annex V of the International Convention for the Prevention of Pollution on Ships (MARPOL). The Navy has determined that compliance with the special use area requirements of MARPOL Annex V would impair submarine operations and operational capability, or would not be technologically feasible. A comprehensive Navy environmental analysis revealed that the discharge of non-plastic garbage from Navy submarines would not have a significant effect on the marine environment, either within or beyond the limits of MARPOL Annex V special use areas.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with a technical amendment.

The conferees direct the Navy to provide adequate support and justification for future funding requests related to the compliance obligations associated with this new authority.

Arctic Military Environmental Cooperation program (sec. 327)

The budget request included $5.5 million in the defense operations and maintenance to address military environmental matters in the Arctic region under the Arctic Military Environmental Cooperation (AMEC) program, to include environmental restoration activities.

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 327) that would authorize the AMEC program, subject to the legislative prohibitions and limitations of the Cooperative Threat Reduction (CTR) program, to include section 1503 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 1997 (Public Law 105-85). The provision would authorize $4.0 million for AMEC, a decrease of $1.5 million, and would preclude the obligation or expenditure of fiscal year 1999 funds until 45 days after the Secretary of Defense submits a plan that specifies the conformance of AMEC projects to existing prohibitions and limitations on the use of CTR funds.

The House bill contained no similar provision. The House report (H. Rept. 105-532) urged the Secretary of Defense to use up to $1.0 million to support the establishment of a Joint United States-Russia Nuclear Materials Commission that would include legislators, agency and ministry leaders, and environmental experts representing the international environmental community.

The House recedes with an amendment that would require congressional notification prior to the obligation of AMEC funds, similar to the requirement that applies to the use of CTR funds, and would also prohibit the use of AMEC funds for environmental restoration. The conferees agree that AMEC should address important military environmental issues related to U.S. national security interests in the Arctic. In order to ensure that AMEC has the requisite focus, the conferees expect the Secretary of Defense to develop a comprehensive program plan, consistent with the legislative prohibitions and limitations of the CTR program. That plan must be in place before funds are obligated for AMEC. The conferees direct the Secretary of Defense to include in the plan a specific program termination date.

The Secretary of Defense recently notified the Congress of an intent to reobligate prior year CTR funds for AMEC to “. . . focus on threats to the environment. . . .” The conferees are concerned about the vagueness of this notice, the possible use of reobligated funds for environmental restoration, and the potential conflict with existing law. The Congress prohibited the use of CTR funds for the provision of assistance to promote environmental restoration (National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 1997 (Public Law 105–85)). The new AMEC authority and existing CTR requirements would prohibit the use of CTR or AMEC funds for environmental restoration.

Sense of Congress regarding oil spill prevention training for personnel on board Navy vessels (sec. 328)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 328) that would express a sense of the Senate that the Secretary of the Navy should ensure that personnel on board Navy vessels in Puget Sound, Washington, receive oil spill prevention training.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with a technical amendment.

Subtitle D—Information Technology Issues

Additional information technology responsibilities of chief information officers (sec. 331)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 311) that would assign certain responsibilities to the chief information officers of the military services and the Department of Defense to ensure that information system budget requests are sufficient and that the systems themselves are interoperable.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would ensure that the Chief Information Officer of the Department of Defense (DOD) is responsible for examining all information systems within the Department to ensure that they are interoperable and are not duplicative of other DOD systems.

Defense-wide electronic mall system for supply purchases (sec. 332)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 312) that would require the Defense Logistics Agency to develop a single, defense wide electronic mall system that would be operational by June 1, 1999.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would require the Joint Electronic Commerce Program Office (JECPO) of the Department of Defense to develop a single, defense-wide electronic mall system, which would provide a single, defense-wide electronic point of entry and a single view, access, and ordering capability for all Department of Defense electronic catalogs. The provision would direct that the Defense Logistics Agency would be responsible for maintaining the system under the direction of the JECPO.

Year 2000 Compliance of Department of Defense Information Technology and National Security Systems

The conferees are concerned with the Department of Defense's (DOD) and the intelligence community's information technology and national security systems lack of progress in achieving year 2000 (Y2K) compliance. While debate continues over which steps are necessary to prepare the national security community for 21st century threats, the conferees agree that insufficient attention has been given to preparing this community for the Y2K transition.

Despite the fact that Y2K problems have been known for years, the Department has not met its projected time lines for renovating all necessary systems. In particular, many mission critical systems are still in the renovation phase, with little assurance from DOD that the required testing and integration efforts will be completed in sufficient time to avoid system-wide problems. The Department's reliance upon other public and private sector, including other nations, information technology systems adds to these concerns.

It is difficult to know how other nations will react if their own information technology systems are crippled by Y2K deficiencies and they are left without reliable and complete information. In an age where weapons of mass destruction with global reach are controlled through elaborate information networks, it is of critical importance that steps be taken to minimize any confusion or misunderstandings before they develop into crisis situations. The conferees commend the U.S. Strategic Command for its foresight and efforts in strengthening communications with other nations on Y2K, ensuring responsible management of Y2K problems that may arise.

For these reasons the conferees included three provisions (secs. 333, 334, and 335) to address the Department's and the intelligence communities Y2K issues. As discussed further in this title, these provisions cover such issues as Y2K contingency plans, relations with foreign nations, testing of systems, and adequate funding.

Priority funding to ensure year 2000 compliance of information technology and national security systems (sec. 333)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 314) that would transfer $1.0 billion from other information technology and national security programs to assist in the Department's Y2K compliance efforts. The provision would also require that 75 percent of funds for information technology and national security programs be used for these Y2K efforts.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would prohibit the expenditure of funds on the development or modernization of any information technology system unless that system is Y2K compliant, or is required to be performed by law. The amendment would further protect funds for mission critical systems from any unallocated reductions. Finally, the provision would require the Department to develop contingency plans for these systems in the event that they are not Y2K compliant, and provide the Congress with a report on the Department's efforts to ensure its systems are compliant.

Evaluation of year 2000 compliance as part of training exercises programs (sec. 334)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 315) that would require the Secretary of Defense to provide the congressional defense committees with a report that would outline the Department's plans for incorporating Y2K tests as part of its joint exercises.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would require that Y2K tests be incorporated in at least 25 exercises, and that each mission critical system expected to be used in any major theater war be tested in at least one of these exercises.

Continuity of essential operations at risk of failure because of information technology and national security systems that are not year 2000 compliant (sec. 335)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1026) that would require the Secretary of Defense and the Director of Central Intelligence to provide a joint report outlining their planned course of action to ensure a continuity of essential operations in the year 2000.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would eliminate the findings.

The conferees believe the report should include the adoption of a comprehensive contingency plan for the entire national security community, as well as individual contingency plans for the separate elements of the community, including the creation of crisis action teams to respond to emergencies arising from the Y2K problem. Furthermore, the report should outline any cooperative agreements between the United States and foreign countries to ensure that the Y2K problems with the strategic systems of those countries do not pose a threat to the United States.

Subtitle E—Defense Infrastructure Support Improvement

Clarification of definition of depot-level maintenance and repair (sec. 341)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 335) that would clarify section 2460 (a) of title 16, United States Code, to include the location at which depot level maintenance is performed.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Reporting and analysis requirements before change of commercial and industrial type functions to private sector performance (sec. 342)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 331) that would amend and clarify certain requirements and notifications that the Department of Defense must meet before it could study a commercial or industrial type function under section 2461 of title 10, United States Code.

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 346) that would express the Sense of the Senate that the Secretary of Defense should take action to initiate public-private competitions pursuant to Office of Management and Budget Circular A-76 for functions of the Department of Defense involving not fewer than 180,000 full time employees over the next six years. The provision would further waive any study requirements for functions involving 50 or fewer employees, and would give the Department increased flexibility to choose the public or private option that provides the best overall value for the taxpayer by expressly authorizing the use of “best value” techniques for public-private competitions for support services.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would not include the requirement contained in the original House provision for the Secretary of Defense to notify the Congress of his determination regarding the cost effectiveness of procuring services or supplies through the private sector, rather than a working capital fund organization, before entering into such a contract. Any analysis performed to determine if supplies or services should be procured from the private sector rather than through a working capital fund organization, should, to the extent practicable, include the impact on the rates of the working capital fund organization. Furthermore, although the provision would allow any employee to raise an objection on the grounds that the required report and certifications were not performed, such an objection would have to be raised within 90 days of the date on which the employee either knew, or should have known, that the function was being studied for potential conversion to the private sector. In addition, the provision would waive the reporting requirement of section 2461 of title 10, United States Code, for functions with 51 or more employees, rather than 21 or more employees as provided in current law.

Notification of determinations of military items as being commercial items for purposes of the exception to requirements regarding core logistics capabilities (sec. 343)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 336) that would define a commercial item for those situations in which the Department is determining if there is a requirement to establish a core depot maintenance capability. This definition would require that before an item can be considered a commercial item, and therefore not require a core depot maintenance capability, at least 90 percent of the total content by component value remains identical to the commercial version. It would further require that purchases and leases to the general public, rather than the government, constitute the majority of transactions of the item before it could be considered commercial.

The Senate had no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would require the Secretary of Defense submit to the Congress a report that outlines any determination regarding core depot maintenance capability and a detailed justification for each item determined for the first time to be a commercial item for the purposes of section 2464 of title 10, United States Code.

Oversight of development and implementation of automated identification technology (sec. 344)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 333) that would require the Smart Card Technology Office within the Defense Human Resources Field Activity of the Department of Defense (DOD) to be responsible for the oversight and coordination of Automated Identification Technology programs within the DOD.

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 345) that would require the Navy to allocate up to $25.0 million for Smart Cards. The Senate amendment also required the Navy to equip at least one carrier battle group, one air wing, and one amphibious readiness group, in each of the Atlantic and Pacific Fleets with Smart Card technology by March 31, 1999, and prohibited the procurement of the Joint Uniformed Services Identification card for the Department of the Navy after March 31, 1999 unless these units were equipped with Smart Cards. The Senate amendment also required the Secretary of the Navy to submit a plan to equip all operational naval units with Smart Cards.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would establish an Automated Identification Technology Office within the Department of Defense with the responsibility for the development and coordination of DOD automated information technology programs including but not limited to Smart Cards. The conferees further agree to delay the date for equipping the Atlantic and Pacific naval units with Smart Cards to June 30, 1999 and to require the Secretary of Defense to submit a plan to the congressional defense committees for the use of Smart Card technology by each military department rather than requiring a plan only for the Navy.

Contractor-operated civil engineering supply stores program (sec. 345)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 338) that would prohibit the incorporation of a civil engineering supply function into a broader base operations function for the purpose of competition or contracting until the Secretary of Defense submits a report to the Congress identifying the reasons for the incorporation, including why the combined competition or contract is the best method by which to achieve savings.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with a technical amendment.

Conditions on expansion of functions performed under prime vendor contracts for depot-level maintenance and repair (sec. 346)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 334) that would require the Secretary of Defense or the secretary of a military department to provide a report to the Congress each time the secretary intends to enter into a prime vendor contract for a hardware system, including one involving depot-level maintenance or logistics management functions. The report would address the competitive procedures that are proposed to be used to award the prime vendor contract, the effect of the contract on the working capital funds, and the costs and benefits associated with the contract which demonstrate that it will result in savings to the Federal Government over the life of the contract. The provision would prohibit the secretary concerned from entering into such a contract until 60 days after submission of the report.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would make the provision applicable to any prime vendor contract that the Department of Defense proposes to enter into that involves the depot-level maintenance of a piece of military equipment or major weapon systems. The Department would have to wait 30 days after submitting to the Congress a report that outlines the competitive procedures to be used as well as an examination of the costs (including costs derived as a result of changes to the working capital fund organizations) and benefits that will result from the contract, before entering into the contract.

Best commercial inventory practices for management of secondary supply items (sec. 347)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 344) that would direct the secretary of each military department to develop and submit to the Congress a schedule for the implementation of the best inventory management practices found in the commercial sector that are consistent with military requirements. The provision would also require the Comptroller General of the Department of Defense to review the extent to which the service secretaries comply with this requirement, and the extent to which best commercial inventory practices are being implemented by the Defense Logistics Agency.

The House bill contained a similar provision.

The House recedes with a technical amendment.

The House recedes.

Inventory management of in-transit items (sec. 349)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 349) that would require the Secretary of Defense to submit a plan to the Congress on those actions the Secretary is taking to ensure effective management and oversight of in-transit secondary inventory.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would require the Secretary of Defense to submit a plan to the Congress that would address the actions the Department is taking to improve the management and oversight of both secondary inventory, as well as major end-items.

Review of Defense Automated Printing Service functions (sec. 350)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1085) that would require the Secretary of Defense to select an entity outside of the Department of Defense to review the functions of the Defense Automated Printing Service (DAPS).

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 337) that included findings regarding the need to perform depot-level maintenance of the C-17 aircraft in government depots, and would require the Secretary of the Air Force to submit to the Congress a plan for the establishment of the core logistics capabilities for the C-17 aircraft, consistent with the requirements of section 2464 of title 10, United States Code. The provision would further prohibit the extension of the interim contract for the C-17 Flexible Sustainment Program until after the end of the 60 day period beginning on the date the plan is submitted to Congress.

The Senate amendment had no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would delete the findings.

The conferees note that in January of 1999, the C-17 will complete its fourth year of its operational capability. At that point, the Department of the Air Force must have the capability to maintain the non-commercial portions of this system in a public depot, should the need arise.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would eliminate the prohibition against conducting further studies.

The conferees note that the Department of Defense recently contracted for a due diligence study regarding exchange integration. The conferees intend for that study to continue, but expect that implementation of any study recommendations would await congressional approval. The conferees do not intend that the prohibition against consolidation or merger of retail systems be an impediment to implementing agreements and operations among the exchange systems that are determined to be mutually beneficial and increase efficiency of the exchange systems.

Defense Commissary Agency telecommunications (sec. 368)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1051) that would require the Secretary of Defense to provide the Defense Commissary Agency (DECA) authority to obtain telecommunications and related services under the Federal Telecommunications System (FTS) 2000/2001 contract, and to report to the Committee on Armed Services of the Senate and the Committee on National Security of the House of Representatives when DECA telecommunications have been initiated under the FTS 2000/2001 contract.

readiness reports that are currently provided by the Department of Defense to the Congress.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would delay the implementation date of this provision, clarify that the Secretary of Defense is not required to submit the complete documentation of each joint monthly readiness review to the Congress, and make other technical changes.

The conferees recognize that stable requirements for measuring and reporting readiness are essential in order for the Department of Defense to develop an effective readiness reporting system that is capable of making valid comparisons over time.

The conferees urge the Secretary to retain in the new reports required by this section those elements of the expanded Quarterly Readiness Report to the Congress that are believed to be effective in informing the Congress on the readiness of our armed forces.

It would provide each of the service secretaries the authority to waive the separate barracks requirement initially at specific installations due to a lack of adequate facilities at the installation. However, it would require that no such waiver be in effect after October 1, 2001. This section also would require that if a waiver is granted at a particular installation, the secretary of a military department shall require that male and female recruits be housed on separate floors in military barracks or troop housing facilities at that installation. During the interim period, housing recruits on separate floors is defined to include billeting male and female recruits separately and securely either on separate floors, in separate bays, or on same floors with a fire-safe wall separating the recruits. Further, the separate billeting spaces should include independent sleeping areas, latrines and separate, lockable entrances. The data provided in the report for each service should be expressed using a common standard of measurement and should include a summary of the disciplinary and administrative actions taken in response to the misconduct. Consistent with the requirement for the sexual harassment report, the report on sexual misconduct in basic training shall be submitted to the Congress no later than April 1, 1999, and shall include data on all cases of sexual misconduct that occurred during the preceding year.

The Commission on Military Training and Gender-Related Issues, established in the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 1998, is expected to report to the Congress in April 1999, on its review of the basic training programs of each of the military services. The House conferees intend to fully review all matters pertaining to basic training once the findings and recommendations of the Commission are received and anticipate the likelihood of legislation next year on issues addressed in the Commission's review, including the issue of gender-separate basic training.

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 551) that would extend through fiscal year 2000 certain temporary authorities which provide the tools the armed services need to manage personnel reductions and shape the force following the completion of the drawdown of military forces.

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 522) that would extend until September 30, 2003, the force reduction transition period management and benefits authorities established during the drawdown of the military services.

The House recedes with an amendment that would extend the temporary authorities until September 30, 2001.

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 604) that would authorize the superintendents of the military academies and the Coast Guard Academy to order a cadet or midshipman to be placed on involuntary leave without pay if the cadet or midshipman is pending separation from the academy for misconduct, conduct deficiency, or honor violation while the separation is pending final approval.

The House recedes with an amendment that would authorize the appropriate service secretary to order a cadet or midshipman to be placed on involuntary leave without pay if the cadet or midshipman is pending separation from the academy for misconduct, conduct deficiency, or honor violation while the separation is pending final approval.

Continued eligibility under Voluntary Separation Incentive program for members who involuntarily lose membership in a reserve component (sec. 563)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 554) that would authorize Voluntary Separation Incentive (VSI) recipients to continue to receive VSI payments after separation from the reserves when the separation was due to age, years of service, failure to be selected for promotion, or medical disqualification, provided the ineligibility does not result from a deliberate action to avoid service.

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 523) that would permit members who separated under the VSI program and lost their membership in a reserve component, as a result of certain conditions, to continue to receive the benefit payments.

The House recedes with a clarifying amendment.

Reinstatement of definition of financial institution in authorities for reimbursement of defense personnel for Government errors in direct deposit of pay (sec. 564)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 555) that would amend sections 1053 and 1594 of title 10, United States Code, to specify that the term “financial institution” means a bank, savings and loan association or similar institution, or credit union chartered by the United States or a State.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would remove the specified effective date.

Central Identification Laboratory, Hawaii (sec. 566)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 557) that would require the Secretary of Defense to establish joint manning requirements for the Central Identification Laboratory, Hawaii (CILHI), and to staff CILHI at 100 percent of its manpower requirements.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

The conferees do not intend that this provision be interpreted to direct that billets at the Central Identification Laboratory, Hawaii, be designated as joint billets on the joint duty assignment list. The Secretary of Defense may, however, designate billets at the Central Identification Laboratory, Hawaii, as joint duty on the joint duty assignment list if he determines that the billets meet the existing criteria for such designation.

Military funeral honors for veterans (sec. 567)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 558) that would require the secretaries of the military departments to provide, upon request, honor guard details for the funerals of veterans. The provision would specify that the honor guard details be comprised of not less than three persons with the capability to play a recording of Taps, unless a bugler is included in the detail. The honor guard detail would consist of members of the armed forces, members of veterans organizations, or other organizations approved for participation by the Secretary of Defense. The provision would require the Secretary of Defense to establish a system for selection of units of the armed forces or other organizations to provide honor guard details. Before issuing regulations to establish the system, the Secretary of Defense would consult with veterans service organizations to determine the views of those organizations regarding methods for providing honor guard details at funerals for veterans, suggestions for organizing the system to provide those details, and estimates of the resources that those organizations could provide for honor guard details. This provision would apply to burials of veterans that occur on, or after, October 1, 1999.

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1079) that would require, not later than October 31, 1998, the Secretary of Defense, in consultation with the Secretary of Veterans Affairs, to convene a conference to determine means of improving and increasing the availability of military burial honors for veterans.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would combine the two provisions in such a manner as to require the Secretary of Defense, in consultation with the Secretary of Veterans Affairs, to convene a conference, not later than December 31, 1998, to determine means of improving and increasing the availability of military burial honors for veterans, and to report the findings and recommendations resulting from the conference to the Committee on Armed Services of the Senate and the National Security Committee of the House of Representatives not later than March 15, 1999. The provision would also require the secretaries of the military departments to provide, upon request, honor guard details for the funerals of veterans comprised of not less than three persons with the capability to play a recording of Taps, unless a bugler is included in the detail, for the funerals of veterans, after December 31, 1999.

The conferees intend that the requirement to provide a three-person burial detail upon request of a veteran to be effective only if the Secretary of Defense and the Secretary of Veterans Affairs do not recommend an acceptable alternative proposal in the required report. If a recommended alternative includes permitting members of veterans service organizations to perform burial honor details, the Secretary of Defense may consider providing equipment and materiel, as appropriate, to support burial honor detail duties.

The conferees agree that men and women have unselfishly answered the call to arms at tremendous personal sacrifice. These men and women who served honorably, whether in war or peace, deserve commemoration for their military service at the time of their death by an appropriate tribute. Burial honors are an important means of reminding Americans of the sacrifices endured to keep the Nation free.

The Senate recedes with a clarifying amendment.

The conferees direct the Secretary of the Navy to determine the specific status cadets at the United States Merchant Marine Academy shall have within the Naval Reserve. The Secretary shall ensure that the benefits associated with the military identification card issued to cadets at the United States Merchant Marine Academy are consistent with their status within the Naval Reserve.

The recommended provision would ensure that dependent children who are victims of abuse are not denied compensation because of family circumstances that may cause the dependent children not to reside with the spouse or former spouse.

The House recedes with a clarifying amendment.

Pilot program for treating GED and home school diploma recipients as high school graduates for determinations of eligibility for enlistment in the armed forces (sec. 571)

The recommended provision would limit the pilot program to not more than 10,000 persons per year (1,250 per educational source per military service). The provision would require the Secretary of Defense to conduct a comprehensive evaluation of the performance of the participants in the pilot program and report the results to the Congress not later than February 1, 2004.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would reduce the number of participants to 5,000 per year (1,250 per military service) and require a separate evaluation of the performance of GED and home school participants.

Sense of Congress concerning New Parent Support Program and military families (sec. 572)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1051) that would express the sense of Congress that the New Parent Support Program has been an effective tool in curbing family violence within the military community and that the Department of Defense should seek ways to ensure that, in future fiscal years, sufficient funds are made available for this program. The recommended provision would also require that, within 120 days of the date of enactment of this Act, the Secretary of Defense to submit a report to the Congress describing the manner in which the New Parent Support Program is being implemented by each service, the number of military installations receiving support for the program, and the funding for the program by the date of each military service for fiscal years 1994 through 1998 and the amount of funding projected for fiscal year 1999.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The conference agreement includes a provision that would express the sense of the House of Representatives that civilian members of the military chain of command should, in the same manner as commanding officers and others in authority in the armed forces, show in themselves a good example of virtue, honor, and patriotism, and to subordinate themselves to those ideals.

For many years, commanding officers, and others in authority, in the Navy have been required by law to conduct themselves in an exemplary manner. The National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 1998 extended such a requirement for exemplary conduct to commanding officers, and others in authority, in the Army and Air Force. This provision results from the House conferees' belief that a similar standard for exemplary conduct should also extend to the civilian leaders designated by title 10, United States Code, as being in the military chain of command.

The monetary allowance may be paid only if payment of the allowance results in an overall cost savings to the government. This will enhance the ability of members of the uniformed services to arrange for the movement of their household goods themselves, rather than relying upon the current system, whereby the employing agencies arrange for the movement of these goods for the members.

The provision would also provide that the computation of the high-three average of a retired enlisted member who was reduced in grade be based on the lower grade.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would retain the clarification to section 1406(i).

The conferees urge the Secretary of Defense to review the effect of a reduction in grade on members who are reduced in grade and who may retire under the high-three average method of computation of retired pay and, if appropriate, recommend legislation to ensure that the member's retired pay be computed based on the lower grade.

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 653) that would authorize a service member being transferred to an overseas station to rent a car for one week at government expense when the privately owned vehicle shipped to the overseas location does not arrive as scheduled. The provision would limit the car rental reimbursement to $30 a day for one week, and would require the Secretary of Defense to certify in a report to the Congress that a system is operational to recover the cost of the reimbursement for the rental car from the shipping company that caused the delay prior to any reimbursement.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

TITLE VII—HEALTH CARE PROVISIONS

LEGISLATIVE PROVISIONS ADOPTED

Subtitle A—Health Care Services

Dependents' dental program (sec. 701)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 721) that would amend section 1076a(b)(2) of title 10, United States Code, to allow for the cap on an enrolled member's share of the monthly premium for the dependent dental program to be adjusted annually for inflation.

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 701) that would establish an index under which an enrolled member's monthly premium for the dependent dental plan could increase in a manner not to exceed the percentage of the annual pay raise.

The House recedes with an amendment that would not include the Dependent Dental Program within TRICARE and would prohibit the Secretary of Defense from reducing the dependent dental benefit without prior consultation with the Committee on Armed Services of the Senate and the National Security Committee of the House of Representatives.

Expansion of dependent eligibility under retiree dental program (sec. 702)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 701) that would amend section 1076c of title 10, United States Code, to allow dependents of certain retired service members to enroll in the retiree dental program even if the retired member does not enroll in the program.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Plan for redesign of military pharmacy system (sec. 703)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 703) that would require the Secretary of Defense to submit to the Congress, by March 1, 1999, a plan for a system-wide redesign of the military and contractor retail and mail-order pharmacy system by incorporating the "best business practices" of the private sector.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

The conferees intend that the uniform formulary be considered the minimum and not the maximum inventory of drugs that may be available through a military treatment facility. The conferees expect that, if the military treatment facility commander determines that the beneficiary population served by that military treatment facility requires drugs that could be provided in a more cost effective manner to the government through the military treatment facility, the military treatment facility commander must have the flexibility to add such drugs to the formulary in that facility. The conferees instruct the Secretary of Defense that the required pharmacy redesign plan not include any proposal in which pharmacies in military treatment facilities could charge fees or co-pays for active duty personnel, nor for any formulary or equivalent generic drug dispensed to any eligible beneficiary. The conferees do not intend that any proposed pharmacy redesign would include any proposal to permit retail pharmacies to purchase drugs at a government rate.

Transitional authority to provide continued health care coverage for certain persons unaware of loss of CHAMPUS eligibility (sec. 704)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 704) that would authorize the Secretary of Defense to extend temporarily CHAMPUS eligibility to certain beneficiaries who may have been unaware of their loss of eligibility for CHAMPUS coverage.

Subtitle B—TRICARE Program

Payment of claims for provision of health care under the TRICARE program for which a third party may be liable (sec. 711)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 711) that would amend section 1095 of title 10, United States Code, to authorize the Secretary of Defense to allow TRICARE contractors to pay certain provider claims for the provision of health care services for accidental injury prior to seeking payment from potential third-party payers.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

TRICARE prime automatic enrollments and retiree payment options (sec. 712)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 712) that would direct the Secretary of Defense to establish procedures for the automatic enrollment in TRICARE Prime at a military treatment facility for active-duty dependents residing within the catchment area of the facility, would require advance written notification of this enrollment, and would allow enrolled family members to disenroll from Military Treatment Facility TRICARE Prime at any time. The provision would also permit retired service members to have any fees associated with enrollment in TRICARE to be paid through an allotment from their retired pay or via electronic funds transfer from a financial institution.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 703).

The House recedes with an amendment that would permit retired members enrolled in TRICARE Prime to pay enrollment fees by allotment, electronic funds transfer or direct payment on a monthly or quarterly basis, would permit automatic re-enrollment for everyone who is enrolled in TRICARE Prime, and would permit automatic enrollment in TRICARE Prime for authorized family members of service members in grades E-4 and below.

The conferees intend that service members be notified that their authorized family members have been enrolled in TRICARE Prime and advise them of the procedures to change the enrollment if the automatic enrollment process did not properly enroll their authorized family members. The conferees intend that the Secretary of Defense establish procedures to notify those beneficiaries enrolled in TRICARE Prime of the status of their enrollment upon arrival at a new duty station to ensure that the enrollment is appropriate. The conferees direct the secretaries of the military departments to ensure that unit commanders include TRICARE Prime enrollment as part of all predeployment and permanent change of station inprocessing procedures to ensure that service members are apprised of the enrollment status of their authorized family members and the procedures to modify the enrollment, if necessary. The Secretary of Defense may establish the annual re-enrollment date for those enrolled in TRICARE Prime as he determines to be most efficient. The conferees do not necessarily intend that the annual re-enrollment date be on the specific anniversary of the initial enrollment.

System for tracking data and measuring performance in meeting TRICARE access standards (sec. 713)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 722) that would require the Secretary of Defense to establish a system for measuring military treatment facilities and TRICARE contractors' performance in meeting the Department of Defense standards for access to primary care services.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Establishment of appeals process for claimcheck denials (sec. 714)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 728) that would require the Secretary of Defense, not later than November 1, 1998, to submit a proposal to establish an appeals process in cases of denials through the Claim Check computer software system of claims by civilian health care providers in TRICARE.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would direct the Secretary of Defense to establish an appeals process in cases of denials of claims from a civilian health care provider in TRICARE by any computer based software system and to report to the Committee on Armed Services of the Senate and the National Security Committee of the House of Representatives when the appeals system is implemented.

Reviews relating to accessibility of health care under TRICARE (sec. 715)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 711) that would require the Secretary of Defense to revise the TRICARE policy manual to clarify that rehabilitative services are available to a patient for a head injury when the treating physician certifies that such services would be beneficial and to review the adequacy of the provider network to determine whether the networks include sufficient health care providers and specialists.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would require the Secretary of Defense to review the TRICARE policy manual to determine whether the policies dealing with the availability of rehabilitative services for patients suffering from head injuries are adequate and address the consideration of certification by an attending physician and report to the Committee on Armed Services of the Senate and the National Security Committee of the House of Representatives, not later than April 1, 1999.

The conferees direct the Secretary of Defense to ensure that the TRICARE policy manual is written in such a manner as to be clear and easy to comprehend by health care providers and others who may be involved in decisions concerning the authorized coverage under TRICARE.

Subtitle C—Health-Care Services for Medicare-Eligible Department of Defense Beneficiaries (secs. 721–724)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 729) that would authorize a three-year demonstration project under which not more than 70,000 Medicare-eligible beneficiaries of the Military Health Care System may enroll in the Federal Employees Health Benefits Program (FEHBP). The provision would require the Secretary of Defense and the Director of the Office of Personnel Management to report to the Congress, not later than 39 months after the beginning of the test, on the effectiveness of the demonstration. The Comptroller General would be required to make a similar report within the same time frame as the report of the Secretary of Defense.

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 707) that would authorize the Secretary of Defense to conduct three health care demonstration projects in order to assess the feasibility and advisability of providing health care to certain Medicare-eligible beneficiaries of the Military Health Care System. The demonstrations would begin not later than January 1, 2000 and end not later than December 31, 2003. The recommended provision would authorize: one demonstration project in which Medicare-eligible beneficiaries of the Military Health Care System would participate in the Federal Employees Health Benefits Program; a second demonstration project would create a TRICARE Senior Supplement program in which Medicare-eligible beneficiaries of the Military Health Care System could enroll; and a demonstration that would extend the TRICARE mail order pharmacy benefit to Medicare-eligible beneficiaries of the Military Health Care System.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would limit the FEHBP demonstration to not more than 66,000 participants, require the Secretary of Defense to implement a redesigned pharmacy benefit for Medicare-eligible DOD beneficiaries at two sites, and include the TRICARE Senior Supplement demonstration from the Senate amendment. The demonstrations and the redesigned pharmacy benefit would begin not later than January 1, 2000. The FEHBP demonstration would begin during the FEHBP open season for 2000. Implementation of the pharmacy redesign would begin not later than October 1, 1999. The TRICARE Senior Supplement would begin not later than January 1, 2000. The demonstrations would end not later than December 31, 2002. The Secretary of Defense, and in the case of the FEHBP demonstration, the Director of the Office of Personnel Management, would be required to report to the Congress not later than December 31, 2002 on the costs, effectiveness, and the feasibility of making the programs permanent. The Comptroller General would be required to make similar reports within the same time frame as the reports of the Secretary of Defense. In addition, the Comptroller General would be required to complete a comprehensive comparative analysis of the three projects and report to the Congress not later than March 31, 2003.

The conferees expect that the Secretary of Defense will strongly urge Medicare-eligible beneficiaries to participate in Medicare Part B. The conferees note participation in Medicare Part B is not required for eligibility in the FEHBP demonstration; however, those who do not elect to participate in Medicare Part B and later require Medicare benefits may be required to pay a significant penalty.

The conferees expect that health benefit plans under chapter 89 of title 5, United States Code, that participate in the FEHBP demonstration project will establish separate enrollment codes for self-only and self-and-family elections as an essential element of the requirement to maintain a separate risk pool for covered beneficiaries. Further, the conferees expect the Secretary of Defense and the Director of the Office of Management and Budget to seek the views of health plans that desire to participate in the demonstration about any aspect that the health plan believes would, in any way, prejudice the results of the project. The report required of the Secretary of Defense and the Director of the Office of Personnel Management shall include verbatim, written views by any participating health plan on the conduct of the demonstration project.

The conferees strongly believe that eligible beneficiaries must receive accurate, objective, and timely information from the Department of Defense about the opportunity to enroll in a health benefits plan offered under chapter 89 of title 5, United States Code, as well as the other projects. The conferees direct the Secretary of Defense, after consultation with the Director of the Office of Personnel Management and with the participating health plans, to ensure that an educational program is implemented that will provide each eligible beneficiary with easily understandable information concerning enrollment options, enrollment terms and limitations, and any other information reasonably considered essential to making an informed decision concerning participation in a demonstration project.

As part of the TRICARE Senior Supplement demonstration, the Secretary of Defense shall require participants to pay an enrollment fee which may not exceed 75 percent of the total subscription charges in a year for self-only or self-and-family fee for service coverage under FEHBP. The conferees expect the Secretary of Defense to use as the basis for determining the enrollment fee the FEHBP plan that is comparable to the TRICARE Extra benefit. The conferees do not expect that the FEHBP plan selected as the base plan will be the most expensive plan, and thus prejudice the demonstration project.

Subtitle D—Other Changes to Existing Laws Regarding Health Care Management

Process for waiving informed consent requirement for administration of certain drugs to members of Armed Forces for purposes of a particular military operation (sec. 731)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 713) that would require that an investigational new drug or a drug unapproved for its applied use not be administered to a member of the armed forces unless the member provides prior consent. The recommended provision would permit the Secretary of Defense to request the President waive the requirement for prior consent if the Secretary determines that obtaining consent is not feasible, is contrary to the best interests of the members involved, or is not in the best interests of national security.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with a clarifying amendment.

The conferees note that presidential approval, Congressional reports, and prior written notice to the member do not apply to Federal Drug Administration informed consent exceptions applicable to standard medical practice in the United States, as distinguished from informed consent exceptions that relate specifically to military functions and activities.

Health benefits for abused dependents of members of the armed forces (sec. 732)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 712) that would require the secretary concerned to provide an abused dependent of a former member of a uniformed service with medical and dental care during the period that the abused dependent is receiving transitional compensation under section 1059 of title 10, United States Code.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with a clarifying amendment.

Provision of health care at military entrance processing stations and elsewhere outside medical treatment facilities (sec. 733)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 702) that would extend the coverage of contract physicians by the same malpractice litigation rules as other Department of Defense health care providers. The provision would also extend the authority of the Secretary of Defense to provide reasonable attorney's fees in any litigation in which government attorneys do not provide representation.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would extend the current authority until December 31, 2000, and would require the Secretary of Defense to conduct a test of alternative methods for conducting medical screenings for enlistment qualification and report the findings not later than March 1, 2000.

Professional qualifications of physicians providing military health care (sec. 734)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 726) that would require the secretary of a military department to ensure that each military physician holds an unrestricted medical license. The House bill also contained a provision (sec. 727) that would require the Secretary of Defense to establish a mechanism to ensure that each military physician completes the continuing medical education requirements applicable to their medical specialty.

The Senate amendment contained a single provision (sec. 708) similar to the two provisions in the House bill.

The House recedes with a clarifying amendment.

Subtitle E—Other Matters

Enhanced Department of Defense organ and tissue donor program (sec. 741)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 705) that would require the Secretary of Defense, the secretaries of the military departments, and the Surgeons General to enhance the support for organ and tissue donor elections made by service members.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would require that service members are provided with appropriate information about organ and tissue donation and are afforded the opportunity to elect to be a donor subsequent to completion of initial training, but prior to their first duty assignment.

Authorization to establish a Level One Trauma Training Center (sec. 742)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 724) that would authorize the Secretary of the Army to establish a Level One Trauma Training Center in accordance with the American College of Surgeons standards for trauma centers.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Authority to establish center for study of post-deployment health concerns of members of the armed forces (sec. 743)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 709) that would require the Secretary of Defense to contract with an independent organization to assess the feasibility and advisability of establishing an independent entity to evaluate and monitor inter-agency coordination of issues related to the post-deployment health concerns of members of the armed forces and to report to the Congress on the results of the assessment not later than one year after the enactment of this act.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would authorize the Secretary of Defense to establish a center devoted to a longitudinal study to evaluate information on the health conditions of members of the armed forces upon their return from deployment on military operations in order to rapidly identify trends in illnesses or injuries among such members.

Report on implementation of enrollment-based capitation for funding for military medical treatment facilities (sec. 744)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 725) that would require the Secretary of Defense to report to the Congress, by March 1, 1999, on the potential impact of using an enrollment-based capitation methodology to allocate funds to military medical treatment facilities.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision. The Senate recesses.

Joint Department of Defense and Department of Veterans Affairs reports relating to interdepartmental cooperation in the delivery of medical care (sec. 745)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 706) that would require the Secretary of Defense and the Secretary of Veterans Affairs to conduct a joint survey of their respective beneficiary populations to identify, by category of individual, the expectations of, requirements for, and behavior patterns of those populations regarding medical care. The provision would require this collaborative effort be developed jointly and administered by an independent entity. Additionally, this provision would require the Secretaries of Defense and Veterans Affairs to review all applicable statutes, regulations, policies and beneficiary attitudes that may preclude or limit cooperative health care programs, including the sharing of facilities and other resources, between the Department of Defense and the Department of Veterans Affairs.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recesses with an amendment that would clarify that the joint survey need not include information that is currently available from other sources and that the secretaries report all required information to the Committee on Armed Services of the Senate and the National Security Committee of the House of Representatives.

The conferees intend that the required pharmaceutical review be oriented toward identifying ways to improve cooperative arrangements between the Department of Defense and the Department of Veterans Affairs. The conferees do not support expanding government pricing for drugs to non-government entities.

Report on research and surveillance activities regarding Lyme disease and other tick-borne diseases (sec. 746)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 710) that would authorize $3.0 million within the Defense Health Program to be used for research and surveillance activities related to Lyme disease and other tick-borne diseases.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recesses with an amendment that would require the Secretary of Defense to report to the Committee on Armed Services of the Senate and the National Security Committee of the House of Representatives on the impact of Lyme disease and other tick-borne diseases on military readiness and the efforts within the Department of Defense to prevent, identify, and treat such diseases.

LEGISLATIVE PROVISIONS NOT ADOPTED

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 702) that would require the Secretary of Defense to submit to the Congress, by March 1, 1999, a plan for ensuring that military retirees, including Medicare-eligible retirees, and their dependents have access to health care benefits comparable to those offered through TRICARE Prime, the managed-care option of the TRICARE program.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.
The House recedes.

TITLE VIII—ACQUISITION POLICY, ACQUISITION MANAGEMENT, AND RELATED MATTERS

LEGISLATIVE PROVISIONS ADOPTED

Subtitle A—Amendments to General Contracting Authorities, Procedures, and Limitations

Limitation on use of price preference upon achievement of contract goal for small and disadvantaged businesses (sec. 801)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 803) that would condition the use of the 10 percent price preference criteria in section 2323 of title 10, United States Code, on the failure of the Department of Defense (DOD) to achieve the goal in the section during the prior fiscal year.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with a clarifying amendment.

The amendment would clarify that the limitation on the use of the price preference applies only to the DOD and would specify procedures for implementing a suspension of the use of the price preference.

Distribution of assistance under the procurement technical assistance cooperative agreement program (sec. 802)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 804) that would amend section 2413 of title 10, United States Code, and repeal section 2415, United States Code, to recognize the change in the Department of Defense contract administration structure.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would retain section 2415 and amend sections 2413 and 2415 by striking “region” and inserting “district”.

Defense commercial pricing management improvement (sec. 803)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 805) that would require the Federal Acquisition Regulation (FAR) be revised to provide guidelines that would ensure price reasonableness in sole-source commercial item purchases. The FAR would also be revised to clarify issues such as the appropriate use of different types of information for establishing such price reasonableness.

The provision would also require the Secretary of Defense to establish procedures to ensure that, to the maximum extent practicable, sole-source spare parts purchases are negotiated through corporate contracts by single contracting officers or item managers to ensure that the government receives maximum leverage for the size of its purchases and to ensure that catalog discount issues and price reasonableness determinations are not treated in an isolated or piecemeal fashion. Finally, the provision would require the Secretary of Defense to establish a system for tracking price trends in spare parts in order to isolate categories of items that require further management attention. The provision would provide the Secretary of Defense with the discretion to set up such a system in a manner that would ensure minimal burden on the acquisition system and proper management.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would clarify the information to be considered in determining price reasonableness, the role of support organizations in the Department of Defense, and the reporting requirements applicable to the price trend analyses.

The conferees intend that these regulatory changes address the types of abuses uncovered in recent audits conducted by the Department of Defense (DOD) Inspector General on sole source commercial spare parts purchases by the DOD. The conferees do not intend this provision to impede implementation of the general federal government policy stated in the Federal Acquisition Streamlining Act of 1994 and the Federal Acquisition Reform Act of 1996 of relying on the commercial sector to an increasing extent for goods and services.

Modification of senior executives covered by limitation on allowability of compensation for certain contractor personnel (sec. 804)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 813) that would revise the definition of the term "senior executive" for purposes of the limitation on allowability of compensation for certain contractor personnel.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would clarify that the revised definition applies to costs incurred after January 1, 1999, under covered contracts.

Separate determinations of exceptional waivers of truth in negotiation requirements for prime contracts and subcontracts (sec. 805)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 814) that would allow the heads of agencies to waive the requirements under the Truth in Negotiations Act that subcontractors provide certified cost and pricing data in cases where such requirements have been waived for prime contractors due to a determination of exceptional circumstances.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with a clarifying amendment concerning the organizational waiver level.

The conferees agree that the term “exceptional circumstances” requires more than the belief that it may be possible to determine the contract price to be fair and reasonable without the submission of certified cost and pricing data. For example, a waiver may be appropriate in circumstances where it is possible to determine price reasonableness without cost or pricing data and the contracting officer determines that it would not be possible to enter into a contract with a particular contractor in the absence of a waiver. The conferees direct the Department of Defense to work with the appropriate executive branch officials to clarify the situations in which an exceptional circumstance waiver may be granted.

Procurement of conventional ammunition (sec. 806)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 801) that would require that ammunition or ammunition components procured by the Department of Defense (DOD) be acquired from domestic sources pursuant to section 2534 of title 10, United States Code.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would assign to the single manager for conventional ammunition in the DOD the authority to restrict the procurement of conventional ammunition to the national technology and industrial base. The amendment would also require the single manager for conventional ammunition to limit specific procurements, in accordance with section 2304(c)(3) of title 10, United States Code, in cases where it is determined that doing so is necessary to maintain a facility, producer, manufacturer, or other supplier available for furnishing an essential item of ammunition or ammunition component in cases of national emergency or to achieve industrial mobilization.

This provision supersedes existing guidance issued by the DOD as it relates to the procurement of ammunition from domestic sources. The conferees direct the Department of the Army to issue new guidance to replace the DOD guidance superseded by this provision. The conferees intend that the determination specified in the provision be conducted within the Department of the Army using procedures prescribed by the Secretary of the Army.

Para-aramid fibers and yarns (sec. 807)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 801) that would authorize the Secretary of Defense to procure articles containing para-aramid fibers and yarns manufactured in a foreign country that is a party to defense memorandum of understanding, if such country allows U.S. manufacturers of that product to compete for sales to that foreign country.

The House bill contained no similar provisions.

The House recedes with an amendment that would allow the Secretary of Defense to procure articles containing yarns and fibers manufactured in a country with whom the United States has a defense memorandum of understanding upon making a determination described in the provision.

Clarification of responsibility for submission of information on prices previously charged for property or services offered (sec. 808)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 816) that would amend the Truth in Negotiations Act to clarify requirements for contractors to provide appropriate price information required by federal contracting officers to determine price reasonableness.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would require that the Federal Acquisition Regulation (FAR) be amended to provide that compliance with the requirement to submit data shall be a condition for an offer or to be eligible to enter into a contract or subcontract, subject to such exceptions as the Federal Acquisition Regulatory Council determines appropriate. The conferees intend that any exceptions to the requirement to submit price-related information be limited to those situations that are clearly specified in the FAR pursuant to this provision.

Nothing in this section would require any contractor to submit certified cost or pricing data, to comply with the Cost Accounting Standards, or to comply with the contract cost principles, if the contractor is not otherwise required to do so. The conferees do not intend this provision to require any revision to the FAR except to the extent specifically required by subsections (c) and (d).

Amendments and study relating to procurement from firms in industrial base for production of small arms (sec. 809)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 803) that would amend section 2473 of title 10, United States Code, to require the Secretary of Defense to procure all small arms end items, small arms repair parts, modifications to improve small arms, and repair parts consisting of small arms barrels, bolts and receivers from the small arms production industrial base.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would require specified small arms purchases be made only from a firm in the small arms industrial base unless the Secretary determines, with a regard to a particular procurement, that such requirement is not necessary to preserve the small arms industrial base. The requirements under section 2473 would apply to procurement of repair parts for or modifications to improve the M16 series rifle, the MK19 grenade machine gun, the M4 series carbine, the M240 series machine gun, and the M249 squad automatic weapon. The amendment would also require the Secretary of the Army to conduct a study under the auspices of the Army Science Board to examine whether the requirements of section 2473 should be expanded in specified ways and authorizes the Secretary to do so based on the recommendations of the Army Science Board. The conferees expect the completion of the Army Science Board study, including recommendations, no later than 180 days after the date of enactment of this Act.

Subtitle B—Other Matters

Eligibility of involuntarily downgraded employee for membership in an acquisition corps (sec. 811)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 802) that would enable civilian members of the Defense Acquisition Corps who are reduced in grade due to a base closing or downsizing to retain their membership in the Acquisition Corps for the purposes of the Defense Acquisition Workforce Improvement Act.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 809).

The House recedes.

Time for submission of annual report relating to Buy American Act (sec. 812)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 804) that would reduce the time for the submission of the annual report relating to the Buy American Act required in section 827 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 1997 (Public Law 104–201) from 90 to 60 days after the end of the fiscal year.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Procurement of travel services for official and unofficial travel under one contract (sec. 813)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 802) that would allow the procurement of travel services under one contract for both official and unofficial travel.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Department of Defense purchases through other agencies (sec. 814)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 806) that would require the Secretary of Defense to revise regulations issued pursuant to section 844 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 1994 (Public Law 103–160), which cover all purchases of goods and services by the Department of Defense under so-called “multiple award task order and delivery order contracts” entered into or administered by any other agency.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with a clarifying amendment.

Supervision of defense acquisition university structure by Under Secretary of Defense for Acquisition and Technology (sec. 815)

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The provision would also provide that such small and disadvantaged business could not lose its small and disadvantaged business status through February 1999 if ice conditions in the Cook Inlet prevent deliveries of bulk fuel and the Secretary of Defense determines that effects of such inability to deliver would result in an inequity to the supplier.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would eliminate the requirement for a report from the Secretary of Defense and clarify that the provision would in no case authorize a barrel-for-barrel exchanges totaling more than 15 percent of the total amount of bulk fuel under a contract. The amendment would also clarify that the authority under the section does not affect the requirement that a contractor otherwise fulfill its contractual obligations.

LEGISLATIVE PROVISIONS NOT ADOPTED

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 805) that would require the Comptroller General to conduct a study to assess the impact of the current micro-purchase program and the advisability of increasing the micro-purchase threshold to $10,000 under section 32 of the Office of Federal Procurement Policy Act.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

The conferees believe that a thorough analysis of any proposal to raise the micropurchase threshold, including the impact on small business participation in contracting, must be provided to the Congress by the Department of Defense before such a change can be considered.

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 808) that would remove the requirement that the Director of Acquisition Education, Training, and Career Development be appointed within the Office of the Under Secretary of Defense for Acquisition and Technology.

TITLE IX—DEPARTMENT OF DEFENSE ORGANIZATION AND MANAGEMENT

LEGISLATIVE PROVISIONS ADOPTED

Subtitle A—Department of Defense Officers and Organization

Reduction in number of Assistant Secretary of Defense positions (sec. 901)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 901) that would codify the reductions in the number of assistant secretaries of defense announced by the Secretary of Defense as part of the Defense Reform Initiative. Specifically, the recommended provision would reduce the number of assistant secretaries of defense from ten to nine.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Repeal of statutory requirement for position of Assistant Secretary of Defense for Command, Control, Communications and Intel- ligence (sec. 902)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 902) that would rename the Assistant Secretary of Defense for Command, Control, Communications, and Intelligence (ASD-C3I) to the Assistant Secretary of Defense for Space and Information Superiority, and change the statutorily designated duties associated with this position.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would repeal section 138(b)(3) of title 10, United States Code.

The Secretary of Defense recently announced a number of organizational changes to the Office of the Secretary of Defense pursuant to the Defense Reform Initiative. Among these changes is a significant modification of the office of the ASD-C3I. As a result, the current title no longer describes the full range of responsibilities of this office, nor adequately identifies its functional priorities. The conferees endorse the new title “Assistant Secretary of Defense for Space and Information Superiority”.

The conferees continue to support a “single focal point for space” in the Department of Defense, and believe that there are synergies to be gained by linking this function with the Department’s information superiority activities. The conferees note that, although there is a significant degree of overlap between “information superiority” and “space”, these two functional areas also have many unique aspects that deserve significant focused attention. Therefore, the conferees endorse the Secretary’s decision to include the term “space” in the revised title of this important position.

The conferees note that the Assistant Secretary for Space and Information Superiority will be responsible for some of the most critical issues facing the Department of Defense, including space policy, information assurance, information operations, intelligence policy, command, control, communications, surveillance, reconnaissance, the “year 2000” problem, and electromagnetic spectrum issues. The conferees believe that one of the most significant challenges facing the Assistant Secretary will be the integration and mutual leveraging of the various elements that he will supervise.

Independent task force on transformation and Department of Defense organization (sec. 903)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 905) that would require the Secretary of Defense to create a task force of the Defense Science Board for the purpose of determining the appropriate organization of the Department of Defense in light of the ongoing transformation in the conduct of war. The task force would be established not later than November 1, 1998 and the Secretary should transmit the findings of the task force along with recommendations and comments to the Congress by March 1, 1999.

er Suites, and to close each Fisher House Trust Fund and transfer the amounts in the Fund to the respective nonappropriated fund. The House recedes with a clarifying amendment.

Management reform for research, development, test and evaluation activities (sec. 907)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 906) that would require the Department of Defense to conduct a cross-service analysis and a plan for restructuring and revitalization of the Department of Defense laboratories and test and evaluation (T&E) centers. The provision would also require that the Department develop a plan and schedule for establishing a cost-based management information system for identifying and comparing costs among the services' labs and T&E centers.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would require the Department to analyze opportunities to improve efficiency and reduce duplication by designating responsibilities by lead agencies or executive agent, by area or function, or by other streamlining initiatives. The amendment would also strike sections (2)(D) and (2)(E) of the Senate provision. The conferees agree that the Department should explore options for an alternative management structure for T&E. The conferees agree that the lessons learned in personnel demonstration projects and pilot projects should be considered in any plan to restructure or reengineer the laboratories and test centers.

Subtitle B—Department of Defense Financial Management

Improved accounting for defense contract services (sec. 911)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 906) that would require the Department of Defense to make numerous changes to the way they request funds for advisory and assistance services. The provision would require the Comptroller of the Department of Defense to conduct an assessment of the total non-Federal effort that resulted from the performance of all contracts for such services during the previous, current and following fiscal year. The provision would also prohibit the Department from classifying more than 15 percent of its contractual services in a miscellaneous budget category but would allow the Department to report 30 percent in its fiscal year 2000 budget as miscellaneous. In addition, the provision would codify the definition of advisory and assistance services to include; management and professional support services; studies, analyses, and evaluations; and, engineering and technical services. Finally, the provision would reduce the amount of funding that was budgeted for these services by $500.0 million.

The Senate had no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would strike the requirement for the Comptroller of the Department of Defense to conduct an assessment of the total non-Federal effort that resulted from the performance of all contracts for such services during the previous fiscal year, and the total non-Federal effort that will result from the performance of all contracts for such services during the current fiscal year. The House recedes with a technical amendment.

Limitation on reorganization and consolidation of operating locations of the Defense Finance and Accounting Service (sec. 914)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1024) that would require the Secretary of Defense to study and define future workload requirements for each of the finance and accounting operating locations (OPLOCs) of the Defense Finance and Accounting Service, and determine whether excess capacity exists. The provision would also require that the study be submitted to the congressional defense authorization committees by December 15, 1998, and that no OPLOCs could be closed until six months after the submission of this study.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would change the date for the submission of the study to the Congress to January 15, 1999 and delay the closing of any OPLOCs until 90 days after the submission of the study.

Annual report on resources allocated to support and mission activities (sec. 915)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1031) that would require the Secretary of Defense to provide in his annual report to the Congress a description of the personnel and budgetary resources dedicated to support activities as compared to mission-related activities. This provision would also require the same information for the prior five years. The provision would also require a listing of the number of military and civilian personnel assigned to headquarters activities as a percentage of military end-strength for the past 10 years.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would require the headquarters numbers to be provided for the past five years, and would require the Secretary to submit to the Congress the definition of “support” and “mission” activities that the Secretary will use in the development of the report.

Subtitle C—Joint Warfighting Experimentation

Findings concerning joint warfighting experimentation (sec. 921)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1201) that would make congressional findings that provide the historical and policy basis for the need to conduct joint warfighting experimentation.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would abbreviate the description of the basis for the need to conduct joint warfighting experimentation.

Sense of Congress concerning joint warfighting experimentation (sec. 922)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1202) that would express a sense of the Congress on the importance of designating a commander with the mission for joint warfighting experimentation, a sense of the Congress that such commander should be provided with adequate resources and authority to effectively conduct such experimentation, and a sense of the Congress that the Congress should review the process of military transformation, as evidenced by the results of such experimentation, and if the process is determined inadequate, to consider legislation that would ensure the effective conduct of joint warfighting experimentation.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would modify the sense of the Congress related to the commander’s authority by abbreviating the enumeration of such authorities.

Reports on joint warfighting experimentation (sec. 923)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 901) that would reduce the defense acquisition workforce, as defined in section 912(a) of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 1998 (Public Law 105–85), by a total of 70,000 over three years.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recesses with an amendment.

The amendment would limit the reduction to 25,000 personnel positions in fiscal year 1999 and would authorize the Secretary of Defense to waive up to 12,500 upon a certification by the Secretary that reducing a greater number of such positions would be inconsistent with the cost-effective management of the defense acquisition system to obtain best value equipment and with ensuring military readiness.

The reduction would apply to positions in the defense acquisition and support workforce and limit the reduction of core acquisition workforce positions to a level proportional with other occupational elements in the larger defense acquisition and support workforce.

Limitation on operation and support funds for the Office of the Secretary of Defense (sec. 932)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 902) that would limit the obligation of funds for the Office of the Secretary of Defense to 90 percent of the appropriated level for that office until such time as the Secretary submits the reports that were required by section 904(b) of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 1997, and sections 911(b) and 911(c) of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 1998.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would make the provision more generic.

LEGISLATIVE PROVISIONS NOT ADOPTED

Revision to defense directive relating to management headquarters and headquarters support activities

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 903) that would require the Department of Defense to implement a revised directive, to be applied uniformly throughout the Department, that accounts for management headquarters personnel by function rather than organization.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Report on individuals employed in private sector who provide services under contract for the Department of Defense

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 910) that would require the Secretary of Defense to provide an annual report to the Congress that would outline the quantity, costs, and value of services that are provided to the Department of Defense by non-Federal workers.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

The conferees understand that significant cost would be incurred by the Department in establishing a new system to annually track the quantity and value of non-Federal contract services. Therefore, the conferees direct the Department, to the extent practicable, using only existing personnel and contracting systems, to report to the Committee on Armed Services of the Senate and the National Security Committee of the House of Representatives by April 15, 1998, the number of work year equivalents performed by individuals employed by non-Federal entities providing services to the Department, categorized by Federal supply class code, the appropriation from which the contract was funded, and the major organizational element procuring the services.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

The Nuclear Weapons Council is a statutorily mandated body consisting of Department of Defense and Department of Energy members. The Council has specific responsibilities to ensure the safety and reliability of the Nation's nuclear weapons stockpile. The Assistant to the Secretary of Defense for Nuclear and Chemical and Biological Defense Programs is the primary Department of Defense focal point for nuclear weapons matters, and reports directly to the Secretary of Defense. This position also serves as the executive director of the Nuclear Weapons Council. Unfortunately, this important position has been vacant for many months. The conferees are concerned that, as a result of this position being vacant for an extended period of time, nuclear weapons matters and issues associated with maintaining the U.S. nuclear deterrent are not receiving the attention they deserve. The conferees urge the President to submit to the Senate, for advice and consent, a nomination as soon as possible.

Military aviation accident investigations

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 910) that would require the Secretary of Defense to establish a task force to review the procedures used by the Department of Defense to conduct military aviation accident investigations and to identify mechanisms for improving such investigations. The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1002) that would provide emergency authorization of $1.9 billion to fund U.S. participation in Bosnia peacekeeping operations for fiscal year 1999.

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1201) that would not authorize additional funding for U.S. participation in Bosnia peacekeeping operations, and would limit the Secretary of Defense from expending funds appropriated to the Department of Defense for fiscal year 1999 in excess of $1.9 billion. The provision would provide for an emergency exception of not more than $100.0 million for the purpose of safeguarding U.S. Forces in the event of hostilities, and would require the Secretary of Defense to submit a report to the Congress by April 1, 1999 on the need for any additional funds required for Bosnia operations in fiscal year 1999.

The conferees agree to a provision that would provide emergency authorization of $1.9 billion to fund operations in Bosnia for fiscal year 1999, but would limit funding to the amounts authorized in this section. The President may waive this limitation after submitting to the Congress a certification that the waiver is based on the national interest and will not adversely affect the readiness of U.S. Military Forces. In conjunction with the certification, the President must submit a request for supplemental appropriations to fund the increased costs and a report. The report submitted with the certification must contain the reasons for the waiver, the specific reasons the additional funds are required, and a discussion of the readiness impact of the continued deployment of the U.S. Military Forces in Bosnia or supporting Bosnia peacekeeping operations.

Additionally, the House bill would require that no funds be made available for this activity until the Secretary of Defense submits a report to the congressional defense committees on the impact of the international medical program global satellite system on the Department of Defense (DOD) radio frequency spectrum.

The conferees agree to a provision that would make $5.0 million available in defense-wide activities for PIMS in defense-wide operation and maintenance and research and development activities. In addition, the conferees agree to authorize a $4.0 million increase for PIMS research and development activities for the development of an international medical global satellite system. The conferees agree with the recommendation of the House (H. Rept. 105-532) regarding the requirement of the Secretary of Defense to submit a report on the impact of this system on the DOD frequency spectrum prior to obligation of funds. In addition, the report of the Secretary of Defense should include a plan on how the satellite-based medical telecommunications distribution and delivery network would be integrated into PIMS, the cost of integrating this technology into PIMS, the primary focus and content of the program and the contribution to the overall mission of PIMS, and information on the need for bilateral agreements.

Lastly, the conferees direct that all applicable competitive procedures be used in the award of contracts, grants, and other agreements under this program and that the Department require significant cost-sharing from all non-federal participants.

Long-term charter of three vessels in support of submarine rescue, escort, and towing (sec. 1016)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1013) that would authorize charter of the three vessels in accordance with section 2401 of title 10, United States Code.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 1012) and directed the Department to utilize fully the R/V Gosport and other assets owned and operated by the Navy for secondary services including torpedo retrieval, sonar calibration, and submarine sea trial escort prior to out-sourcing for these services.

The Senate recedes.

The conferees agree to authorize the Navy to enter into charters through September 30, 2003 in accordance with section 2401 of title 10, United States Code, for the Carolyn Chouest, Kellie Chouest, and Dolores Chouest and direct the Department of the Navy to utilize fully the R/V Gosport and other similar vessels prior to out-sourcing for secondary services described above.

Transfer of obsolete Army tugboat (sec. 1017)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1014) that would permit the Secretary of the Army to substitute the tugboat Attleboro (LT-1977) for the tugboat Normandy (LT-1971) as one of two tugboats authorized to be transferred by the Secretary under section 1023 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 1998 (Public Law 105-86).

Subtitle C—Counter Drug Activities and Other Assistance for Civilian Law Enforcement

The budget request for drug interdiction and other counter-drug activities of the Department of Defense (DOD) totals $882.8 million. This includes the $727.6 million central transfer account and $155.2 million in the operating budgets of the military services for counter-drug operations.

However, these numbers do not accurately represent the Department's total commitment to the war on drugs. For example, these numbers do not include a proportionate share of the costs of procuring military systems that are used to support the war on drugs. They also do not capture the personnel costs for the thousands of active duty service members who are engaged in counter-narcotics activities over the course of the fiscal year. Furthermore, the budget does not include all maintenance costs for assets used in counter-drug activities, or a proportionate share of base operation support costs for those units performing counter-drug activities. Together, these costs exceed several hundred million dollars each year.

In addition, these numbers do not reflect the value of the equipment and training that the DOD provides to other nations in support of their counter-narcotics activities pursuant to section 506 of the Foreign Assistance Act. This section provides authorization for up to $75.0 million worth of counter-narcotics support to foreign governments each year. The conferees are concerned that this authority, which was intended to be used to enhance U.S. counter-narcotics support to nations in the source zone, is simply used to offset costs which more appropriately belong in the State Department budgets. The conferees are further concerned that the continued provision of non-excess military equipment to foreign governments may have an adverse impact on U.S. military readiness. The conferees direct the Secretary of Defense to provide the congressional defense committees with a list of those items that are provided pursuant to Section 506, together with the Secretary's plans for replacing this equipment.

Finally, the conferees are concerned that in some cases the Department of Defense may be pressured into dedicating scarce resources within its budget recommendation to the President for the counter-narcotics missions that are the primary responsibility of the Department of State or other Federal agencies. This practice could be detrimental to other high priority military missions, including counter-terrorism and counter-proliferation, in today's resource constrained environment. The conferees believe that the Secretary of Defense and the Chairman of the Joint Chiefs are in the best position to understand all of the national security responsibilities of DOD, and to make a balanced recommendation to the President regarding the manner in which the resources of the Armed Forces should be utilized in such a way as to most effectively carry out those responsibilities.

The conferees recommend the following authorization for the Department's counter-narcotics activities:

Enhanced transit zone interdiction—Caribbean/Eastern Pacific interdiction initiative, caper focus

Although the Department of Defense continues to serve as the single lead Federal agency for the detection and monitoring of suspected drug-trafficking activities within the transit zones, the Department's budget in this region has declined dramatically since 1993. This decline is a result of presidential guidance in 1993 that directed a gradual shift in emphasis from the transit zone to source zone counter-drug activities. While the Administration's strategic focus moved to South America, illegal drugs continue to flow through the eastern Pacific Ocean and Caribbean Sea to U.S. markets.

The conferees encourage the Department to explore new initiatives to enhance current interdiction capabilities so that if Panamanian facilities are no longer available, a viable interdiction program remains. To assist the Department in this effort, the conferees have included a provision that would provide $14.5 million within the counter-narcotics central transfer account for the increased deployment of the Department's Cyclone Class Patrol Coastal Craft (PCs) to the Caribbean and eastern Pacific, and any maintenance or modifications of these craft (such as forward looking infra-red devices and combat craft recovery systems) necessary to enhance their interdiction capabilities. Such increased deployment will provide Commander-in-Chief, Southern Command (CINCSOUTH) with a more substantial naval presence in his theater of operations with which to increase surface interdiction efforts of suspected narco-traffickers. The conferees include an additional $8.0 million for the Department's Caribbean efforts in order to help pay for increased deployment. The conferees expect the Department to identify the remaining $6.5 million from within its interdiction budget.

The conferees direct the Secretary of Defense to provide the Committee on Armed Services of the Senate and the Committee on National Security of the House of Representatives with a report outlining the extent to which the PCs, operating either with or without a mothership, were effective during fiscal year 1999 in the interdiction and deterrence of maritime drug trafficking. This report should also outline the CINCSOUTH's and the CINCSOCOM's recommendation regarding any future deployment of these craft to SOUTHCOM's Area of Responsibility (AOR), and the Secretary of Defense's recommendation as to the appropriate funding mechanism for these future deployments.

Caper Focus

The conferees are disturbed by the recent testimony of General Charles E. Wilhelm, Commander-in-Chief, Southern Command (CINCSOUTH), regarding the Department's inability "to mount effective detection, monitoring and tracking operations in the eastern Pacific, a pipeline which feeds Mexico and ultimately the U.S." As a result of competing demands for maritime patrol aircraft, the Secretary of Defense postponed the final phase of Operation Caper Focus, a promising operation targeting multi-nation cargo vessels in the eastern Pacific. During the initial phases of Operation Caper Focus, Joint Interagency Task Force- East (JIATF-E) assets interdicted 27 metric tons of cocaine and gained valuable intelligence on regional trafficking methods. Despite these preliminary results, the Secretary of Defense has not made available the additional air or maritime assets necessary to execute the operation, nor has the Director of JIATF-E transferred assets from the Caribbean.

The conferees are convinced of the need to take advantage of this opportunity to seize large amounts of cocaine through the continuation of Operation Caper Focus. Therefore, the conferees include a provision that would authorize $10.5 million to support this operation. The conferees urge the Secretary of Defense to seek the views of CINCSOUTH in identifying the capabilities needed to determine how these funds should be applied. Finally, the conferees directs that the Secretary of Defense provide the Committee on Armed Services of the Senate and the Committee on National Security of the House of Representatives a report outlining the recommendations of CINCSOUTH and an implementation plan detailing the Department's expanded operational support to Operation Caper Focus no later than January 15, 1999. The conferees include an additional $6.0 million in order to help pay for this deployment. The conferees expect the Department to provide the remaining $4.5 million from within its interdiction budget.

Gulf States Counter-drug Initiative

The conferees understand the Gulf States Counter-drug Initiative has grown beyond its original counter-drug mission and now performs important work for other high priority missions of the Department of Defense, including counter-terrorism. Therefore, the conferees support the transfer of this activity from the Department's Counter-drug account to the C3I Joint Military Intelligence Program in accordance with its increased mission, and recommend an additional $6.0 million for its counter narcotics activities. The conferees expects that the Department will fund GSCI's operations through the Joint Military Intelligence Program budget in the future. The conferees authorize a further $1.0 million for the Gulf States Counter-drug Initiative Regional Counter-drug Training Academy.

Multi-Jurisdictional Task Force

The budget request included $2.0 million for the Multi-Jurisdictional Counter-drug Task Force. The conferees understand that additional funds are needed to improve the Multi-Jurisdictional Counter-drug Task Force's training program by increasing the number of conventional courses, distance learning projects and state narcotics conventions for law enforcement officers. Therefore, the conferees recommend $3.0 million, an increase of $1.0 million for the Multi-Jurisdictional Counter-drug Task Force.

National Guard State plans

The budget request included $29.0 million for National Guard Cargo/Mail Inspection Support and $118.6 million for National Guard General Support. The conferees note that beginning in fiscal year 1998, funds for cargo/mail inspection support were transferred from the general support account due to its high priority at the national level. While the conferees continue to endorse this program as a means to deny illegal drugs from entering the United States, the conferees believe that this program should compete with other high priority National Guard counter-narcotics operations. Therefore, the conferees recommend $147.6 million for National Guard General Support, an increase of $29.0 million, and a corresponding decrease of $29.0 million for National Guard Cargo/Mail Inspection Support.

JIATF-South

The conferees continue to be concerned with the impact that our military withdrawal from Panama will have upon U.S. drug interdiction capabilities. The Panamanian facilities provide a unique location from which to deploy U.S. counter-narcotics assets. The loss of these facilities will have a significant impact upon the U.S. ability to maintain the current level of drug interdiction efforts. Since the United States and the Government of Panama have been unable to reach an agreement regarding the continued deployment of U.S. military personnel to Panama after the remaining facilities are turned over at the end of 1999, the conferees believe it is imprudent to significantly expand and facilitate JIATF-South as recommended in the budget request. Until such an agreement is signed, the conferees believe that JIATF-South should operate with the same resources that it received for fiscal year 1998. Therefore, the conferees recommend a reduction of $17.0 million for this program.

Southern Air Forces Counter-Drug Support

The budget request included $24.4 million for Southern Air Forces (SOUTHAF) Counter-Drug Support, including $19.0 million for the operation and maintenance of ground mobile radars (GMRs) within the U.S. Southern Command area of operations. The conferees recommend $20.4 million for SOUTHAF Counter-Drug Support, a decrease of $4.0 million.

Ground-based end game operations—Mexico

The budget request included $16.0 million for the counter-narcotics training of the Armed Forces of Mexico; a significant increase from previous years. The conferees recommend $12.0 for this program; a decrease of $4.0 million.

Support for counter-drug activities of Peru and Colombia

Section 1033 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 1998 (Public Law 105–85) authorized the Secretary of Defense to provide support for the counter-drug activities of the Governments of Peru and Colombia. The conferees wish to clarify that the intent of Congress was to provide nonlethal assistance, including unarmed riverine patrol boats, to establish a riverine interdiction program in Peru and Colombia. The conferees note that other programs exist in which the Government of Peru can acquire the weaponry necessary to arm these vessels.

LEGISLATIVE PROVISIONS ADOPTED

Program authority for Department of Defense support to other agencies for counter-drug activities (sec. 1021)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1021) that would extend section 1004 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 1991 through fiscal year 2000. The provision would also allow the Department of Defense to use counter-drug funds for any major renovation or modification of a Department of Defense facility being used for counter-narcotics purposes. Prior to using this authority for any such projects that will exceed $500,000, the Department must notify the congressional defense committees.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would extend section 1004 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 1991 through fiscal year 2002.

Department of Defense support of National Guard drug interdiction and counter-drug activities (sec. 1022)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 334) that would make certain changes to the National Guard's authority to perform counter-narcotics activities. These changes would include the authorization to make minor purchases using National Guard counter-narcotics funding. This provision would also allow the Guard to provide expanded support to youth outreach programs. Finally, the provision would authorize the use of funds appropriated for counter-narcotics activities to be used for a member of the Guard's annual training as long as these funds were reimbursed with funds that were appropriated for training.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would limit the size of purchases to $5,000 per purchase order unless approval to exceed that amount is provided in advance by the Secretary of Defense. The amendment would further require that counter-narcotics activities not degrade military readiness, or increase the cost of training. The amendment would also require that in the case of unit participation in counter-narcotics activities, the missions will support valid unit training requirements. Finally, the amendment would clarify that the pay and benefits of a member of the Guard who is serving on full time active duty in support of the counter-narcotics activities of the Guard does not receive an amount of pay and benefits during his annual training more than the amount he would be entitled to if he were not performing these counter-narcotics activities.

Patrol Coastal Craft for drug interdiction by Southern Command (sec. 1023)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 331) that would provide $18.5 million within the counter-narcotics central transfer account for the increased deployment of the Department's Patrol Coastal Craft to the Caribbean and eastern Pacific. The Senate amendment also contained a provision (sec. 335) that would express the sense of the Congress that the Secretary of Defense should revise the Global Military Force Policy to treat counter-drug operations as a military operation other than war. Furthermore, the Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 311) that would require the U.S. Special Operations Command to use the resources that are saved within its operating budget as a result of funding the Patrol Coastal Craft within the counter-narcotics budget for training and related operations associated with its counter-proliferation and counter-terrorism missions.

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1022) that would provide $24.4 million within the counter-narcotics central transfer account for the continued conduct of Operation Caper Focus.

The conferees include a single provision that would (1) express the sense of the Congress that the Secretary of Defense should ensure that the international drug interdiction and counter-drug activities of the Department of Defense are accorded adequate resources within the budget allocation of the Department to execute its counter-narcotics mission; (2) provide $10.5 million within the counter-narcotics central transfer account for the continued conduct of Operation Caper Focus; and (3) provide $14.5 million within the counter-narcotics central transfer account for the increased deployment of the Department's Patrol Coastal Craft to the Caribbean and eastern Pacific. The provision would also require that the $4.5 million that the Special Operations Command saved within its operating budget as a result of funding the Patrol Coastal Craft within the counter-narcotics budget be used for training and related operations associated with its counter-proliferation and counter-terrorism missions.

Subtitle D—Miscellaneous Report Requirements and Repeals

Repeal of unnecessary and obsolete reporting provisions (sec. 1031)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1057) that would eliminate the requirement for the Department of Defense Inspector General to conduct inspections of the Armed Forces Retirement Homes, as well as review the inspections conducted by the inspectors general of the military departments. The recommended provision would require inspections of the homes every three years. Responsibility to conduct inspections would rotate among the three services on a schedule determined by the Secretary of Defense.

The Senate recedes with a clarifying amendment.

Clarification of land conveyance authority, Armed Forces Retirement Home (sec. 1043)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1041) that would clarify subsection (a) of section 1053 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 1997 (Public law 104–201), to state clearly that the original purpose of this disposal provision was to authorize only the sale of a specific parcel of land at the Armed Forces Retirement Home, Washington, D.C. through an open bid process at not less than fair market value, with the receipts of the sale to be deposited in the Armed Forces Retirement Homes Trust Fund.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would require the Secretary of Defense to submit to Congress a plan to address the problems with the sale or other disposal of excess and surplus defense materials. The plan would include how the Department will (1) implement all appropriate demilitarization training, (2) improve oversight of demilitarization functions and the maintenance of demilitarization codes, and (3) assign accurate demilitarization codes. The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would limit the scope of the provision to changes in the regulations for, and the elements of the annual report on, the training of special operations forces with friendly foreign forces.

The conferees emphasize that, while improved interoperability and relations with the friendly foreign forces may be an ancillary benefit, the training of U.S. special operations forces under the authority of this section must clearly be the primary purpose of the training. The conferees also underscore that training with “other security forces” of a friendly foreign country, rather than with such country’s armed forces, should be a rare exception. Finally, it is expected that the Secretary will not delegate the approval authority for such training to a level below an assistant secretary of defense and that both the Assistant Secretaries for International Security Affairs and Special Operations and Low Intensity Conflict should participate in the required approval process.

Research grants competitively awarded to service academies (sec. 1063)

The provision would also require that any entity that purchases any portion of the radio frequency spectrum previously reserved for use by any federal agency, including DOD, and that the Federal agency has relinquished for sale or lease, shall reimburse the Federal agency for the cost incurred by the Federal government to make that portion of the frequency spectrum available. The provision would further require a report in the annual budget request for each Federal department or agency that incurs costs for such frequency reallocations. Finally, the provision would exempt from the reimbursement requirement those portions of the Federal radio frequency spectrum identified for reallocation in the first reallocation report submitted to the President and Congress, except for reallocations of that portion of the spectrum located in the 1710–1755 megahertz band.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would require the Secretary of Defense to prescribe uniform regulations establishing procedures by which the military departments shall provide periodic reports on the conduct and progress of investigations to the families of those involved in an aviation accident.

The conferees note the importance of a regular flow of accurate information to the families of those involved in an aviation accident and encourage the Secretary of Defense to include in regulations specific circumstances for providing information to the families. Additionally, the conferees encourage the Secretary of Defense to consider accepting comments from the National Transportation Safety Board in developing regulations pertaining to aviation accident investigations.

Operation, maintenance, and upgrade of Air Force space launch facilities

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1050) that would prohibit the obligation of funds appropriated for the operation, maintenance, or upgrade of the Western and Eastern Space Launch Facilities of the Air Force for any other purpose.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.
The House recedes.

The conferees believe that maintaining a strong, robust space launch capability, including modern and well maintained space launch facilities, is essential to preserving a strong military and scientific capability. The conferees believe that the reprogramming of any resources appropriated to ensure that space launch facilities are fully maintained in their best condition, should only be conducted if planned launches, or other programmed activities, are canceled.

Southwest border fence

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 333) that would require the Secretary of Defense to perform an analysis of the effectiveness of the Southwest border fence in reducing the flow of drugs into the United States before further expansion.

The House bill contained no similar provision.
The Senate recedes.

The conferees are concerned with the continued transportation of narcotics across the Southwest border and into the United States. Over the past few years, the Department of Defense has explored several initiatives to reduce this flow of illegal drugs. One such initiative was the construction of a border fence along portions of the border. Although the conferees support such initiatives, the conferees believe that a thorough analysis should be performed to determine how the fence might be made more effective before the Department proceeds with any planned expansion. The conferees direct the Secretary of Defense to undertake such an analysis.

In the interim, the conferees recommend $3.0 million to facilitate completion of the Southwest border fence project from within the domestic law enforcement agencies support component of the Department of Defense Counter-Drug Plan.

Increase operations and maintenance for Army National Guard/reduce amounts from revised economic assumptions

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1005) that would reduce authorizations for appropriations to reflect the updated inflation estimates for fiscal year 1999 by the Office of Management and Budget. The amendment also increased funding for the Army National Guard operations and training programs, and the arms control programs of the Department of Energy.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

The conferees agreed to adopt the revised economic assumptions. Funding for the Army National Guard and the Department of Energy arms control programs are discussed in other portions of this report.

Ship scrapping pilot program

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1017) that would direct the Secretary of the Navy to carry out a ship scrapping pilot program to gather data on the costs associated with scrapping and to demonstrate cost effective technologies and techniques that ensure worker safety and environmental protection. Under the pilot program, the Secretary would be required to give a greater weight to technical and performance-related factors than to cost and price-related factors. The Secretary of the Navy would also be required to give significant weight to technical qualifications and past performance of the contractor and major subcontractors or team members of the contractor in complying with applicable legal requirements for environmental protection and worker safety.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

The conferees acknowledge the recommendations of the 1998 Report of the Interagency Panel on Ship Scrapping. Consistent with those recommendations, the conferees object to any congressionally mandated restrictions or prohibitions related to domestic or overseas scrapping of naval vessels.

Report on inventory and control of military equipment

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1025) that would require the Department of Defense to perform a thorough review of its inventory of military equipment and submit a report to the Congress outlining the location of this equipment, or the efforts of the Department in locating any equipment that could not be located.

The conferees agree to include a requirement for the Secretary of Defense to assess the options to reduce infrastructure costs at Brooks Air Force Base, Texas, in section 2814 concerning leasing and other alternative uses of non-excess military property.

Sense of the Senate regarding declassification of classified information of the Department of Defense and the Department of Energy

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1069) that would set forth the sense of the Senate that the Secretaries of Defense and Energy should request adequate funds in fiscal year 2000 for activities relating to the declassification of information required by Executive Order 12958 and the Atomic Energy Act of 1954 (42 U.S.C. 2011 et seq.).

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

The conferees have addressed this issue in a separate section in Title XXXI of this Act.

Sense of the Senate regarding the August 1995 assassination attempt against President Shevardnadze of Georgia

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1081) that would express the sense of the Senate that the Russian Federation should extradite the alleged perpetrators of the August 5, 1995 assassination attempt on the life of President Shevardnadze to Georgia to stand trial, that the Russian Federation and the Russian Minister of Defense should cooperate and ensure that Russian military bases on Georgian territory are not used to facilitate the escape of perpetrators acting against the Government and committing acts in violation of the national sovereignty of Georgia, and that the U.S. Government should use all available authorities to provide assistance to ensure the safety of the President of Georgia.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes. However, the conferees do agree that the Russian Federation should respect the national sovereignty of Georgia and the Russian Ministry of Defense should cooperate to ensure that its military bases located on Georgian territory are not used to facilitate acts of terrorism and violence, nor used to protect and provide escape to perpetrators of terrorism or violence against the Georgian Government or its people.

Eliminating secret Senate holds

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1083) that would state that it is a standing order of the Senate that a Senator who provides notice to leadership of his intention to object to proceeding to a motion or matter shall disclose the objection or hold in the Congressional Record not later than two session days after the date of the notice. The provision also stated that it was adopted as an exercise of the rulemaking process of the Senate and with full recognition of the constitutional right of the Senate to change its rules at any time.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Cooperation between the Department of the Army and the Environmental Protection Agency in meeting the Chemical Weapons Convention requirements

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1087) that would require the Department of Defense (DOD), in coordination with the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA), to submit a report to the congressional defense committees by April 1, 1999. The report would address the mutual responsibilities of DOD and EPA with respect to the Resource Conservation and Recovery Act (RCRA) (42 U.S.C. 6901 et seq.) permit process related to fulfilling U.S. international obligations under the Chemical Weapons Convention (CWC).

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

The conferees note that compliance with international obligations to destroy the U.S. chemical weapons stockpile by April 28, 2007, as required under the CWC, is a national priority. Given the international obligation of the United States under the CWC, the President must ensure that DOD and the Army receive all necessary assistance from federal agencies to facilitate the safe and effective destruction of the lethal chemical stockpile.

The EPA is a federal agency with specific oversight responsibility for states with authorized hazardous waste programs under RCRA. The conferees expect EPA to exercise its oversight responsibility in a way that supports the DOD and the Army in the execution of CWC obligations. The conferees, however, have been apprised of EPA assertions that it is not adequately funded to meet its federal RCRA permitting responsibilities associated with CWC commitments. The conferees expect that EPA shall work in concert with federal, state, and local government entities in the successful resolution of issues related to the destruction of the U.S. chemical weapons stockpile, and that the EPA shall properly budget for these efforts.

The conferees are concerned about the possibility that inadequate EPA planning and budgeting could be used as a justification for authorization of the Army funding of EPA obligations. Such a justification would be inappropriate. In addition, there remains a question about the extent to which EPA must participate in the CWC RCRA permit process, particularly in states with authorized hazardous waste programs. The conferees agree that the level of EPA participation must not exceed the requirements related to federal regulatory oversight under RCRA.

The Army received specific authorization to reimburse states for their efforts in permitting chemical demilitarization facilities in the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 1986, but there was no provision for EPA reimbursement. There is no statutory authority for the Army to reimburse EPA for federal regulatory oversight activities related to the CWC RCRA permit process.

The conferees direct the Secretary of Defense and the Administrator of the EPA to submit a report to the congressional defense committees by April 1, 1999 that includes the following: (1) a detailed description of the federal, state, and local RCRA permitting responsibilities related to CWC obligations to destroy the U.S. chemical stockpile, with particular focus on the federal regulatory role in states with authorized hazardous waste programs; (2) a description of the state authorized hazardous waste programs in those states with existing or projected chemical weapons destruction sites; (3) the level of technical assistance provided by EPA to its regional offices and to the state and local governments in the overall RCRA permitting process, the legal basis for such assistance, and how such assistance supports the national commitment to destroy U.S. chemical weapons, particularly in states with authorized hazardous waste programs; (4) the legal rationale, if any, for the Army to fund EPA technical assistance for EPA regional offices, and for the state and local governments in the RCRA permitting process associated with chemical weapons destruction, particularly in relation to state authorized hazardous waste programs; (5) the legal rationale, if any, for the Army to fund EPA attendance of meetings with the National Chemical Agent Demilitarization Workgroup, meetings between the Office of Solid Waste and the affected EPA Regional Offices and states, and meetings between the Office of Solid Waste, the Program Manager for Chemical Demilitarization, and DOD; (6) the legal rationale, if any, for DOD or the Army to provide funds to EPA for employment of full time equivalents (FTEs) to assist in the formulation of RCRA permits, the projected geographical location of the FTEs, and the projected function of the FTEs in relation to CWC RCRA permit requirements; (7) a complete explanation of the need, if any, for the Army to fund the EPA role with respect to CWC RCRA permit requirements, a complete description of the overall EPA functions and activities that may require Army funding, an identification of the other instances in which the Army has provided funds to EPA for other RCRA permit oversight activities, and the specific authority for the proposed level of EPA participation in CWC RCRA permit process; and (8) the Army and EPA funding levels within the President's budget projected to support the RCRA permit process related to CWC for fiscal year 1999 and the out years.

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1025) that would expand the current drug testing program of the Department of Defense by requiring that all civilian employees be subject to random tests, rather than just those serving in sensitive positions as required by executive order.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would codify the executive order which requires random drug testing of those serving in sensitive positions, and authorize the Secretary of Defense to test any employee of the Department of Defense if there is a reasonable suspicion that the employee uses illegal drugs.

TITLE XII—MATTERS RELATING TO OTHER NATIONS

LEGISLATIVE PROVISIONS ADOPTED

Subtitle A—United States Armed Forces in Bosnia and Herzegovina

United States armed forces in Bosnia and Herzegovina (secs. 1201–1205)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1202) that would express the views and concerns of Congress regarding the participation of U.S. armed forces in NATO operations in Bosnia and would require the President to report to Congress on the continued participation of U.S. armed forces in NATO operations in Bosnia and the status of progress achieved in implementing the civilian tasks of the Dayton Accords on an annual basis. The provision would also require the Secretary of Defense to report to Congress by December 15, 1998 on the effects of the military operations in Bosnia on the readiness of U.S. armed forces and the ability of U.S. forces to conduct two nearly simultaneous major regional conflicts.

The Senate amendment contained three provisions regarding the continued participation of U.S. ground combat forces in NATO operations in Bosnia. One provision (sec. 1065) would express the sense of Congress that the funds sufficient to cover continued U.S. participation in the NATO operation in Bosnia should be included in the defense budget and in the Future Years Defense Program above the defense topline contained in the Balanced Budget Agreement of 1997, rather than through reprogrammings or rescissions of existing defense activities. Another provision (sec. 1066) would express concerns that U.S. armed forces should not act as civil police in Bosnia and would require the President to submit a report to Congress on the status of establishing a NATO force of gendarmes, to include information on the mission of the force, the composition of the force, and the extent to which, if any, U.S. forces will participate in the force.

Lastly, the Senate amendment included a provision (sec. 1072) that would express the sense of Congress that U.S. ground combat forces should not remain in Bosnia indefinitely, that a NATO-led follow-on force, without participation of U.S. combat forces, would be suitable to continue implementation of the Dayton Agreement if the European Security and Defense Identity is not sufficiently established, that our European allies should take steps to establish a European follow-on force, led either by the Western European Union (WEU) or NATO, and that the President should continue to consult closely with Congress on the progress in implementing the Dayton Agreement and in reducing and ultimately withdrawing U.S. ground combat forces from Bosnia. It would also require the President to report to Congress by September 30, 1998 on the impact on the security situation in Bosnia that would result from a phased reduction of U.S. military forces, and the prospects for establishing a self-sustaining peace and stable government in Bosnia. Finally, it would require the President to submit a report to Congress on the following: the performance objectives, to include the benchmarks reported in the latest semi-annual report submitted under section 7(b)(2) of the 1998 Supplemental Appropriations and Rescissions Act, and schedule for implementing the Dayton Agreement, to include objectives not specifically covered in the Dayton Agreement and support provided by U.S. forces to the military and non-military objectives. Along with the budget request for fiscal year 2000 and each time the President submits a proposal for funding continued operations of U.S. forces in Bosnia, the provision would require the President to submit a report to Congress including information on the mission of U.S. forces, the support provided by U.S. armed forces to military and non-military missions; U.S. armed forces participation in apprehending war criminals and any role in connection with civilian police functions; the role of U.S. armed forces in assisting in the resettlement of refugees and the support of U.S. armed forces in supporting international and local civilian authorities. The report would also include an assessment of the cost to the United States by fiscal year of carrying out the aforementioned missions, and a joint assessment by the Secretary of Defense and the Secretary of State on the status of planning for European military and paramilitary forces to take over the remaining military missions in Bosnia, and for the establishment and support of a forward-based U.S. rapid reaction force outside Bosnia that would be capable of responding rapidly to threats posed in Bosnia, and of providing support to a European follow-on force to ensure that it is fully capable of accomplishing the implementation of the Dayton Agreement.

The conferees agree to three provisions (secs. 1201–1204) that would combine, update, and clarify the provisions contained in the House bill and Senate amendment and to an additional provision (sec. 1205) that would contain definitions for the subtitle containing these provisions.

Subtitle B—Matters Relating to Contingency Operations

Report on involvement of Armed Forces in contingency and ongoing operations (sec. 1211)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1030) that would require the Secretary of Defense to submit a report to the congressional defense committees outlining: 1) the effects of U.S. involvement in contingency operations on the retention and reenlistment of personnel in the armed forces; 2) the extent to which involvement in these operations has resulted in shortfalls in personnel and equipment; 3) the cost of these operations and the accounts from which the funds to pay these costs were drawn; and 4) the objectives of the operation and the set of conditions that defines the end of each operation.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Submission of report on objectives of a contingency operation with requests for funding for the operation (sec. 1212)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1031) that would require the Secretary of Defense to include with the initial funding request for any contingency operation involving the deployment of over 500 U.S. military personnel, a report outlining the objectives of the operation, and the conditions or date that defines the end of that operation.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recesses.

Subtitle C—Matters Relating to NATO and Europe

Limitation on United States share of costs of NATO expansion (sec. 1221)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1211) that would limit the amount spent by the United States as its share of the total cost of enlarging the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) to 10 percent of the cost of expansion, or a total of $2.0 billion, whichever is less, for fiscal years 1999 through 2011.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recesses with an amendment that would limit the U.S. share of the costs of enlarging NATO to include Poland, Hungary, and the Czech Republic to 25 percent of the commonly-funded costs, or $2.0 billion, whichever is less, for fiscal years 1999 through 2011.

Report on military capabilities of an expanded NATO alliance (sec. 1222)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1203) that would require the Secretary of Defense to provide a report to Congress by March 15, 1999 on the planned future requirements and military capabilities of an enlarged North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO).

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recesses with an amendment.

The conferees agree that continued U.S. participation in NATO advances U.S. national security interests in the region, as well as around the world. Additionally, the conferees endorse the concerns expressed by the House (H. Rept. 105-532) that information prepared both by the United States and NATO military authorities on the costs of enlarging the Alliance to include Poland, Hungary, and the Czech Republic was contradictory. However, the conferees understand that the differing information offered by the Department of Defense, the Congressional Budget Office, RAND, and NATO, in the varying reports submitted on the costs of enlarging the Alliance, as well as on the capabilities of the prospective new Alliance members and the future Alliance military capabilities and requirements, was the result of the use of different criteria and assumptions.

In an effort to compile all the information contained in the various reports of the DOD and NATO on the military requirements and costs of enlarging the Alliance, the conferees agree to a provision that would require the Secretary of Defense to provide a report to Congress by March 15, 1999 that would include information on the planned future military capabilities of an Alliance that includes Poland, Hungary and the Czech Republic, along with an assessment of the tactical, operational and strategic military requirements raised by their inclusion. The report is to include information on the military capabilities of the forces of Poland, Hungary and the Czech Republic, and their ability to achieve the minimum military requirements established by NATO prior to their anticipated accession to the Alliance in 1999, as well as the improvements to common Alliance military assets and to the national capabilities of current NATO members as a result of including these new prospective members in the Alliance.

In addition, the report is to include information on required improvements to the national military capabilities of prospective new members, and any additional necessary improvements to the common Alliance military assets to carry out both Article V of the Washington Treaty of 1949 and contingency operations.

Lastly, the report should include information on any additional assistance the United States may agree to provide on a bilateral basis to assist Hungary, Poland, and the Czech Republic in meeting additional requirements related to enlarging the Alliance.

Reports on the development of the European security and defense identity (sec. 1223)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1032) that would require the Secretary of Defense to submit a report to the congressional defense committees by December 15, 1998, and thereafter submit a report on a semiannual basis, on the progress achieved in establishing a European Security and Defense Identity (ESDI) within the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO).

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment.

Several years ago, the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) decided to build a European pillar within NATO that would enable the Western European Union (WEU), with the consent of the Alliance, to assume the political control and strategic direction of NATO assets and capabilities. The establishment of an ESDI within the Alliance is a welcome and extremely important development. With the worldwide commitments of the United States, the successful development of an ESDI is very much in our national interests, since it could enable the WEU to carry out operations without the participation of U.S. Armed Forces.

The conferees agree to a provision that would require the Secretary of Defense to submit an initial report to the congressional defense committees by December 15, 1998 on the plans developed and actions taken to establish an ESDI. Thereafter, the report shall be submitted on a semiannual basis and shall include information on the status of progress made in developing an ESDI. The submission of semiannual reports on the progress in establishing an ESDI would be terminated when the Secretary of Defense reports that an ESDI has been successfully established.

Subtitle D—Other Matters

Limitation on the assignment of United States forces for certain United Nations purposes (sec. 1231)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1044) that would prohibit the use of Department of Defense funds to assign any member of the armed forces to duty with the United Nations Rapidly Deployable Mission Headquarters.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment.

The conferees agree that not more than eight members of the U.S. Armed Forces may be assigned to the United Nations Rapidly Deployable Mission Headquarters during fiscal year 1999. Additionally, the conferees agree that no funds available to the Department of Defense during fiscal year 1999 may be used, either as a contribution to the United Nations to establish a United Nations standing international force, or to assign or detail U.S. Armed Forces to a United Nations Stand By Force.

Kyoto Protocol to the United Nations Framework Convention on Climate Change (sec. 1232)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1210) that would provide that no provision of the Kyoto Protocol to the United Nations Framework Convention on Climate Change, or any related regulation, could restrict the procurement, training, or operation and maintenance of the U.S. Armed Forces.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with a technical amendment.

The conferees note that the Kyoto Protocol has not yet been submitted to the Senate, and as such, a full Senate debate on the ratification of the Kyoto Protocol has not taken place. It is not the intention of the conferees, through this provision, to predetermine the outcome of the Senate debate on the advice and consent to ratification of the Kyoto Protocol.

The conferees are aware that the Department of Defense has undertaken a number of activities to achieve greater efficiency in its operations. These include a broad-based effort to improve the energy efficiency of its buildings and facilities and an effort to improve the fuel efficiency of trucks and combat vehicles for the purpose of reducing the fuel logistics burden associated with the deployment of armed forces. The conferees do not intend to prohibit or discourage such efforts, provided that they are undertaken for a purpose other than the implementation of the Kyoto Protocol.

Defense burdensharing (sec. 1233)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1084) that would amend section 1221 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 1998, placing more emphasis on increasing allied burdensharing in the area of military contributions to defense and could take one or more actions: increase financial contributions to the payment of nonpersonnel costs to the U.S. Government for the stationing of U.S. military personnel in a foreign country, increase annual budgetary outlays for national defense, increase the amount of military assets that a country contributes to multinational military activities worldwide, or increase annual budgetary outlays for foreign assistance by September 30, 1999. The Secretary of Defense would be required to report to Congress by March 1, 1999, on the progress achieved in increasing allied defense burdensharing. The Secretary of Defense would also be required to provide an assessment to Congress by March 1, 1999, of forward deployed U.S. forces permanently stationed outside the United States and the national security interests that support the forward deployment of the forces, as well as the cost associated with stationing these elements outside the United States, and potential alternatives to meet national security interests or alliance requirements.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with a technical amendment.

Transfer of excess UH-1 Huey and AH-1 Cobra helicopters to foreign countries (sec. 1234)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1215) that would require the Secretary of Defense to make all reasonable efforts to ensure that any excess UH-1 Huey or AH-1 Cobra helicopters that are to be transferred to a foreign country for flight operations are in the same maintenance condition that such a helicopter would require for operational use by U.S. military forces.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would require that any funds that are used for such maintenance be provided from funding sources outside of those available to the Department of Defense.

Transfers of naval vessels to certain foreign countries (sec. 1235)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1013) that would transfer, on a grant, lease, or sale basis, upon notification to the Congress certain ships to foreign countries.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with a clarifying amendment.

Repeal of the landmine moratorium (sec. 1236)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1205) that would repeal section 580 of the Foreign Operations Appropriations Act of 1996 (Public Law 104-107) which requires a one-year moratorium on the use of anti-personnel landmines by U.S. armed forces on February 12, 1999.

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1074) that would provide the President authority to waive, if deemed to be in the national security interests, the one-year moratorium on the use of anti-personnel landmines by U.S. armed forces as required by section 580 of the Foreign Operations Appropriations Act of 1996.

The Senate recedes.

Application of authorities under the International Emergency Economic Powers Act to communist Chinese military companies (sec. 1237)

The Senate amendment contained provisions (secs. 3601-3602) that would apply certain authorities under the International Emergency Economic Powers Act (50 U.S.C. 1701 et seq.) to business entities controlled by the People's Liberation Army of the People's Republic of China, as well as require the Secretary of Defense to compile and continually update a list, to be published in the Federal Register, of the communist Chinese military companies that are operating, directly or indirectly, in the United States.

The House bill contained no similar provisions.
The House recedes with a technical amendment.

TITLE XIII—COOPERATIVE THREAT REDUCTION WITH STATES OF THE FORMER SOVIET UNION

LEGISLATIVE PROVISIONS ADOPTED

Cooperative Threat Reduction (CTR) program (secs. 1301–1309)

The budget request included $442.4 million for the Cooperative Threat Reduction (CTR) program.

The House bill contained provisions (secs. 1301–1311) that would authorize $417.4 million for the CTR program for fiscal year 1999, a $25.0 million decrease to the budget request; allocate fiscal year 1999 funding for various CTR programs and activities; prohibit the use of funds for specific activities; prohibit the use of funds for the construction of a chemical weapons destruction facility in Russia and reallocate a portion of these funds to additional strategic offensive elimination projects in Russia and Ukraine; limit the availability of CTR funds; require that future budget requests for CTR include a descriptive summary and funding breakout of activities; would limit the use of CTR funds until various reports, notifications and certifications are received by Congress; require a report on biological weapons activities in Russia; limit the use of CTR funds for biological proliferation prevention activities in Russia; and limit the use of CTR funds for strategic offensive elimination activities in Russia and Ukraine in excess of the budget request pending the receipt of a report.

The Senate amendment would authorize $440.4 million, a $2.0 million reduction to the budget request, and contained provisions (secs. 1036 and 1041) that would require the Secretary of Defense to report to the congressional defense committees on the need for and the feasibility of programs to further U.S. nonproliferation objectives regarding former Soviet experts in ballistic missiles and weapons of mass destruction; and would authorize the Secretary of Defense to provide assistance necessary to destroy, remove or obtain from a country, weapons of mass destruction or materials, equipment or technology related to the delivery or development of weapons of mass destruction.

The conferees agree to a series of provisions that would authorize $440.4 million for the CTR program, establish sublimits for CTR activities and provide the Secretary of Defense limited authority to exceed established sublimits for fiscal year 1999, pending appropriate Congressional notification.

In addition, the conferees prohibit CTR funds from being used for activities related to peacekeeping activities with Russia, the provision of housing, assistance to promote environmental restoration, to promote job retraining, or for the provision of assistance to Russia or any other state of the former Soviet Union to promote defense conversion. The conferees understand that the provision of housing for decommissioned officers in Russia remains an issue for Russia as it reduces its strategic military forces. Although the conferees reiterate their strong belief that CTR funds should not be used to provide housing, they encourage the appropriate agencies of the U.S. Government with responsibility for this issue to explore the matter of providing additional assistance as appropriate and urge the President to report to the Congress on any recommendations. The conferees will continue to review this issue in the future.

The conferees agree to limit the use of funds for chemical weapons destruction activities in Russia, pending a Presidential certification regarding Russia's chemical weapons program. In addition, the Department of Defense is required to submit as part of the Secretary's annual budget request to Congress a descriptive summary of the funds requested for the CTR program, to include the use of prior years CTR funds.

With regard to biological proliferation prevention activities in Russia, the conferees direct the Secretary of Defense to report to the congressional defense committees by March 1, 1999 on Russia's compliance with international agreements related to biological weapons and to provide an evaluation of the costs and benefits of collaborative research efforts between the United States and Russia. In addition, the conferees agree to limit the use of funds for biological weapons prevention activities in Russia until 15 days after the Secretary of Defense submits a report to the congressional defense committees regarding the use of CTR funds for cooperative research activities at biological research institutes in Russia.

The conferees also agree to require the Secretary of Defense, in consultation with the Secretary of Energy, to provide a report to the congressional defense committees no later than January 1, 1999 on their estimate of the number of individuals in the Former Soviet Union with expertise in weapons of mass destruction and the risks posed by that expertise if transferred to states potentially hostile to the United States. The report would also include a description of the activities conducted by the United States and other nations to assist in the employment of these experts in non-proliferation and non-military related endeavors, and an assessment of such activities that should be reduced, maintained or expanded.

Lastly, the conferees agree to provide the Secretary of Defense authority to use funds authorized for the CTR program to provide a country of the Former Soviet Union with emergency assistance to remove or obtain from that country weapons of mass destruction or materials, equipment or technology related to the development or delivery of weapons of mass destruction. The conferees agree that no funds authorized for strategic offensive elimination activities in Russia or Ukraine shall be used for this activity. Except in certain limited situations, the Secretary of Defense shall not provide such assistance until 15 days after written notification is received by the congressional defense committees.

TITLE XIV—DOMESTIC PREPAREDNESS FOR DEFENSE AGAINST WEAPONS OF MASS DESTRUCTION

LEGISLATIVE PROVISIONS ADOPTED

Defense against weapons of mass destruction (secs. 1401–1405)

The Department of Defense forwarded with its fiscal year 1999 budget request a number of legislative provisions to expand the ability of the Department of Defense to respond to domestic terrorist activity and the potential use by terrorists of weapons of mass destruction on U.S. territory.

The House bill contained a series of provisions (Title XIV) that would express the findings of Congress regarding the threat of terrorist use of weapons of mass destruction and the need to enhance domestic preparedness to respond to such incidents (sec. 1402), would direct the President to increase the effectiveness of the domestic emergency preparedness program and to report by January 31, 1999, the actions taken to develop an integrated program for such response (sec. 1411), would provide for an annual report on the program and recommendations for its improvement (sec. 1412); and would require the assessment of the threat and risk of terrorist employment of weapons of mass destruction against cities and other local areas (sec. 1413). The House bill would also establish an Advisory Commission to Assess Domestic Response Capabilities for Terrorism Involving Weapons of Mass Destruction to provide recommendations to the President and the Congress for improvements in Federal, State, and local domestic emergency preparedness (secs. 1421–1429).

The Senate amendment contained no similar provisions.

The conferees agree that there is a need to improve domestic emergency preparedness to respond to the threat of terrorist use of weapons of mass destruction in the United States. The conferees are also aware that nearly 40 Federal departments and agencies are involved in combating terrorism (including the Departments of Justice, Defense, Energy, Health and Human Services, and the Federal Emergency Management Agency), and are concerned that the efforts of the Federal government to enhance domestic preparedness to respond to an incident involving weapons of mass destruction are hampered by incomplete interagency coordination and by the overlapping jurisdictions and missions of the various Federal departments and agencies. As a consequence, the conferees are concerned that state and local emergency response agencies are often presented with different and/or competing requirements and program priorities from the responsible Federal agencies.

The conferees are also aware of the actions taken by the President in Presidential Decision Directive 62, pursuant to direction contained in section 1441 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 1997 (Public Law 104–201), to establish the office of the National Coordinator for Security, Infrastructure Protection and Counter-Terrorism to oversee policies and programs in these areas. However, the conferees are not aware of specific actions that have been taken to insure an integrated, interagency program for improving domestic emergency response to the potential terrorist threat. The conferees are concerned that the Congress is not being kept adequately informed of the activities of the National Coordinator and the status of efforts undertaken to implement the responsibilities of the Office, pursuant to direction contained within section 1442 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 1997. The conferees direct the National Coordinator to provide the congressional defense committees with a report by March 1, 1999 on the status of activities and efforts undertaken to coordinate policy and countermeasures against the proliferation of weapons of mass destruction.

The conferees agree to provisions that would require the President (sec. 1411) to increase the effectiveness of the domestic emergency preparedness program at the Federal, State, and local levels by establishing an integrated program built upon the program established under the Defense Against Weapons of Mass Destruction Act of 1996, and to submit a report to Congress by January 31, 1999 that outlines the actions taken in this regard. The conferees also agree to a provision (sec. 1412) that would amend the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 1998 (Public Law 105-85) to include an annex to the report on oversight of counterterrorism and antiterrorism activities of the Federal government, submitted by the Director of the Office of Management and Budget, that would include information on the Federal government domestic emergency response program, and any recommendations for improving Federal, state and local domestic emergency response.

Further, the conferees agree to a provision (sec. 1413) that would require the Attorney General, in consultation with the Director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation and representatives of other Federal agencies and departments, and state and local agencies, to develop and test methodologies for assessing the threat and risk of terrorist employment of weapons of mass destruction against cities and local areas. Information from such assessments could be used to help determine the training and equipment requirements necessary for an effective domestic emergency response program.

Finally, the conferees agree to a provision (sec. 1421) that would require the Secretary of Defense, in consultation with the Attorney General, the Secretary of Energy, the Secretary of Health and Human Services, and the Director of the Federal Emergency Management Agency to enter into a contract with a federally funded research and development center to establish a panel to assess the capabilities for domestic response to terrorism involving weapons of mass destruction and to report to the President and the Congress recommendations for improvements in Federal, state, and local domestic emergency preparedness for such response. The conferees emphasize the guidance in the provision that the membership of the panel be drawn from private citizens with knowledge and expertise in emergency response matters, and direct that the recommendations of the local emergency response community be sought in the selection of the members of the panel.

Elsewhere in this Act, the conferees have included a provision (sec. 511) that would provide expanded authority for use of the Reserve Components to respond to domestic emergencies involving the use of weapons of mass destruction.

TITLE XV—MATTERS RELATING TO ARMS CONTROL, EXPORT CONTROLS, AND COUNTERPROLIFERATION

LEGISLATIVE PROVISIONS ADOPTED

Subtitle A—Arms Control Matters

One-year extension of limitation on retirement or dismantlement of strategic nuclear delivery systems (sec. 1501)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1043) that would extend by one year section 1302(e) of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 1998 (Public Law 105–85).

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with a technical amendment.

Transmission of executive branch reports providing Congress with classified summaries of arms control developments (sec. 1502)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1032) that would direct the Director of the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency (ACDA), or the Secretary of State (if ACDA is merged into the Department of State), to submit reports to Congress on a periodic basis summarizing the status of negotiations on arms control matters, and developments in the various arms control forums, in which the United States is a participant. These forums include the Joint Compliance and Inspection Commission, the Joint Verification Commission, the Open Skies Consultative Commission, the Standing Consultative Commission, and the Joint Consultative Group.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with a clarifying amendment.

Report on adequacy of emergency communications capabilities between the United States and Russia (sec. 1503)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1044) that would express the sense of the Congress that a direct line of communications between U.S. and Russian commanders of strategic forces would be a useful confidence building tool, and would require the Secretary of Defense to submit a report to the Committee on Armed Services of the Senate and the House Committee on National Security on the feasibility of initiating discussions between the United States and Russia on such a direct line of communication.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would require the Secretary of Defense to submit a report within three months of enactment of this Act on the status and adequacy of current direct communications capabilities between the governments of the United States and the Russian Federation. The report is to include recommendations for improvements, if necessary, to improve direct communications capabilities. In addition, the report would include an assessment of the feasibility and the desirability of establishing communications links between United States commanders in chief and their Russian counterparts.

Russian nonstrategic nuclear weapons (sec. 1504)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1070) that would express concerns of the Senate that the Russian nonstrategic nuclear arsenal, estimated to include around 7,000 to 12,000 tactical nuclear weapons, may pose a great threat in the world if they are sold or are stolen, and could become strategically destabilizing. Since the end of the Cold War, the United States has unilaterally reduced its tactical nuclear stockpile by almost ninety percent, and the Senate calls on the Russian Federation to live up to its pledges in 1991 and 1992 to implement steep reductions in its tactical nuclear stockpile. The provision would require the Secretary of Defense to submit a report to the Congress by March 15, 1999 on the current Russian Federation tactical nuclear stockpile, including an assessment of the strategic implications of using tactical nuclear weapons in a strategic role, as well as an assessment of the Russian command and control of its tactical nuclear stockpile and the threat posed by the possible sale, or theft of tactical nuclear weapons, and past, current and planned efforts of the United States to work cooperatively with the Russian Federation to reduce its tactical nuclear stockpile and related fissile material.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would express the concerns of the Congress that the vast Russian Federation tactical nuclear stockpile poses a grave threat to the world, and that the Russian Federation should live up to its pledges in 1991 and 1992 to significantly reduce its tactical nuclear stockpile.

In addition, the conferees direct the Secretary of Defense to submit a report to the Congress by March 15, 1999, including the views of the Director of Central Intelligence and the commander of the United States Strategic Command, on the current Russian Federation tactical nuclear stockpile, assessing the strategic and destabilizing implications of the use of tactical nuclear weapons used in a strategic role. In addition, the report should include an analysis of Russia's command and control of its tactical nuclear stockpile, and the threat posed by the theft, sale or unauthorized use of the warheads of these weapons. Lastly, the report should include a summary of past, current, and planned U.S. efforts to assist Russia in reducing its stockpile, as well as a summary of how the United States would cope militarily if Russia threatens to employ or actually use its tactical nuclear weapons in a regional conflict involving the United States or its allies.

Subtitle B—Satellite Export Controls

Satellite export controls (secs. 1511–1516)

The House bill contained provisions (secs. 1206–1209 and 1212) regarding the export of satellites of U.S. origin and their launch on space launch vehicles owned by the People's Republic of China (PRC). The provisions would prohibit the participation of U.S. persons in the investigations of satellite launch failures; prohibit the export of missile equipment and technology to the PRC; prohibit the export or reexport of satellites, information, equipment and technology to the PRC; and transfer the jurisdiction for licensing the export of satellites and satellite components to the Department of State.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provisions.

The conferees agree to transfer the jurisdiction for the export of satellites to the U.S. Munitions List, administered by the Department of State, effective March 15, 1999, and direct the Secretary of State, in consultation with the Secretary of Defense and the Secretary of Commerce, to report to the Congress by January 1, 1999 on steps necessary to implement the transfer in a manner that will permit timely and orderly processing of applications for export licenses, consistent with current law. The conferees understand that the transfer of these advanced technologies to the jurisdiction of the Department of State may result in the need for additional personnel to assist in the evaluation of license applications. To provide additional resources for this purpose, the conferees agree to a provision that would amend section 45 of the State Department Basic Authorities Act of 1956 to allow the Office of Defense Trade Controls of the Department of State to retain all registration fees, which are to be used for the payment of expenses incurred in acquiring additional personnel to evaluate and process license applications, as well as to improve the monitoring of compliance with the terms of the licenses.

The conferees also agree to a provision that would require the President to certify to Congress in advance of any export to the PRC of missile technology or equipment, as defined in section 74 of the Arms Export Control Act, that the export will not be detrimental to the U.S. space launch industry and that the export will not measurably improve the missile or space launch capabilities of the PRC. The conferees note that this certification is not, and is not intended to be, a prohibition on the export of U.S. satellites to be launched by the PRC, but is intended to ensure that U.S. national security would not be jeopardized by any such export.

In addition to the transfer of jurisdiction to the U.S. Munitions List, the conferees direct the President to implement a series of actions to improve the national security controls on the export licensing of satellites and their related items not later than 45 days after enactment of this Act. These actions include, among other requirements, ensuring the full reimbursement to the Department of Defense for the costs of providing launch monitoring services, to ensure that no unauthorized transfer of technology occurs, by the person or entity receiving such services with respect to a satellite launch in a foreign country. The provision also requires the Secretary of Defense to establish a program to recruit, train and maintain a staff of personnel dedicated to monitoring foreign launches of U.S. satellites. The conferees agree to provide an exception to these increased national security controls to countries that are members of NATO or are major non-NATO allies of the United States.

The President is authorized by section 902 of the Foreign Relations Authorization Act for Fiscal Years 1990 and 1991 to waive certain restrictions regarding the export of satellites to China, but must report to the Congress on the waiver of these restrictions. In addition to the report required by section 902(b), the conferees agree that a detailed justification shall accompany this report setting forth information related to the militarily-sensitive characteristics integrated within or associated with the satellite, an estimate of the number of U.S. personnel necessary in-country to monitor the proposed launch, a description of the U.S. Government's plan to monitor the proposed launch, the estimated cost to the Department of Defense to provide monitors for the launch and the amount to be reimbursed to the Department, and the national security interests for launching the satellite in a foreign country. The conferees direct the President to include information in the report regarding the impact of the export of satellites to the PRC on U.S. employment, including the creation of jobs in the United States or, in the event of a denial of an export license, the loss of jobs in the United States. Additionally, the report is to include information related to the balance of trade between the United States and the PRC and the transition of the PRC from a nonmarket economy to a market economy.

Lastly, the conferees understand that, with transfer of satellites and related items to the U.S. Munitions List, and the enhanced role of the Department of Defense in export control activities, there may be a requirement for additional personnel in the Defense Technology Security Administration (DTSA) (or any successor organization), to assist in the evaluation of license applications, as well as to monitor the foreign launches of U.S. satellites. The conferees expect the Department to include in its report to the congressional defense committees any requirements for additional personnel. Additionally, the conferees believe that the Department may have available through the On-Site Inspection Agency (OSIA) personnel who would be suitable to perform such monitoring tasks, as required by this Act, and direct the Department to report on the possibility of using OSIA personnel in the monitoring of foreign launches, as well as in the evaluation of, and compliance with, license applications.

The conferees emphasize that the agreement to transfer commercial communication satellites and their related items from the Commerce Control List to the Munitions List is not done with the intention of penalizing or harming an important U.S. industry or the competitive posture of the U.S. satellite industry. Rather, it is the intention of the conferees to affirm the importance of U.S. national security interests in considering the export of advanced technology to foreign countries, which might enhance or contribute to their military capabilities.

Subtitle C—Other Export Control Matters

Authority for export control activities of the Department of Defense (sec. 1521)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 904) that would invest in the Under Secretary of Defense for Policy responsibility for the overall supervision of activities of the Department of Defense relating to export controls and require a report on the plans of the Secretary of Defense to implement this provision.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The conferees agree to a provision that would establish a Deputy Under Secretary of Defense for Technology Security Policy, whose principal responsibilities would include the supervision and direction of activities of the Defense Technology Security Administration, or any successor organization charged with similar responsibilities, and other activities of the Department of Defense related to export controls. Because the position does not require Senate confirmation, the conferees express their view that this position be filled by a qualified individual with knowledge of the military implications of technology exports. The Secretary of Defense would be required to report to the congressional defense committees on the plans for implementing this provision, to include any organizational changes to the Department, and a description of the role of the Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff in the export control activities of the Department of Defense.

Release of export information by the Department of Commerce to other agencies for the purpose of national security assessment (sec. 1522)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1213) that would require the Secretary of Commerce to transmit post-export information to the Director of Central Intelligence, the Secretary of Defense, and the Secretary of Energy for the purpose of conducting national security risk assessments within five days of receiving a request for such information. The provision would also allow the Director of Central Intelligence, the Secretary of Defense, and the Secretary of Energy to delegate authority to other officials within their respective departments or agencies to request such information from the Department of Commerce.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would require the Department of Commerce to respond within 10 days of receiving a request for such information in order to conduct national security risk assessments. The amendment would expand the officials authorized to request information that is necessary to conduct national security risk assessments, to include the Secretary of State.

Nuclear export reporting requirement (sec. 1523)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1216) that would require prior congressional notification of the export or retransfer of special nuclear materials or production facilities, as defined by the Atomic Energy Agency Act of 1954, to any country that is not a member of the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development. The notification would be accompanied by a report describing the details of the proposed export, and would be submitted to the Congress at least 30 days prior to the proposed export unless the President determines that an emergency exists which requires its immediate approval.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would require the President to notify Congress upon the granting of a license for the export or re-export of nuclear material, technology or equipment by the Nuclear Regulatory Commission to countries determined by the President to have detonated nuclear explosive devices and that are not members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO).

Execution of objection authority within the Department of Defense (sec. 1524)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1214) that would amend section 1211 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 1998 to provide authority to the Secretary of Defense to delegate objection authority to a Department of Defense official at the Assistant Secretary level with regard to the export or re-export of digital computers with a composite theoretical performance level of more than 2000 millions of theoretical operations per second (MTOPS), or such other composite theoretical performance level that may be subsequently established by the President.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with a technical amendment.

Subtitle D—Counterproliferation Matters

One-year extension of counterproliferation authorities for support of United Nations Special Commission on Iraq (sec. 1531)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 1204) that would extend the authority of the Department of Defense to provide support to the United Nations Special Commission on Iraq (UNSCOM) under the Weapons of Mass Destruction Control Act of 1992 for one year.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 1042).

The Senate recedes with a clarifying amendment.

The conferees support the extension of this authority given efforts by Iraq to preserve a weapons of mass destruction capability and its interference with the work of the Special Commission. The conferees raise concerns that the weapons inspection process has been hampered by Iraq's flagrant violation of its obligations under the United Nations Security Council resolutions and its efforts to seek modifications to the inspections regime through the expulsion of U.S. inspectors and the suspension of the monitoring program.

The conferees endorse concerns expressed in the House report (H. Rept. 105-532) regarding continued provision of support by the Department of Defense for UNSCOM activities. The conferees agree that the United States should more vigorously undertake efforts to negotiate an agreement with the United Nations to reimburse the Department of Defense for expenses incurred in providing support to UNSCOM.

The conferees direct the Secretary of Defense, in consultation with the Secretary of State, to submit a report to the congressional defense committees by December 1, 1998 describing the efforts undertaken by the Department of Defense to seek reimbursement, the specific support activities for which reimbursement would be requested, and the results of discussions with United Nations officials on the request of the United States Government.

Sense of Congress on Nuclear Tests in South Asia (sec. 1532)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1071) that would express the sense of the Senate with regard to condemning India and Pakistan for testing nuclear devices and calling for cessation of nuclear testing, steps to prevent the transfer of technology that could further exacerbate the arms race in South Asia, U.S. and international mediation to promote peace and stability in South Asia and to resolve the dispute over Kashmir, the reevaluation of U.S. bilateral relations with both nations, and for India and Pakistan to establish active dialogue on differences to minimize the potential for future conflict.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would update and clarify the provision as a sense of Congress.

Report on requirements for response to increased missile threat in Asia-Pacific region (sec. 1533)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1086) that would require the Secretary of Defense to conduct a study of architecture requirements for the establishment and operation of a theater ballistic missile defense system in the Asia-Pacific region that would have the capability to protect key regional allies of the United States.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with a clarifying amendment.

The conferees understand the phrase "key regional allies of the United States" to include Japan, South Korea, and Taiwan.

DIVISION B—MILITARY CONSTRUCTION AUTHORIZATIONS

OVERVIEW

The budget request for fiscal year 1999 included $7,778,074,000 for military construction and family housing.

The House bill would authorize $8,228,074,000 for military construction and family housing.

The Senate amendment would provide $8,463,940,000 for this purpose.

The conferees recommend authorization of appropriations of $8,443,742,000 for military construction and family housing, including general reductions and termination of prior year projects.

The conferees urge the Department of the Army to allocate sufficient real property maintenance funding to provide for the repair and stabilization of the Forest Glen Annex.

Modification of limitations on general authority relating to base closures and realignments

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 2851) that would amend section 2687 of title 10, United States Code, to further restrict the general authority of the Department of Defense regarding the closure and realignment of military installations. The provision would reduce the current ceiling for closure actions from 300 civilian personnel to 225, and reduce the current ceiling for realignments from 1,000 civilians, or 50 percent of the total civilian employment at a base to 750 or 40 percent respectively.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Prohibition on closure of a base within four years after a realignment of the base

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 2852) that would amend chapter 159 of title 10, United States Code, to prohibit the Department of Defense from obligating or expending any funds to close a military installation that has been realigned within four years after the completion of any realignment that would reduce the number of civilian personnel employed at that installation below 225.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

Sense of Congress on further rounds of base closures

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 2853) that would express the sense of Congress that Congress should not authorize further rounds of base closure and realignment until all actions resulting from the 1995 round are completed and that the Department of Defense should submit forthwith the report required by section 2815 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 1995 (Public Law 103–337), concerning the effects of base closures on the ability of the armed forces to remobilize.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

TITLE XXIX—JUNIPER BUTTE RANGE WITHDRAWAL

LEGISLATIVE PROVISIONS ADOPTED

Juniper Butte Range withdrawal (secs. 2901–2919)

The Senate amendment contained title XXIX (secs. 2901–2919) that would provide for the withdrawal and reservation of approximately 12,000 acres of public lands, known as the Juniper Butte Range, Idaho, to support enhanced military training at Mountain Home Air Force Base, Idaho.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would ensure that environmental remediation of relinquished withdrawn lands conforms to existing legal requirements, strike the sense of the Senate regarding the monitoring of withdrawn lands, provide for indemnification of the United States against any liability related to mining activities, and make certain technical corrections.

The conferees direct the Department of the Air Force to develop a cooperative effort with the Bureau of Land Management, the State of Idaho, and Owyhee County, Idaho, to monitor the impact of military activities on the natural, cultural, and other resources of the lands withdrawn and reserved by this title, as well as other federal and state lands affected by military activities associated with the Juniper Butte Range. The Secretary of the Air Force shall ensure that budgetary planning includes sufficient funds to provide for the participation of the Department of the Air Force in such a federal, state, and local cooperative monitoring effort. The conferees expect that the budgetary planning of the Department of the Air Force will be consistent with the commitment made by the Secretary of the Air Force, in a letter dated June 11, 1998.

DIVISION C—DEPARTMENT OF ENERGY NATIONAL SECURITY AUTHORIZATIONS AND OTHER AUTHORIZATIONS

TITLE XXXI—DEPARTMENT OF ENERGY NATIONAL SECURITY PROGRAMS

Overview

The budget request for fiscal year 1999 contained an authorization of $12,280.2 million for the Defense Nuclear Activities. The House bill would authorize $11,879.5 million. The Senate amendment would authorize $11,920.9 million. The conferees recommended an authorization of $11,950.2 million. Unless noted explicitly in the statement of managers, all changes are made without prejudice.

LEGISLATIVE PROVISIONS ADOPTED

Subtitle A—National Security Programs Authorizations

Weapons activities (sec. 3101)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 3101) that would authorize $4.5 billion for weapons activities and an offset of $340.9 million to account for available uncostered, unobligated prior year funds.

The Senate bill contained a similar provision (sec. 3101) that would authorize $4.5 billion for weapons activities and an offset of $145.0 million to account for available uncostered, unobligated prior year funds.

The House recedes in part and the Senate recedes in part.

The conferees recommend authorization of $4.5 billion for atomic energy defense weapons activities of the Department of Energy, a reduction of $2.0 million from the requested amount of $4.5 billion. The amount authorized is for the following activities: $2.1 billion for stockpile stewardship, a reduction of $40.0 million; $2.1 billion for stockpile management activities, an increase of $62.1 million; and $250.0 million for program direction, a reduction of $10.5 million. The conferees recommend an undistributed reduction of $13.6 million to stockpile stewardship and stockpile management construction projects. The conferees further recommend an undistributed reduction of $178.9 million to operating and management and program direction funds to be offset by available uncostered, unobligated prior year funds.

Stockpile stewardship programs

The conferees recommend $487.0 million for the Accelerated Strategic Computing Initiative (ASCI) and Stockpile Computing program, a reduction of $30.0 million. The conferees note that even at this reduced level of funding, the ASCI program will experience significant growth over fiscal year 1998 funding levels.

The conferees believe that the Department has not fully justified the rapid growth requested for this program or the pace of acquisition of added computational capacities. The conferees believe that the proposed reduction will have no significant impact on the Department's stockpile stewardship and management programs. The conferees strongly encourage the Department to slow the rate of growth in this program in future fiscal years.

The conferees support the Secretary of Energy's commitment to fund cooperative efforts with the Pittsburgh Supercomputing Center. The conferees note, however, that the utilization rate of existing DOE-owned supercomputers is very low. The conferees direct the Secretary of Energy to report to the congressional defense committees on the justification for such leases, and whether any such leased capabilities can better meet the Department's supercomputing needs in lieu of planned acquisitions proposed within the ASCI program.

Stockpile management programs

Of the funds available for stockpile management, the conferees recommend an increase of $58.5 million for weapons production plants, to be allocated as follows: $25.0 million for the Pantex Plant to support scheduled workload requirements associated with weapons dismantlement activities and for skills retention; $15.5 million for the Kansas City Plant to support advanced manufacturing efforts such as the Advanced Development Program and for skills retention; $13.0 million for the Y-12 Plant to support maintenance of core stockpile management capabilities; and $5.0 million for the Savannah River Site to support infrastructure and maintenance activities.

The Senate report (S. Rpt. 105-189) encouraged the Assistant Secretary for Defense Programs to create a stockpile stewardship and management council to advise the Assistant Secretary on programmatic and budget issues related to the Department's weapons missions. The conferees address this issue in a separate provision in this title.

Consistent with the Senate report, the conferees direct the Secretary of Energy and Secretary of Defense to prepare a long range plan identifying pit production requirements, including quantities by warhead type, schedules, costs, and siting options. The report should also identify the military requirements and assumptions underlying each option and include options that reflect various potential stockpile levels. The report should be submitted to the Committee on Armed Services of the Senate and the Committee on National Security of the House of Representatives in both unclassified and classified form not later than March 1, 1999.

Technology transfer and education

The conferees recommend $59.0 million for technology transfer and education activities. Of this amount, the conferees recommend $10.0 million for the American Textiles Partnership project.

Program direction

The conferees recommend a $10.5 million reduction to the budget request for program direction. The conferees believe that the reduction can be achieved through continued efficiency savings to be gained from realignment efforts described in the Institute for Defense Analysis report on the Department's management structure for weapons activities.

Construction projects

The conferees recommend a reduction of $30.0 million to stockpile stewardship and stockpile management construction projects, to be allocated as follows: a reduction of $11.0 million from the chemistry and metallurgy research facility renovation project (95-D-102) to reflect continued delays and suspended operations at that facility; a reduction of $5.4 million from the nuclear material storage facility renovation project (97-D-122) to reflect delays in final design and deferral of planned construction activities; and an undistributed reduction of $13.6 million.

The conferees compliment the Director of Los Alamos National Laboratory on the establishment of an external evaluation team to review laboratory construction projects, including laboratory management practices, management tools, organization, and training. The conferees understand that the external team will make recommendations to the Director for systematic improvements to current practices. The conferees endorse this approach.

Tritium production

The conferees do not believe the Department's fiscal year 1999 budget request of $157.0 million for tritium production to be credible. The conferees note that the requirement to deliver new tritium by the year 2005 for the light water reactor and the year 2007 for the accelerator, as identified in the Nuclear Weapons Stockpile Memorandum, has not changed. The conferees believe that the Department's unwillingness to include funding for the acquisition of a new tritium source in its proposed out year funding plan is unacceptable. Further, the conferees note that the fiscal year 1999 budget request does not appear to be sufficient to complete the Department's own dual track tritium strategy. The conferees are very concerned that the Department did not request sufficient funds to continue evaluation of both technologies being considered under the dual track approach. The conferees recommend an increase of $20.0 million for design and research associated with the accelerator production of tritium option.

The conferees direct the Secretary of Energy to submit to the congressional defense committees a plan regarding how all fiscal year 1999 tritium funds will be allocated. The plan shall be submitted not later than 45 days after enactment of this Act.

Inertial confinement fusion

The budget request included $213.8 million for the inertial confinement fusion (ICF) program. The conferees believe that work by the University of Rochester's Laboratory for Laser Energetics with the Omega laser is an essential element of the ICF program. The conferees recommend the requested amount and direct that, within the amount available, the $29.0 million be allocated for the Laboratory for Laser Energetics.

Defense environmental restoration and waste management (sec. 3102)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 3102) that would authorize $5.8 billion for defense environmental restoration and waste management activities (also known as the Environmental Management program), including defense environmental management privatization, and an offset of $94.1 million to account for available uncosted, unobligated prior year funds, for a total reduction of $76.4 million to the budget request.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 3102) that would authorize $5.3 billion for defense environmental restoration and waste management activities, excluding defense environmental management privatization, and an offset of $21.0 million to account for available uncosted, unobligated prior year funds, for a total increase of $36.0 million to the budget request.

The House recedes in part and the Senate recedes in part.

The conferees recommend authorization of $5.4 billion for defense environmental management activities, excluding defense environmental management privatization, an increase of $85.9 million to the budget request. The amount authorized is for the following activities: $1.0 billion for closure projects, an increase of $32.0 million; $1.0 billion for site and project completion, an increase of $20.0 million; $2.7 billion for post-2006 completion, an increase of $71.0 million; $250.0 million for technology development, an increase of $57.0 million; $346.2 million for program direction, the amount of the budget request. The conferees recommend an undistributed reduction of $94.1 million to be offset by available uncosted, unobligated prior year funds.

Post-2006 completion

Of the amounts authorized for post-2006 completion, the conferees recommend an increase of $5.0 million to the National Spent Fuel Program to address regulatory and repository issues associated with Department of Energy owned spent nuclear fuel, an increase of $10.0 million to accelerate research and treatment of high level nuclear wastes at the Idaho National Engineering and Environmental Laboratory, an increase of $18.0 million to drain single shell tanks at the Hanford site, an increase of $30.0 million for augmentation of the Defense Waste Processing Facility operations and modification of in-tank precipitation process equipment at the Savannah River Site to address problems associated with the release of explosive benzene, and an increase of $8.0 million to assist the State of New Mexico with completion of a bypass around Santa Fe to accommodate shipments of materials to the Waste Isolation Pilot Plant. The conferees recommend full funding for the F-canyon and H-canyon materials processing facilities.

Site and project completion

Of the amounts authorized for site and project completion, the conferees recommend an increase of $20.0 million for the heavy water processing project at the Savannah River Site. The conferees understand that this project will result in net revenues to the government over the next five years.

Technology development

The conferees are concerned that the budget request for the Office of Science and Technology is inadequate. Recent departmental testimony to the Committee on Armed Services of the Senate and findings in the "Accelerating Cleanup—Pathways to Closure" report have identified that the Department cannot meet its accelerated closure goals without aggressive application of new technologies. The conferees agree with the Department's assessment of the need for increased use of innovative technology at DOE facilities. The conferees encourage the Department to revise its performance measures for facility managers to include the application of new technology in site cleanup activities.

The conferees encourage DOE to continue cooperative efforts with Federal and State regulators and non-profit organizations to facilitate the rapid deployment of innovative technologies at DOE sites. This effort should include cooperative efforts to assist the implementation of more uniform technology verification and regulatory acceptance criteria to DOE-developed technologies.

The conferees direct the Secretary of Energy to submit a report to Congress on the proposed uses of the $57.0 million increase in this account.

No funds authorized to be appropriated pursuant to this section are available to support, or enter into cooperative efforts in support of, the Russian Nuclear Cities Initiative, or any other foreign assistance program. The conferees continue to support cooperative programs with international partners that facilitate environmental cleanup or waste management activities at Department of Energy sites.

Off-site disposal of low level waste

The conferees are concerned that the Department has only one commercial low-level waste disposal option available. Although this facility has a satisfactory operating record and has proven to be a cost effective option for waste disposal, it remains the Department's sole large-scale commercial disposal option. The conferees encourage the Department to move forward with a national procurement, as announced by the Secretary of Energy, to initiate open competition for the Department's off-site waste disposal contracts.

Other defense activities (sec. 3103)

The budget request included $1.667 billion for Other Defense Activities for the Department of Energy (DOE) for fiscal year 1999, which included an offset to user organizations of $20.0 million.

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 3103) that would authorize a $33.6 million increase to the budget request.

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 3103) that would authorize a $5.0 million increase to the budget request.

The conferees recommend authorization of $1.716 billion for other defense activities, an increase of $27.0 million to the budget request, for the following activities: $679.3 million for nonproliferation and national security activities, of which $503.5 million is for verification and control technology activities; $168.9 million for fissile materials control and disposition; $89.0 million for environment, safety and health activities; $35.0 million for international nuclear safety activities; and $681.5 million for naval reactors. The amount authorized is offset by $20.0 million to account for user organizations, and is further offset by $2.0 million in uncosted and unobligated prior year funds.

Nonproliferation and verification and control technology

The conferees agree to a $3.0 million increase to the budget request for intelligence activities. The conferees also express their continued support for the broad participation of the Department of Energy national laboratories, including the Pacific Northwest Laboratory, Idaho National Laboratory, the Savannah River Site and industry in the research and development of forensic analytical technologies to detect and respond to radiological and nuclear threats and international nuclear smuggling events. Additionally, the conferees direct that the Department ensure that all research and development activities in the area of chemical and biological detection and defense be coordinated with the Department of Defense.

Russian reactor core conversion program

The conferees endorse the recommendation contained in the Senate report (S. Rept. 105-189) that the Department of Energy keep the congressional defense committees informed on the status of the Reactor Shutdown Agreement between the United States and the Russian Federation.

Nuclear smuggling and counterterrorism

The conferees direct the Department of Energy to report to the congressional defense committees not later than 30 days after the date of enactment of this Act on the use of funds made available in the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 1998 (Public Law 105-85) to plan and conduct exercises to prepare Federal, state, and local entities to respond to domestic terrorist use of nuclear materials and devices. Additionally, the conferees direct the Department of Energy to report to the congressional defense committees not later than November 1, 1998 on the status of the investigations of the sale of high performance computers to Russia and China, and steps taken by the Department of Energy and other federal agencies and department of the U.S. Government to recover such high performance computers.

Emergency management

The conferees agree to authorize the budget request of $23.7 million for emergency management activities to strengthen and expand the Department's support for domestic crisis and consequence management in combatting weapons of mass destruction terrorism and nuclear smuggling and nuclear material trafficking as well as to provide comprehensive, integrated emergency planning, preparedness, response, and management throughout the Department of Energy. The conferees agree that no funds authorized for the Department are to be used to provide support to state and local authorities for activities unrelated to providing appropriate emergency responses to natural and man-made disasters involving radiological hazards and threats.

Fissile materials control and disposition

The conferees recommend the budget request of $168.9 million for fissile materials control and disposition. The conferees are pleased with the approach being pursued by the Department in the fissile materials disposition program. The conferees authorize full funding for title I design for new materials disposition facilities. The conferees direct the Secretary to continue planning and design of such facilities.

The conferees agree that $25.0 million, as requested in the budget for the fissile materials control and disposition program, for cooperative efforts with the Russian Federation is adequate for this activity. With the exception of achieving agreement on a joint testing program, the conferees believe there has been insufficient progress achieved in negotiating the bilateral agreement with the Russian Federation. The conferees encourage the Department to continue its efforts to achieve an agreement with the Russian Federation on this program. In the interim, the conferees direct the Department to report periodically to the congressional defense committees on the status of efforts to achieve agreement on this program, as well as on the estimated cost and how the Russian Federation proposes to finance the program.

Security investigations

The conferees understand that the costs of conducting security investigations is borne principally by individual departmental program elements. The conferees further understand that the amount requested by the Department in the security investigations account includes funds that are also included in individual Departmental program element budgets and are, therefore, double counted. In order to reflect the true costs of such activities, the conferees decreased the amount authorized by section 3103(a)(1)(C) by $20.0 million to reflect those funds that are included in program element budgets.

Worker and community transition

The conferees recommend a reduction of $5.0 million to the worker and community transition budget request.

Environment, safety and health—defense

The conferees recommend an increase of $15.0 million to the budget request for defense environment, safety and health for health studies.

Naval reactors

The conferees recommend an increase of $16.0 million to the budget request for the Office of Naval Reactors to expedite decommissioning and decontamination activities at surplus prototype plant facilities.

Defense nuclear waste disposal (sec. 3104)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 3104) that would authorize $190.0 million for the Department of Energy fiscal year 1998 defense contribution to the defense nuclear waste fund.

The Senate amendment contained an identical provision (sec. 3104).

The conference agreement includes this provision.

Defense environmental management privatization (sec. 3105)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 3105) that would provide $273.9 million for defense environmental management privatization projects to be allocated as follows: $113.5 million for the tank waste remediation system project, phase I (Richland); $20.0 million for spent nuclear fuel dry storage (Idaho); $87.3 million for advanced mixed waste treatment (Idaho); $19.6 million for remote handled transuranic waste transportation (Carlsbad); and $33.5 million for environmental management/waste management disposal (Oak Ridge). The Senate amendment further authorized the use of $32.0 million in unobligated, uncosted, and undistributed prior year defense environmental management privatization funds.

The House bill contained a similar provision (section 3102) that addressed all defense environmental management funds, including $286.8 million for defense environmental management privatization projects.

The House recedes with an amendment that would provide $286.9 million for defense environmental management privatization projects to be allocated as follows: $100.0 million for the tank waste remediation system project, phase I (Richland); $30.0 million for spent nuclear fuel dry storage (Idaho); $87.3 million for advanced mixed waste treatment (Idaho); $19.6 million for remote handled transuranic waste transportation (Carlsbad); and $50.0 million for environmental management/waste management disposal (Oak Ridge). The conferees agree to offset this amount through the use of $32.0 million in unobligated, uncosted, and undistributed prior year defense environmental management privatization funds. The conferees direct that the offset be achieved through the use of: $15.0 million in fiscal year 1997 unobligated, uncosted balances to reflect the cancellation of the broad spectrum low activity mixed waste treatment privatization project (Oak Ridge); $10.0 million in fiscal year 1997 unobligated, uncosted balances to reflect cancellation of the waste water treatment plant privatization project (Rocky Flats); and $7.0 million in fiscal year 1998 unobligated, uncosted and undistributed balances.

The conferees note that the Senate report endorsed the transfer of responsibility for the Hanford Tank Waste Remediation System (TWRs) project to the Assistant Secretary of Energy for Environmental Management. The conferees address this issue in a separate section of this title.

Subtitle B—Recurring General Provisions

Reprogramming (sec. 3121)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 3121) that would prohibit the reprogramming of funds in excess of 110 percent of the amount authorized for the program, or in excess of $1.0 million above the amount authorized for the program, until the Secretary of Energy submits a report to the congressional defense committees and a period of 30 calendar days has elapsed after the date on which the report is received.

The Senate amendment contained an identical provision (sec. 3121).

The conference agreement includes this provision.

Limits on general plant projects (sec. 3122)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 3122) that would authorize the Secretary of Energy to carry out any construction project authorized under general plant projects if the total estimated cost does not exceed $5.0 million. The provision would require the Secretary to submit a report to the congressional defense committees if the cost of the project is revised to exceed $5.0 million. Such a report would include the reasons for the cost variation.

The Senate amendment contained an identical provision (sec. 3122).

The conference agreement includes this provision.

Limits on construction projects (sec. 3123)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 3123) that would permit any construction project to be initiated and continued only if the estimated cost for the project does not exceed 125 percent of the higher of: (1) the amount authorized for the project or (2) the most recent total estimated cost presented to the Congress as justification for such project. The Secretary of Energy may not exceed such limits until 30 legislative days after the Secretary submits to the congressional defense committees a detailed report setting forth the reasons for the increase. This provision would also specify that the 125 percent limitation would not apply to projects estimated to cost under $5.0 million.

The Senate amendment contained an identical provision (sec. 3123).

The conference agreement includes this provision.

Fund transfer authority (sec. 3124)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 3124) that would permit funds authorized by this Act to be transferred to other agencies of the government for performance of work for which the funds were authorized and appropriated. The provision would permit the merger of such transferred funds with the authorizations of the agency to which they are transferred. The provision would also limit, to not more than five percent of the account, the amount of such funds that may be transferred between authorization accounts in the Department of Energy that were authorized pursuant to this Act.

The Senate amendment contained an identical provision (sec. 3124).

The conference agreement includes this provision.

Authority for conceptual and construction design (sec. 3125)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 3125) that would limit the Secretary of Energy's authority to request construction funding until the Secretary has completed a conceptual design. This limitation would apply to construction projects with a total estimated cost greater than $5.0 million. If the estimated cost to prepare the construction design exceeds $600,000, the provision would require the Secretary to obtain a specific authorization to obligate such funds. If the estimated cost to prepare the conceptual design exceeds $3.0 million, the provision would require the Secretary to request funds for the conceptual design before requesting funds for construction. The provision would further require the Secretary to submit to Congress a report on each conceptual design completed under this provision. The provision would also provide an exception to these requirements in the case of an emergency.

The Senate amendment contained an identical provision (sec. 3125).

The conference agreement includes this provision.

Authority for emergency planning, design, and construction activities (sec. 3126)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 3126) that would permit the Secretary of Energy to perform planning and design with any funds available to the Department of Energy pursuant to this title, including those funds authorized for advance planning and construction design, whenever the Secretary determines that the design must proceed expeditiously to protect the public health and safety, to meet the needs of national defense, or to protect property.

The Senate amendment contained an identical provision (sec. 3126).

The conference agreement includes this provision.

Funds available for all national security programs of the Department of Energy (sec. 3127)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 3127) that would authorize, subject to section 3121 of this Act, amounts appropriated for management and support activities and for general plant projects to be made available for use in connection with all national security programs of the Department of Energy.

The Senate amendment contained an identical provision (sec. 3127).

The conference agreement includes this provision.

Availability of funds (sec. 3128)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 3128) that would authorize amounts appropriated for operating expenses or for plant and capital equipment for the Department of Energy to remain available until expended. Program Direction funds would remain available until the end of fiscal year 2000.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 3128) that would authorize Program Direction funds to remain available until the end of fiscal year 2001.

The House recedes.

Transfers of defense environmental management funds (sec. 3129)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 3129) that would provide the manager of each field office of the Department of Energy with limited authority to transfer up to $5.0 million in fiscal year 1999 defense environmental management funds from one program or project under the jurisdiction of the office to another such program or project, once in a fiscal year. The provision would extend the authority granted by section 3139 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 1997 by allowing transfers of funds among programs and projects in the Site and Project Completion, Post-2006 Completion, and Science and Technology accounts.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 3129) that would allow transfers of funds between programs and projects in the Site Closure Project, and Project Completion, and Post-2006 Completion accounts.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would allow transfers of funds between programs and projects in the Site and Project Completion and Post-2006 Completion accounts.

Subtitle C—Program Authorizations, Restrictions, and Limitations

Permanent extension of funding prohibition relating to international cooperative stockpile stewardship (sec. 3131)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 3132) that would amend section 3133(a) of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 1998 (P.L. 105–85) to establish a permanent prohibition on expenditures of funds for cooperative stockpile stewardship efforts with any nation except for France or the United Kingdom, or, as specifically authorized with nations of the former Soviet Union.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 3131) that would prohibit use of fiscal year 1999 or prior year funds to conduct such international cooperative stockpile stewardship activities.

The Senate recedes.

Support of ballistic missile defense activities of the Department of Defense (sec. 3132)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 3133) that would require the Secretary of Energy to make available, from funds authorized for Department of Energy atomic energy weapons activities, no less than $60.0 million for missile defense technology development in cooperation with the Ballistic Missile Defense Organization (BMDO) for the purpose of developing, demonstrating, and testing hit-to-kill interceptor vehicles for theater missile defense systems.

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 3132) that would prohibit the use of any funds authorized by title XXXI to support ballistic missile defense research, development, demonstration, testing, and evaluation. The prohibition would include studies and assessments. The provision would also prohibit use of Laboratory Directed Research and Development and laboratory overhead funds for such purposes.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would make available $30.0 million for technology development, concept demonstration, and integrated testing to improve reliability and reduce risk in hit-to-kill interceptors; science and engineering teams to address technical problems identified by the Director of BMDO which are critical to the acquisition of a theater missile defense capability; and other research, development and demonstration activities that support the mission of BMDO. The provision would require that any such activities conform to the joint memorandum of understanding between the Secretaries of Energy and Defense required by section 3131 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 1998 (Public Law 105–85). The provision would allow the covered activities to be funded through direct contributions or waiver of a Federal administrative charge, overhead costs, or other indirect costs of the Department of Energy or its contractors.

Nonproliferation activities (sec. 3133)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 3139) that would make $30.0 million available for the Initiatives for Proliferation Prevention (IPP) program and $30.0 million available to implement the initiative known as the "Nuclear Cities Initiative" (NCI) program pursuant to the March 1998 agreement between the United States and the Russian Federation.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would make up to $20.0 million available for the IPP program. Additionally, the provision would require the Secretary of Energy to submit a report to the congressional defense committees on the Nuclear Cities Initiative program and wait a period of 20 legislative days after the date on which the report is received prior to the obligation and expenditure of any funds.

The amendment would also require the report of the Secretary on the NCI program to include among other items, the objectives of the NCI program and the process and method by which the program will be implemented (to include the status of bilateral agreements), a timeline of the program and milestones to be achieved, and the funding requirements through the completion of the program. In addition, the report should include any information on the participation of other federal agencies and departments in the NCI program, as well as the participation of U.S. industry.

Licensing of certain mixed oxide fuel fabrication and irradiation facilities (sec. 3134)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 3133) that would require any person constructing or operating a new or operating an existing facility to fabricate mixed oxide (MOX) fuel for use in a commercial nuclear reactor to be subject to licensing by the Nuclear Regulatory Commission (NRC). The provision would also require the occupational safety and health of employees working at such facilities to be subject to regulation by the Department of Labor. The provision would exempt the Department of Energy MOX-related demonstration, testing, and research activities from such licensing requirements.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with a technical amendment.

The conferees do not endorse the wholesale external regulation of Department of Energy defense nuclear facilities and remain skeptical of the potential benefits associated with implementing new regulatory regimes at other new or existing DOE defense nuclear facilities.

Continuation of processing, treatment, and disposition of legacy nuclear materials (sec. 3135)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 3134) that would require the Secretary of Energy to maintain a high state of readiness at the F-canyon and H-canyon facilities at the Savannah River Site.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

The conferees note that this action was recommended by the Defense Nuclear Facilities Safety Board and is consistent with direction provided by previous authorization acts.

Authority for Department of Energy federally funded research and development centers to participate in merit-based technology research and development programs (sec. 3136)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 3135) that would amend the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 1995 (Public Law 103-337) to grant Department of Energy (DOE) sponsored federally funded research and development centers (FFRDCs) the same ability to compete for contracts as Department of Defense (DOD) sponsored FFRDCs.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would limit the authority to those activities conducted under contract with, or on behalf, of the Department of Defense.

The conferees do not support the concept of DOE FFRDCs competing directly or indirectly with the private sector. In implementing this authority, the conferees expect DOE FFRDCs to comply fully with all DOD and DOE policy guidance and regulations governing FFRDCs. The conferees expect DOE FFRDCs to focus on their core competencies, expertise, or unique facilities.

Activities of Department of Energy facilities (sec. 3137)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 3140) that would establish a uniform Federal administrative charge of three percent on all contract research activities carried out for non-Department of Energy (DOE) entities at DOE contractor operated facilities. The provision would eliminate the Secretary of Energy's current authority to waive the Federal administrative charge, except that the Secretary would be authorized to continue existing waivers, if the Secretary so determines, and would be authorized to waive charges for small businesses, institutions of higher education, non-profit entities, and state and local governments. The provision would authorize the Secretary to enter into a five-year pilot program at selected facilities to develop reduced overhead charges designed to recover all costs generated by external entities who may not utilize the full range of services at a DOE facility for which overhead costs may be charged. The provision would encourage the Secretary to establish a new small business technology partnership program to make DOE expertise and capabilities more accessible to small businesses, and would encourage the Secretary to pursue partnerships and interactions with universities and private businesses.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would allow the Secretary to waive the Federal administrative charge at all DOE facilities. The conferees did not include the small business technology partnership or partnerships and interactions provisions.

The conferees encourage the Secretary to continue the establishment of cooperative partnerships and interactions with universities and private industry at contractor-operated facilities where such interaction will help the Department better carry out its national security missions. The conferees further encourage the Secretary to create small business technology partnership programs at contractor-operated facilities where such interaction will help the Department better carry out its national security missions. The Secretary is encouraged to designate small funding pools at DOE sites to carry out such programs. The Secretary should include annually with the President's budget request a report on the effectiveness and applicability of any such programs to the missions of the Department of Energy.

Hanford overhead and service center costs (sec. 3138)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 3135) that would prohibit the use of certain fiscal year 1999 funds at the Hanford Site until the Secretary of Energy certifies to Congress that the Department does not intend to pay overhead costs of more than 33 percent of total contract overhead costs at that Site. The provision would prohibit the obligation of $12.0 million for reactor decontamination and decommissioning and $18.0 million for drainage of single-shell waste tanks at the Hanford Site until the Secretary completes the certification. The provision would further require that any savings that result from compliance with this section be retained for use at the Hanford Site to ensure full compliance with the Hanford Federal Facility Agreement and Consent Order and the recommendations of the Defense Nuclear Facilities Safety Board. In addition, the provision conveyed the sense of the Congress that overhead costs for contractors performing cleanup work at DOE facilities is out of control, that some increased overhead costs are a result of unnecessary regulation, and that the Department should take action to minimize any such unnecessary regulation.

The Senate amendment contained a related provision (sec. 3148) that would require the General Accounting Office (GAO) to conduct a review of Department of Energy (DOE) overhead costs, including the methods used to calculate direct and indirect overhead costs at DOE cleanup sites and the methods used to allocate and report such overhead costs. The GAO would be required to submit a report to Congress not later than January 31, 1999, to include the findings of the review and any resulting recommendations for standardizing the methods used to allocate and report overhead costs at DOE cleanup sites.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would require the Secretary to establish a target for fiscal year 1999 contract overhead costs at the Hanford Site and utilize any savings that result from lower overhead costs to perform additional cleanup activities at the Site and to comply with the Hanford Tri-party Agreement. The Senate amendment would further require the Defense Contract Audit Agency (DCAA) to conduct an assessment of overhead, service center, and other related costs assessed by the Project Hanford Management Contractor at the Hanford Site. The DCAA assessment would be submitted to Congress not later than March 1, 1999.

Hanford waste tank cleanup program reforms (sec. 3139)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 3136) that would direct the Secretary of Energy to establish an Office of River Protection at the Department of Energy's Hanford Site. The office would be headed by a senior official of the Department of Energy who would be responsible for managing all aspects of Hanford tank farm operations, including the Tank Waste Remediation System project. The provision would create a five-member advisory committee to provide advice to the new office. The provision would require the Secretary to submit within 90 days of the date of enactment of this Act an integrated management plan for all aspects of the tank farm operations, including the roles and responsibilities and reporting relationships of the Office of River Protection. The plan would address whether the office should be physically and administratively separate from the DOE Richland Operations Office. The provision would further require the Secretary, two years after the creation of the office, to report on any progress and management improvements that result from this provision. The Office of River Protection would terminate in five years, unless the Secretary determines that the office should continue.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would require the office to report directly to the Assistant Secretary for Environmental Management, but be physically located at the Hanford Site in Richland, Washington. The amendment also would eliminate the creation of the five-member advisory committee. The conferees believe the existing advisory structure at the site is adequate.

Hanford Health Information Network (sec. 3140)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 3138) that would authorize the Secretary of Energy to utilize $2.5 million within existing Hanford Site funding for the Hanford Health Information Network.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would authorize the use of $1.5 million within existing Hanford Site funding for the Hanford Health Information Network.

Hazardous Materials Management and Emergency Response training program (sec. 3141)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 3155) that would authorize the Hazardous Materials Management and Emergency Response (HAMMER) training facility in Richland, Washington to accept payments in kind in exchange for services.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 3137).

The Senate recedes.

Support for public education in the vicinity of Los Alamos National Laboratory, New Mexico (sec. 3142)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 3136) that would authorize the Department of Energy (DOE) to make a $5.0 million payment to a not-for-profit education foundation in the area around the Los Alamos National Laboratory to enrich educational activities of the local school system. The provision would require the foundation to place DOE contributions in an endowment fund, the corpus of which would remain in trust and the annual revenue used to support the local school system.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with a clarifying amendment.

This provision would extend the authority granted to the Secretary of Energy by section 3167 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 1998 (Public Law 105–85). The conferees expect the Secretary of Energy to make no more than five total annual payments to this fund for a total contribution not to exceed $25.0 million. The conferees note that the Secretary was authorized to make the first of such payments in fiscal year 1998. The conferees expect, that upon making the fifth payment or meeting the $25.0 million cap, all DOE assistance to the local school system will end.

Relocation of National Atomic Museum, Albuquerque, New Mexico (sec. 3143)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 3140A) that would require the Secretary of Energy to submit a plan on the design, construction and relocation of the National Atomic Museum located in Albuquerque, New Mexico.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would direct the Secretary of Energy to submit a plan to relocate the museum. This provision does not authorize the Secretary to proceed with a conceptual design of a new National Atomic Museum or to obligate any funds to implement any plan.

Tritium production (sec. 3144)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 3154) that would modify the Atomic Energy Act of 1954 (42 U.S.C. 2077(e)) to prohibit the use of tritium produced in commercial nuclear reactors for nuclear explosive purposes.

The Senate amendment contained a related provision (sec. 3150) that would require the Secretary of Energy to select a tritium production technology after completion of an interagency review regarding the proliferation ramifications of using a commercial light water reactor to produce tritium for nuclear explosive purposes, but not later than December 31, 1998. The provision would direct the Secretary of Energy to make the decision notwithstanding any provision of the Atomic Energy Act of 1954 (42 U.S.C. 2011, et. seq.), but consistent with the laws, regulations and procedures of the Department of Energy.

The conferees agree to include a provision that would prohibit use of any funds available during fiscal year 1999, including prior year funds, to implement any tritium technology decision made pursuant to section 3135 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 1998 (Public Law 105–85). This prohibition includes any construction or related activities. Nothing in this provision shall be interpreted to preclude the Secretary of Energy from continuing planned research and design activities on both technology options currently under consideration.

The conferees strongly support the Department of Energy's efforts to restore on a timely basis tritium production to maintain the viability of the U.S. nuclear deterrent. The conferees note that tritium is not a special nuclear material as defined by the Atomic Energy Act of 1954, and thus, unlike plutonium and highly enriched uranium, is not capable of sustaining a nuclear chain reaction. It is, however, a radioactive material that is vital to the performance of U.S. nuclear warheads.

The conferees endorse the United States' long-standing policy requiring the separation of civilian and military uses of nuclear energy. Concerns have been raised that the use of a commercial light water reactor to produce tritium might establish a precedent for other nations to use government-owned civilian reactors to produce materials for nuclear weapons programs. The conferees note that the Interagency Review of Nonproliferation Implications of Alternative Tritium Technologies transmitted to Congress by the Department of Energy in July 1998, as required by the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 1998 (Public Law 105-85), concluded that the nonproliferation risks associated with the commercial light water reactor option are "manageable." Implicit in this conclusion, is a recognition that the commercial reactor option could pose nuclear proliferation risks that might harm U.S. national security interests.

The conferees expect the Secretary of Energy to consider whether, or to what extent, the selection of a light water reactor would violate U.S. policy and might encourage other nations to divert nuclear materials from government-owned civilian reactors into nuclear weapons programs. In addition, the conferees expect the Secretary to assess any nuclear proliferation risk that any such outcome could pose for the United States.

The conferees direct the Secretary of Energy to select a tritium technology option consistent with the requirements of section 3135 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 1998 (Public Law 105-85). The decision criteria shall include the ability to meet the national defense requirements of the United States, nuclear proliferation implications, and cost.

In addition, the conferees direct the Secretary to submit to the Committee on Armed Services of the Senate and the National Security Committee of the House of Representatives, a comprehensive plan to implement the technology option selected. The plan should be submitted with the President's fiscal year 2000 budget and include a proposed implementation schedule, annual funding requirements for the life of the project, any legislation needed to implement the technology selected, and an assessment of the viability of purchasing tritium, if necessary for national security purposes, on an interim basis.

Subtitle D—Other Matters

Study and plan relating to worker and community transition assistance (sec. 3151)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 3151) that would repeal the requirements of section 3161 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 1993 (Public Law 102-484). Section 3161 required the implementation of a worker and community transition program to restructure the Department of Energy (DOE) private contractor workforce at the end of the Cold War. This section would also prohibit the expenditure of funds for the DOE Worker and Community Transition program after September 30, 1999.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would require the Secretary to develop a plan describing how the Office of Worker and Community Transition would be terminated and how the authority of that office would be transferred to Department of Energy program offices. The Secretary shall submit the plan to the Congressional defense committees not later than July 1, 1999. The amendment would also require the General Accounting Office to conduct a study on the effects of DOE workforce restructuring plans from fiscal years 1995 through 1998.

Extension of authority for appointment of certain scientific, engineering, and technical personnel (sec. 3152)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 3144) that would extend for one year the authority granted to the Secretary of Energy by the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 1995 (Public Law 103-337) to appoint certain scientific, engineering, and technical personnel in areas of nuclear safety and environmental clean up.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Requirement for plan to modify employment system used by Department of Energy in defense environmental management programs (sec. 3153)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 3152) that would prohibit the use of more than 75 percent of Defense Environmental Restoration and Waste Management program direction funds for fiscal year 1999 until the Secretary of Energy submits a plan for improvement of the Department of Energy federal employment system. The plan would address strategies to recruit and hire individuals for the Environmental Management program who are highly skilled and who have experience as project and construction managers. The plan would further identify any provisions of Federal law that must be altered to allow its implementation.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would require the Secretary to submit the plan to Congress not later than February 1, 1999, and would remove the prohibition on use of program direction funds.

Department of Energy nuclear materials couriers (sec. 3154)

The Senate amendment contained several provisions (secs. 3161-3172) that would allow nuclear materials couriers at the Department of Energy (DOE) to retire with full federal benefits after 20 years of service.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would apply eligibility for early retirement benefits only to those couriers who retire after fiscal year 1998.

Increase in maximum rate of pay for scientific, engineering, and technical personnel responsible for safety at defense nuclear facilities (sec. 3155)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 3142) that would raise the pay level for the excepted service authority provided in the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 1995 (Public Law 103-337) from Level IV to III of the Executive Schedule.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with a clarifying amendment.

The conferees expect this enhanced authority to assist the Department of Energy in attracting and retaining senior scientific, engineering, and technical personnel who possess the skills to perform critical nuclear health and safety activities at the Department's defense nuclear facilities. The conferees note that, in recent years, the Level IV pay cap has limited the Department's ability to attract and retain the highest qualified scientific and technical talent.

Extension of authority of Department of Energy to pay voluntary separation incentive payments (sec. 3156)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 3145) that would extend for one year authority granted to the Secretary of Energy by the Treasury, Postal Service, and General Government Appropriations Act, 1997 (Public Law 104-208) to pay voluntary separation incentive payments to certain Federal employees.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

The conferees expect this authority to be used to continue reductions in federal staffing levels in an effort to decrease costs and increase program efficiencies. The conferees do not intend this authority to be used for broad, untargeted staff reductions. The conferees expect the Secretary of Energy to utilize this authority, in conjunction with other authorities, to eliminate selectively those job classifications and positions that are no longer needed to carry out the missions of the Department of Energy. The conferees expect the authority to allow the Department to save money over the long term and reorient the DOE federal workforce to focus on the Department's most pressing problems.

Repeal of fiscal year 1998 statement of policy on stockpile stewardship program (sec. 3157)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 3141) that would repeal section 3156 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 1998 (Public Law 105-85).

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Section 3156 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 1998 addressed findings and current policies regarding the stockpile stewardship program of the Department of Energy. This repeal action does not represent a change in policy and is taken without prejudice. The conferees note that the findings and policy statements expressed in section 3156 are consistent with the activities of the stockpile stewardship program focused on ensuring that the United States possesses a safe, secure, effective, and reliable nuclear stockpile consistent with our national security requirements and treaty commitments. The conferees do not believe that such policy statements need to be set forth in law.

Report on stockpile stewardship criteria (sec. 3158)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 3153) that would require the Secretary of Energy to submit a report to the Committee on Armed Services of Senate and the National Security Committee of the House of Representatives by March 1, 1999, on DOE efforts to develop a clear set of criteria pertaining to the technical performance of science based stockpile stewardship program tools and their relationship to key nuclear weapons technologies. The provision would require the Secretary to identify the performance criteria that, if met, would offer sufficient certainty that the U.S. stockpile is safe and reliable.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would require the report to be submitted not later than March 1, 2000, and be coordinated with the Secretary of Defense.

Panel to assess the reliability, safety, and security of the United States nuclear stockpile (sec. 3159)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 1073) that would establish a six member commission to assess the reliability, safety, and security of the U.S. nuclear deterrent. The commission would review the safety, security, and reliability of the U.S. nuclear deterrent and the annual nuclear warhead certification process carried out by the Department of Energy weapons laboratory directors, the Commander in Chief of the United States Strategic Command, and the Secretary of Defense. Commission members would be appointed as follows: two members each by the Majority Leader of the Senate and Speaker of the House of Representatives and one member each by the Minority Leaders of the Senate and House of Representatives. The chairman of the commission would be designated by the Majority Leader of the Senate. The cost of the commission would be borne equally by the Departments of Energy and Defense. The commission would terminate three years after the date of the appointment of the chairman.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would require the Secretary of Defense, in consultation with the Secretary of Energy, to contract with a Federally Funded Research and Development Center (FFRDC) to establish a panel to assess the reliability, safety, and security of the U.S. nuclear stockpile. The panel would examine the annual nuclear warhead certification documents, the processes and assumptions upon which the certification is based, and the stockpile stewardship and management criteria to be established by the Secretary of Energy pursuant to section 3158 of this Act.

The conferees believe that in order to ensure an independent assessment, no employees of the FFRDC should be appointed as panel members.

International cooperative information exchange (sec. 3160)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 3156) that would express the sense of Congress that the President should instruct the Secretary of Energy to consult with the Secretary of Defense, the Administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency, and other appropriate officials, and submit to the Committee on Armed Services of the Senate and the Committee on National Security of the House of Representatives an assessment of whether the United States should consider favorably the "Advanced Technology Research Project" proposal which recommends establishment of an international project to facilitate the exchange of information on advanced nuclear waste technologies. The assessment should include a discussion of whether the proposal could be funded privately and administered by an international nongovernmental organization. The Secretary would also be required to identify any legislation required to carry out any such a project.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would express the sense of the Congress that the Secretary of Energy, in consultation with the Secretary of Defense, the Administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency, and the Director of the Agency for International Development, should prepare a report on those programs that currently facilitate sharing of information on international nuclear waste problems, and any recommendations to expand or consolidate such activities under a single international cooperative program.

Protection against inadvertent release of restricted data and formerly restricted data (sec. 3161)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 3146) that would amend section 3155 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 1996 (Public Law 104-106) by requiring all federal agencies, including the National Archives and Records Administration, to conduct a visual inspection of all records over 25 years old to ascertain that such records contain no information classified as restricted data or formerly restricted data. The provision would require that any records found to contain such classified information be set aside pending completion of a review by the Department of Energy.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would require the Secretary of Energy and the Archivist of the United States, after consultation with members of the National Security Council, and, in consultation with the Secretary of Defense and the heads of appropriate federal agencies, to develop a plan to prevent records containing restricted data or formerly restricted data from being inadvertently released under Executive Order 12958. The plan would include the following elements: (1) actions that will be taken to ensure that only records series that are highly unlikely to contain restricted data or formerly restricted data are released without a page-by-page review; (2) the criteria by which documents will be determined to be highly unlikely to contain restricted data or formerly restricted data; (3) steps to be taken to ensure proper training, evaluation, and supervision of declassification personnel to recognize restricted data and formerly restricted data; (4) the extent to which automated declassification technologies will be used to protect restricted data and formerly restricted data; (5) procedures for periodic Department of Energy review and evaluation of agency compliance with the plan; (6) procedures for resolving disagreements among agencies regarding declassification procedures and decisions; (7) identification of funding, personnel, and other resources required to carry out the plan; and (8) a timetable to implement the plan. Summaries of the periodic review of agency compliance would be provided to the President's National Security Advisor and to the Committee on Armed Services of the Senate and the National Security Committee of the House of Representatives. The amendment would halt the use of bulk declassification of any document covered by this provision until 60 days after the plan is submitted to the Committee on Armed Services of the Senate and the National Security Committee of the House of Representatives, and the Assistant to the President for National Security Affairs.

The conferees support current efforts to reduce the volume of information retained as classified. The conferees are, however, concerned that Executive Order 12958 does not ensure adequate protection of information classified as restricted data or formerly restricted data. This provision is intended to ensure greater review and scrutiny of those federal records that may contain information classified as restricted data or formerly restricted data prior to the bulk declassification and subsequent release of such records. The conferees do not intend this provision to slow down much needed efforts to reduce the amount of classified material maintained in federal archives.

The conferees believe that the President must ensure that each Executive Branch agency with custodial responsibility for the records described in the provision has available sufficient funds to carry out the requirements of this provision.

Sense of Congress regarding treatment of Formerly Utilized Sites Remedial Action Program under a non-defense discretionary budget function (sec. 3162)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 3143) that would express the sense of the Senate that the Office of Management and Budget should transfer funding for the Formerly Utilized Sites Remedial Action Program into a non-defense discretionary portion of the Federal budget in future years.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would modify the provision to be a sense of Congress.

Reports relating to tritium production (sec. 3163)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 3134) that would delay the date by which the Secretary of Energy must select a primary technology for the production of tritium from December 31, 1998 to December 31, 1999. The Secretary would be prohibited from selecting a primary technology until the date that is the later of 30 days following completion of the test at the Watts Bar nuclear plant and the date that the Secretary submits to the congressional defense committees a report on the results of that test. The report would provide information regarding the amount of tritium produced, data on the leakage of tritium from the test, and any other technical findings resulting from the test.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would require the Secretary of Energy to submit a report on the results of the test currently being carried out at the Watts Bar nuclear plant. The report would include data on the performance of the tritium test rods, the performance of the reactor, any leakage of tritium from the test rods, the amount of tritium produced, and any other technical findings resulting from the test. The Secretary would be required to submit to the congressional defense committees a preliminary report on the test program not later than 60 days after the test rods are removed from the Watts Bar reactor.

The amendment would also direct the Secretary of Defense, in consultation with the Secretary of Energy, to establish a task force of the Defense Science Board to examine the risks associated with each tritium production technology, the nuclear weapons proliferation implications of each technology, the ability of each technology to meet the national security requirements of the United States, and any other factors that the Secretaries of Defense and Energy consider appropriate. The Secretaries of Energy and Defense would be required to provide the task force report to the congressional defense committees not later than June 30, 1999.

LEGISLATIVE PROVISIONS NOT ADOPTED

Prohibition on Federal loan guarantees for defense environmental management privatization projects

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 3131) that would prohibit the use of Federal government loan guarantees for Department of Energy defense environmental management privatization projects.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

The conferees remain deeply concerned that the use of Federal loan guarantees are inconsistent with the concept of privatization in Department of Energy (DOE) environmental remediation projects. The conferees note that the Federal Credit Reform Act of 1990 requires that a large portion of the costs of Federal loan guarantees be appropriated in the fiscal year in which the project is initiated. This requirement would draw into question the cost effectiveness and desirability of any DOE privatization project that would rely upon such instruments.

The conferees note, however, that a recent General Accounting Office report on the DOE privatization program recommended a wide variety of contracting and project financing tools be made available to DOE to carry out privatized cleanup projects. Nevertheless, the conferees cannot envision many instances where Federal loan guarantees would prove beneficial to the Federal government.

The conferees intend to scrutinize any proposed use of Federal loan guarantees in DOE privatization projects to ensure that the concept of privatization is not violated. The conferees do not intend to authorize funding in future years for those projects that include a Federal loan guarantee, if utilizing a loan guarantee either removes the consequences of failure for the contractor or increases the cost of the privatization project.

The conferees direct that any use of Federal loan guarantees for privatization projects be made only in those circumstances where the Secretary of Energy certifies that (1) the loan guarantee is necessary for the contractor to obtain a private sector loan, and (2) the percentage of the loan amount covered by the loan guarantee does not harm the incentive for success.

Sense of the Senate regarding memoranda of understanding with the State of Oregon relating to Hanford

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 3147) that would set forth the sense of the Senate that the Department of Energy (DOE) and the State of Washington should seek to implement existing memoranda of understanding regarding cleanup activities at the Hanford Site in ways that permit continued information sharing and participation by the State of Oregon in those decisions at the Site that affect the public health or safety of the citizens of Oregon.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

The conferees encourage the State of Washington and the Department of Energy to continue those cooperative efforts with the State of Oregon that speed the pace of cleanup at the site and ensure appropriate participation by all external stakeholders, including the State of Oregon. The conferees note that the State of Oregon has executed memoranda of understanding with the State of Washington and with the Department of Energy. The conferees further note that the State of Oregon holds two seats on the Hanford Site Specific Advisory Board (SSAB), a group of regulators, stakeholders, and tribes that reviews clean up progress at the site and makes recommendations to DOE. The conferees believe that Oregon's participation in the Hanford SSAB and the increased access to information provided via memoranda of understanding with DOE and the State of Washington, provide Oregon with appropriate participation in Hanford cleanup programs.

Sense of Congress on funding requirements for the nonproliferation science and technology activities of the Department of Energy

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 3149) that would express the sense of Congress that the budget for nonproliferation science and technology activities for fiscal years 2000 through fiscal year 2008 should be increased each year over the preceding year by at least one percent above the rate of inflation.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes.

TITLE XXXII—DEFENSE NUCLEAR FACILITIES SAFETY BOARD

LEGISLATIVE PROVISIONS ADOPTED

Defense Nuclear Facilities Safety Board (sec. 3201)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 3201) that would authorize $17.5 million for the Defense Nuclear Facilities Safety Board (DNFSB) for fiscal year 1999.

The Senate amendment contained an identical provision (sec. 3201).

The conference agreement includes this provision.

The conferees anticipate that the report required by section 3202 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 1998 (Public Law 105–85) regarding which Department of Energy (DOE) facilities should remain under the jurisdiction of the DNFSB will be submitted on time.

The conferees are concerned that the implementation of an additional external regulation approach could draw scarce resources away from high priority, compliance driven cleanup actions and critical national security activities. The conferees believe no decisions should be made or actions taken until the findings of the DNFSB and the comments of the Secretary of Energy and the Chairman of the Nuclear Regulatory Commission have been provided to the Congress as required by section 3202 of the National Defense Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 1998 (Public Law 105–85) and the on-going external regulation pilot programs are completed and evaluated.

The House bill had no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would modify the quantity of materials authorized for disposal in order to generate receipts of $105.0 million by the end of fiscal year 1999 and $590.0 million by the end of fiscal year 2005.

The conferees expect that any sales of tungsten ores and concentrates contained in the National Defense Stockpile shall be made at a price that is no less than the market value at the time of the proposed sale (taking into account any specific location and as-is sale adjustments), and that the Department of Defense will fully consider the views of the Market Impact Committee concerning any projected domestic economic effect by the sale of these materials. The conferees also expect that the Market Impact Committee, in developing recommendations for the sale of tungsten ores and concentrates, will consult with representatives of producers, processors, and consumers of these materials.

Use of stockpile funds for certain environmental remediation, restoration, waste management, and compliance activities (sec. 3304)

The Senate amendment contained a provision (sec. 3304) that would authorize the use of funds from the National Defense Stockpile Transaction Fund to be used for environmental remediation, restoration, waste management, or compliance activities that are required under a federal law or are undertaken by the Federal Government under an administrative decision or negotiated agreement.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 3404) that would require the Secretary of Energy to dispose of that portion of the Naval Petroleum Reserve Numbered 2 located within the town lots in Ford City, California, by competitive sale or lease consistent with commercial practices, by transfer to another Federal agency or a public or private entity, or by any other means. The provision would further require the Secretary of Energy to transfer to the Secretary of Interior, administrative jurisdiction and control over the remaining lands within Naval Petroleum Reserve Numbered 2 after the Secretary of Energy makes a determination to abandon oil and gas operations.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The Senate recedes with an amendment that would permit, rather than require, the disposal of this property.

Disposal of Naval Petroleum Reserve Numbered 3 (sec. 3404)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 3405) that would authorize the disposal of Naval Petroleum Reserve Numbered 3 by sale, lease, transfer, or other means.

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 3403) that would require that the sale of any of the U.S. share of petroleum produced from Naval Petroleum Reserve Numbered 2, or Naval Petroleum Reserve Numbered 3, shall be made at a price not less than 90 percent of the current sales price of comparable petroleum.

The Senate amendment contained no similar provision.

The House recedes.

Treatment of State of California claim regarding Naval Petroleum Reserve Numbered 1

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 3408) that would eliminate the requirement for an appropriation before funds resulting from the sale of the Naval Petroleum Reserve Numbered 1 at Elk Hills can be distributed to the State of California in accordance with the Settlement Agreement entered into between the State of California and the Department of Energy.

The Senate amendment had no similar provision.

The House recedes.

TITLE XXXV—PANAMA CANAL COMMISSION

LEGISLATIVE PROVISIONS ADOPTED

Short title; references to Panama Canal Act of 1979 (sec. 3501)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 3501) that would provide a short title to the amendments to the Panama Canal Act of 1979 (22 U.S.C. 3601 et seq.) contained in this Act, and state that, unless otherwise noted, such amendments relate to the Panama Canal Act.

Purchase of vehicles (sec. 3503)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 3503) that would authorize the Panama Canal Commission to purchase vehicles built in the United States.

The Senate amendment contained a similar provision (sec. 3503) that excluded the requirement for the vehicles to be built in the United States.

The House recedes.

The conferees note that the Commission has previously purchased only vehicles built in the United States and encourage the continuation of that practice.

Expenditures only in accordance with treaties (sec. 3504)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 3504) that would ensure amounts authorized for expenditure by the Panama Canal Commission for fiscal year 1999 be spent only in accordance with the terms of the Panama Canal Treaties of 1977 and U.S. laws implementing those treaties.

The Senate amendment contained an identical provision (sec. 3504).

Sunset of United States overseas benefits just before transfer (sec. 3507)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 3506) that would sunset certain benefits to certain U.S. citizens employed by the Panama Canal Commission to clarify the conditions of employment intended to be continued by the Government of Panama after the transfer of the Canal on December 31, 1999.

The conference agreement includes this provision.

Central Examining Office (sec. 3508)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 3507) that would repeal an obsolete provision of law relating to the Central Examining Office.

The Senate amendment contained an identical provision (sec. 3508).

Liability for vessel accidents (sec. 3509)

The House bill contained a provision (sec. 3508) that would provide the Panama Canal Commission with a degree of immunity against claims for damages occurring while vessels transiting the Canal are under the direction of pilots employed by the Commission. The provision is intended to lower the costs of Canal operations by instituting a liability regime that would prevent claims against the Commission for $1.0 million or less in damages.

The Senate amendment contained an identical provision (sec. 3509).

The conference agreement includes a provision that would allow the Panama Canal Commission to prescribe regulations that limit its exposure to liability to those damages that exceed a specified threshold amount, provided that such threshold amount does not exceed $1.0 million, by requiring claimants to look to their insurers for compensation for damages below the threshold amount.

The conferees believe that a regulatory approach will allow greater flexibility for the Commission to implement any changes through procedures and on a timetable that will allow for consideration of maritime industry concerns. The adopted provision would also allow the Commission to set the insurance requirement, and thereby its immunity against claims, at a lower threshold if a level less than $1.0 million is determined, through consultation with interested parties, to be in the best interests of the Panama Canal and world shipping.

In light of expectations that the Panama Canal Authority, the successor agency to the Commission, will implement such a liability-limiting regime after it assumes stewardship of Canal operations, this provision is pursuant to the U.S. treaty commitment to facilitate transition to Panamanian control. The conferees expect that if damages during Canal transits increase significantly under any new liability regime, that the Commission, or its successor Panamanian entity, will consider a revised liability regime that minimizes costs for world commerce as well as for Canal operations.

TITLE XXXVII—INCREASED MONITORING OF PRODUCTS MADE WITH FORCED LABOR

LEGISLATIVE PROVISIONS ADOPTED

Increased monitoring of products made with forced labor (secs. 3701–3703)

The Senate amendment contained provisions (secs. 3701–3704) related to the monitoring of products derived from forced labor.

The House bill contained no similar provisions.

The House recedes with an amendment that would eliminate a provision containing findings, which emphasized products derived from forced labor from the People's Republic of China, strike direct references to indentured labor, including child labor (secs. 3701–3703), and eliminate a specific reference to mining products (sec. 3702).

The conferees note that forced labor includes convict labor, forced labor, and indentured labor, as such terms are used in section 307 of the Tariff Act of 1930 (19 U.S.C. 1301 et seq.). Accordingly, the conferees understand that indentured labor, to include child labor, is a category of labor included in the definition of forced labor as established in the Tariff Act of 1930, which thereby prohibits the importation of products made through the use of indentured or child labor. The conferees further recognize the importance of strong and enforceable laws relating to products derived from child labor, and emphasize that such laws should be enforced to the maximum extent practicable by the U.S. Customs Service.

TITLE XXXVIII—FAIR TRADE IN AUTOMOTIVE PARTS

LEGISLATIVE PROVISIONS ADOPTED

Section 3803 would direct the Secretary of Commerce to re-establish an initiative to increase the sale of U.S.-made auto parts to Japanese markets, and prescribe the functions of the Secretary in this regard. Section 3804 would direct the Secretary to establish a special advisory committee from the automotive parts industry. Section 3805 would provide that the authority under the Act shall expire on December 31, 2003.

The provision would reserve $100,000 of the funds authorized for Voice of America broadcasting for broadcasts in the Hmong language.

The House bill contained no similar provision.

The House recedes with an amendment that would delete the authorizations for fiscal year 1998, eliminate the requirement that certain broadcasts be in the Hmong language, and specify that the additional authorizations for fiscal year 1999 are with respect to appropriations for the U.S. Information Agency.
